Accused Marine Pleads Innocent In Death March

M'Keon Defense Will Contend He Acted Lawfully

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 17 (AP) — Marine S.Sgt. Matthew McKeon pleaded innocent today to charges arising from his orders to a recruit platoon to plunge into a black swamp in which six drowned.

The defense for the former drill instructor will now try to prove that when McKeon ordered his 74 men into the mud and water for disciplinary reasons, he was not acting unlawfully.

Mute On Drinking Charge

His pleas were entered before the general court martial board by his civilian attorney, Emile Zola Berman of New York City.

To charges that he had been drinking in barracks and before a recruit prior to the tragedy, Berman said, "the accused stands mute."

Under the Code of Military Justice, a mute pleading makes it mandatory for the law officer, in this case Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein also of New York, to accept it as a plea of not guilty.

While Berman was entering his plea, McKeon stood at rigid attention, his eyes focused on the floor. His wife, Elizabeth, was not in the courtroom.

Maximum Sentence Argument

Berman has said previously that his defense will rest chiefly on the contention that McKeon, regardless of Marine orders, was acting in accordance with accepted training methods at his 4,000-acre recruit depot.

There was a disagreement between the prosecutor, Maj. Charles Seiver of Jacksonville, Ill., and Berman over the maximum sentence McKeon could receive if convicted.

Berman contends the maximum is four years and nine months, and Seiver says it is six years and three months. The matter will have to be settled later by Klein.

The trial of the Worcester, Mass., Marine promises to be a long one lasting two or more weeks and one which will see previous Marine training methods thoroughly explored.

Stronger Civil Defense Vital, President Says

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the nation's civil defense must be made stronger because of "spectacular developments in weapons and methods of delivery."

He said this means, for one thing, that the federal government must take over "a larger responsibility in our national plan of civil defense."

Eisenhower made these statements in a letter to Val Peterson, head of the Federal Civil Defense Administration. He asked Peterson to sit in on Cabinet meetings hereafter "to help ensure that the Civil Defense program is fully integrated into our national planning."

Program Under Fire

The letter follows much criticism, at congressional investigations and elsewhere, of the present program.

Eisenhower said he would ask Congress next January to amend the 6-year-old Civil Defense Act to bring it up to date. He added:

"As we look back upon the rapid advance in aircraft and in nuclear weapons and forward to missiles capable of being catapulted thousands of miles, it is clear that the destructive capabilities of potential enemies have been outpacing our nonmilitary defense measures.

Attack "Invited"

"It is equally clear that no matter how crushing a blow we can strike in retaliation for an attack upon us, to permit our great centers of population and industry to lay exposed to the weapons of modern war is to invite both an attack and national catastrophe."

Eisenhower did not specify how he plans for the federal government to take a larger responsibility though he said Peterson's agency "must be empowered to work out logical plans for possible target areas which overlap state and municipal boundaries."

Steel Companies Meet In Secret

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Representatives of big steel companies held a secret huddle here today to review the strike situation which brought the vast industry to a standstill July 1.

There was no announcement of the meeting place or other details.

The only information available was that representatives of the 12 leading steel firms were present and that there would be no statement of any kind afterward.

Negotiations, which so far have failed to give any hint of a break in the deadlock, are to be resumed in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel and chief company negotiator, said in Pittsburgh yesterday that the 12 companies had not held a conference on the situation since before the strike began.

He added, however, that the talks here did not necessarily mean a new company offer to the United Steelworkers was under consideration.

House Passes New Military Projects Bill

Measure Stripped Of Features Which Led To Veto By Ike

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The House today heeded an "urgent" call from President Eisenhower and rushed through a new military construction bill stripped of provisions he had labeled unconstitutional.

Senators, expressing surprise at the extraordinary speed, said they would insist on "a bit more deliberate" consideration of the $2,138,886,000 measure.

Money features of the bill are the same as those in one Eisenhower vetoed yesterday. But the new version eliminates veto authority previously included for the Senate and House Armed Services Committees over construction of Talos missile sites and family housing for military personnel.

Parliamentry Tape Cut

Eisenhower had objected that this "would destroy the clear lines of responsibility which the Constitution provides" between the executive and legislative branches of government.

He vetoed the bill with an "urgent recommendation" that it be re-enacted without the requirement of advance committee approval for missile and housing projects.

Slashing through the usual parliamentary tape, the House Armed Services Committee approved the new measure this morning and then the full House passed it by unanimous consent. Only about 100 members were on the floor at the time.

Senate To Take More Time

The Defense Department needs the legislation to get on with building projects at hundreds of Army, Navy and Air Force installations in this country and overseas.

Senate Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas said the Senate would not duplicate the speed of the House.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said he was surprised that the House acceded to the President's request without determining "the possibility of securing some provision that would give the Congress a chance to curb some of the known extravagance and waste in the Defense Department."

Tot Killed When Car Jumps Curb

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—A 3-year-old boy was killed and a woman and four children injured today when a car involved in an accident jumped a curb and plowed into a group of people standing on a sidewalk.

Police identified the victim as James Lipscomb. The child's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lipscomb, and his 7-year-old twin sisters, Carolyn and Madeline, were taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital. Also admitted were Carol Ann Templeman, 12, and her sister, Sharon, 3.

The accident occurred in East Baltimore. Police said a car driven by Roy Hughes and another driven by Dominic Varella sideswiped on Monument Street near Patterson Park Avenue.

Witnesses said the Hughes car shot up over the curb after the collision and plowed into the pedestrians.

Egypt Will Turn To West For Aid; Ike Opposes Ban

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles told Republican Senate leaders today they are strongly opposed to a Senate Appropriations Committee ban on funds for the proposed Aswan Dam in Egypt.

Eisenhower was reported to have backed Dulles fully in the latter's complaint, at a White House conference, that the committee's action would tie the State Department's hands in delicate negotiations now under way with Egypt.

Egypt's Ambassador Ahmed Hussein, has just announced that his country has definitely decided to turn to the West, instead of Russia, for money needed to launch the $1,300,000,000 Nile River project.

Decisions Up To West

"All the decisions now are up to Washington and London," he told reporters upon his return from Cairo today. "We have decided what we want to do—take assistance from the West. It all depends on them."

Dulles followed up the White House meeting by writing a letter to Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz) of the Appropriations Committee. It said:

"I think I should make it clear the executive department of the government would not feel bound by the language in the Senate Appropriations Committee report."

The secretary of state evidently was making the point that he was willing to "consult" with the committee before making any Aswan Dam commitments but did not want to be bound to get the committee's approval before acting.

Committee Stop Order

In approving the $4,105,000,000 foreign aid money bill, the committee wrote into its report the following statement:

"The committee directs that none of the funds provided in this act shall be used for assistance in connection with the construction of the Aswan Dam, nor shall any of the funds heretofore provided under the Mutual Security Act as amended be used on this dam without prior approval of the committee on appropriations."

The action, taken on the voice vote with the acquiescence of Sen. Knowland of California, the minority leader, had the practical effect of a stop order on the spending of any funds.

However, since the committee only wrote this provision into its report and did not incorporate it into the money bill itself, Eisenhower and Dulles legally could ignore it if they chose.

Efforts To Get Senate Unit To Take Action On 'Rights' Bills Fail

House Expected To Take Vote On Friday

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The House moved slowly today toward expected passage of the civil rights bill, but an attempt to get action in the Senate Judiciary Committee got nowhere.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) tried to get a committee vote on four civil rights bills that have been approved by a subcommittee he heads. The parliamentary situation required unanimous consent.

Hennings told reporters his motion was blocked by an objection; he would not say who raised it.

The Hennings bills, like one pending before the House, are aimed at what sponsors call the deprivation of Negroes of their civil rights—including voting—in Southern states.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) obtained permission from the Senate yesterday for the Judiciary Committee to meet today and consider a list of specific bills and "any others that may be brought up by unanimous consent." Under this language it was possible for any committee member to block the legislation.

The committee did not get through the bills on its list, let alone any additional ones. Aides said Eastland told the committee he would try to arrange for another meeting before Congress adjourns.

At the White House, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, said he thought the House would take a vote Friday. He predicted 2-1 approval.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader who also attended a conference of GOP congressional leaders with President Eisenhower, said the bill could be passed in the Senate "if a filibuster can be averted." Eisenhower has asked for its passage.

Southern senators have talked to death previous civil rights proposals and are in a position to do so again, with Congress now headed for adjournment.

The bill before the House, bearing the name of Rep. Celler (D-NY), embraces the Eisenhower proposals that it be made easier to take civil rights complaints to federal courts, that the attorney general be authorized to file suits in behalf of individuals, and that a bipartisan civil rights commission be created, along with a special civil rights division in the Justice Department.

Psychiatrist's Office Bombed

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP) — A homemade bomb damaged the front of the office of psychiatrist Dr. Frank J. Ayd Jr., today, but no one was hurt.

Dr. Ayd, 34, and his wife, are in Rome, where he is lecturing.

Nine persons, including seven children, were in the combined residence-office when the bomb went off but all slept through it.

In the north Baltimore home were six of the Ayd's 10 children and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brockmeyer, and their daughter. The Brockmeyers are caring for the Ayd children while the parents are away.

The bomb, which police said was fashioned from about a foot long length of pipe, blew out a panel and three panes of a door, shattered two other windows and bent an iron railing.

Dr. Ayd is chief of psychiatry at Franklin Square Hospital.

Woman Who Wed Again Told Mate May Be Prisoner

DETROIT, July 17 (AP)—Notified that her former husband may be a prisoner of the Russians, a woman who has since remarried said today, "We'll have to wait and see what happens."

Mrs. Edward J. Howard of Ann Arbor remarried in December, 1955, and is expecting a child. Her former husband, Lt. (j.g.) Robert D. Reynolds, was declared legally dead by the Defense Department a year after being reported missing aboard a Navy Privateer lost over the Baltic April 8, 1950.

Another Michigan man, Joseph J. Bourassa, a radioman from Linwood, near Bay City, also was aboard the plane.

Families of the two men said they had heard nothing beyond the report of John H. Noble in January, 1955, when Noble was released after nine years in a Communist prison camp. Noble said he heard reports that several of the airmen from the Privateer still were Red prisoners.

Mrs. Howard has two daughters by Reynolds, one born after he was lost. Howard, 33, is employed in the plant department at the University of Michigan.

Former Illinois Auditor Offers To Repay State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 17 (AP)—Orville E. Hodge today offered to make restitution at least in part of missing state funds, while Democratic leaders called for a "top-to-bottom" investigation of Illinois' Republican administration.

Hodge, who resigned as state auditor yesterday at the insistance of Gov. William G. Stratton, said he would reimburse the state "to the full extent of my resources" and make a full disclosure of his activities before a grand jury.

Later today, Stratton announced that Lloyd Morey, president emeritus of the University of Illinois, had agreed to serve out the balance of Hodge's term as state auditor.

In Chicago, Adlai Stevenson, Stratton's predecessor as governor, released a statement from his office which mentioned sponsorship of statewide broadcasts by Hodge last spring urging a heavy primary vote for President Eisenhower.

It would "be interesting," Stevenson said, to know the source of the funds Hodge used for the broadcasts.

Questions Unanswered

Hodge, too, couched his statement in a typewritten release, refusing to answer questions of reporters. He passed out copies after a conference with State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon attended by his attorney, Arthur M. Fitzgerald.

"I will appear before the grand jury next Monday and make a full disclosure of all transactions during my administration as auditor," Hodge said.

"I will sign an immunity waiver, I have also written Gov. Stratton, assuring him that, to the full extent of my resources, I will make restitution and attempt to hold the state of Illinois from any loss because of my actions."

42 Warrants Cashed

Coutrakon said that at least 42 state warrants were issued by the state auditor and cashed for $544,000 under questionable circumstances. The state's attorney said he had evidence that some of the warrants were cashed for officials of the state auditor's office at the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co. in Chicago.

Stevenson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination this year, said "It is hard to believe that no more than one man is involved" and a "full scale investigation of the Stratton administration would seem to be called for in order to restore the people's confidence."

Lowers Age Of Retirement For Women

Disabled Persons Would Get Benefits Starting At Age 50

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed the Social Security bill carrying a trail-breaking program of benefits for disabled persons starting at age 50 and lowering the retirement age for women from 65 to 62.

The vote was 90-0.

The measure now goes to conference with the House, which voted the same benefits overwhelmingly a year ago 372 to 31. But there were several differences to be adjusted before the bill can go to President Eisenhower.

The final Senate product represented a big victory for the Senate Democratic leadership in the face of strong opposition from the Eisenhower administration.

The Senate Finance Committee under the leadership of Sen. Byrd (D-Va), and at the request of the administration, had largely stripped from the bill both the disability provision and the lowered retirement age for women.

Campaign Material

Senate Democratic leaders holding up votes on the measure, fought an uphill battle in the last few weeks to find acceptable compromises to put them back in.

Democrats have made it clear they expect to use the measure as prime campaign material this fall, whether the President signs or vetoes it.

The Democrats had their closest squeak on the disability benefits, but got this back into the bill 47-45 after a dramatic appeal for it by Sen. George (D-Ga), retiring this year as dean of the Senate after 34 years of service.

Under the George amendment, persons covered by Social Security who become permanently and totally disabled at age 50 will be able to receive checks averaging about $75 a month as a matter of right.

Provision Voted 86-7

Rebuffing the Eisenhower administration, which opposed both provisions, the chamber wrote the earlier retirement for women into the Social Security bill by an overwhelming 86-7 vote. At present, women, like men, must wait until they are 65 before drawing old age insurance payments.

The disability payments—a new concept in the U. S. Social Security system—were championed by Sen. George (D-Ga) and the 47-45 vote approving them was a personal victory for that veteran senator, who is retiring from Congress at the end of the year.

Both provisions were in the bill which passed the House last year 372-31. But they were largely stripped from the measure this year by the Senate Finance Committee at the request of the Eisenhower administration.

East Germany, Russia Tighten Economic Links

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)—The Soviet Union and Communist East Germany announced today new economic links that will prevent closer East German relations with the West, especially with West Germany.

Government and party leaders of the two Red regimes took part in negotiations that also crushed Western hopes for free elections to unify Germany.

A joint declaration said direct talks between the leaders of East and West Germany are the only way to German unification. The declaration also attacked conscription in West Germany in a NATO buildup and called on Britain, France and the United States to reduce occupation troops in Germany.

In the economic agreement, the Soviet Union agreed to cut in half occupation payments from East Germany, beginning next Jan. 1, reducing them to 800 million Eastmarks. (East Germany's news agency ADN said this is equivalent to 47½ million dollars at the open market value of the Eastmark.)

The two groups confirmed agreements for a substantial increase during 1956 in mutual trade deliveries. No figures were given.

The Soviet Union also agreed to design and supply necessary equipment for a 100,000 kilowatt atomic power station in East Germany.

Cancer Injections Cause Reactions In Volunteers

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—A cancer expert said today that 14 Ohio State Penitentiary inmates have experienced marked reactions to live cancer cell injections.

The 14 volunteers were injected nearly a month ago. The purpose was to study the body's resistance to cancerous cells, not to try to transmit the disease itself.

Dr. Chester M. Southam, one of two staff members conducting the research for Sloan-Kettering Institute here, reported:

"We are more favorably impressed with the results to date than with any prior tests we have made."

He said the inmates experienced "a marked local reaction" at the site where the live cancer cells were injected.

This, he added, was the result of antibodies and cellular defenses—the body's means of fighting infection.

Dr. Southam said it is too early to draw any conclusions from the experiments. For example, he explained, the same reaction might be obtained by other forms of injections. But he declared:

"These normal men have shown a more marked defense reaction than have people, known to have cancer, who have been similarly injected."

He said additional laboratory tests must be made and further skin sections removed from the men.

"Condition of the skin surrounding injected live cells upon removal helps to tell us a story," he reported.

Metropolitan Cancels Its 1956-1957 Season

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Assn. announced tonight the cancellation of its 1956-1957 season.

The association said the cancellation resulted from failure to reach agreement in a lengthy dispute with the American Guild of Musical Artists, which represents the opera's singers and ballet dancers.

France Turns Down Russian Proposal

PARIS, July 17 (AP) — Premier Guy Mollet today turned down a Russian proposal to reduce French occupation forces in Germany on the ground that it was "not truly of a nature to assure a relaxation of tension."

Premier Bulganin made the suggestion in a letter June 6. The French reply was delivered to the Soviet Foreign Minister in Moscow today.

West Freedoms Ridiculed By Red Boss Khrushchev

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev ridiculed the West and its freedoms tonight at a Kremlin banquet for East German Communist leaders. It was reminiscent of the colder cold war days.

The party chief called Western democracy a sham, said its freedom was only for monopoly capitalists to plunder workers "and shear them like sheep," and charged that the Western press and radio served monopolists.

Khrushchev said the West "could not strangle us in 1917 and 1918, when we stood alone. How can they do it now?" he demanded.

"I won't underestimate their strength but on the socialist side the strength is not negligible."

A picked audience of Soviet officials and members of satellite and neutral embassies several times interrupted the 45-minute tirade with appreciative laughter. Khrushchev himself frequently bubbled over with mirth.

"The Western powers, that is the captalist powers, like to call themselves free countries, the free world (laughter), but this is the free world we liberated ourselves from 39 years ago (more laughter) and we wouldn't be tempted back if they offered it to us on a platter," he said.

He scored what he said was the crushing of a legally elected government in Guatemala and refusal of the free world to allow elections in Indochina.

Egypt Will Turn To West For Aid; Ike Opposes Ban

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles told Republican Senate leaders today they are strongly opposed to a Senate Appropriations Committee ban on funds for the proposed Aswan Dam in Egypt.

Eisenhower was reported to have backed Dulles fully in the latter's complaint, at a White House conference, that the committee's action would tie the State Department's hands in delicate negotiations now under way with Egypt.

Egypt's Ambassador Ahmed Hussein, has just announced that his country has definitely decided to turn to the West, instead of Russia, for money needed to launch the $1,300,000,000 Nile River project.

Decisions Up To West

"All the decisions now are up to Washington and London," he told reporters upon his return from Cairo today. "We have decided what we want to do—take assistance from the West. It all depends on them."

Dulles followed up the White House meeting by writing a letter to Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz) of the Appropriations Committee. It said:

"I think I should make it clear the executive department of the government would not feel bound by the language in the Senate Appropriations Committee report."

The secretary of state evidently was making the point that he was willing to "consult" with the committee before making any Aswan Dam commitments but did not want to be bound to get the committee's approval before acting.

Committee Stop Order

In approving the $4,105,000,000 foreign aid money bill, the committee wrote into its report the following statement:

"The committee directs that none of the funds provided in this act shall be used for assistance in connection with the construction of the Aswan Dam, nor shall any of the funds heretofore provided under the Mutual Security Act as amended be used on this dam without prior approval of the committee on appropriations."

The action, taken on the voice vote with the acquiescence of Sen. Knowland of California, the minority leader, had the practical effect of a stop order on the spending of any funds.

However, since the committee only wrote this provision into its report and did not incorporate it into the money bill itself, Eisenhower and Dulles legally could ignore it if they chose.

Metropolitan Cancels Its 1956-1957 Season

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera Assn. announced tonight the cancellation of its 1956-1957 season.

The association said the cancellation resulted from failure to reach agreement in a lengthy dispute with the American Guild of Musical Artists, which represents the opera's singers and ballet dancers.

Efforts To Get Senate Unit To Take Action On 'Rights' Bills Fail

House Expected To Take Vote On Friday

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The House moved slowly today toward expected passage of the civil rights bill, but an attempt to get action in the Senate Judiciary Committee got nowhere.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) tried to get a committee vote on four civil rights bills that have been approved by a subcommittee he heads. The parliamentary situation required unanimous consent.

Hennings told reporters his motion was blocked by an objection; he would not say who raised it.

The Hennings bills, like one pending before the House, are aimed at what sponsors call the deprivation of Negroes of their civil rights—including voting—in Southern states.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) obtained permission from the Senate yesterday for the Judiciary Committee to meet today and consider a list of specific bills and "any others that may be brought up by unanimous consent." Under this language it was possible for any committee member to block the legislation.

The committee did not get through the bills on its list, let alone any additional ones. Aides said Eastland told the committee he would try to arrange for another meeting before Congress adjourns.

At the White House, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, said he thought the House would take a vote Friday. He predicted 2-1 approval.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader who also attended a conference of GOP congressional leaders with President Eisenhower, said the bill could be passed in the Senate "if a filibuster can be averted." Eisenhower has asked for its passage.

Southern senators have talked to death previous civil rights proposals and are in a position to do so again, with Congress now headed for adjournment.

The bill before the House, bearing the name of Rep. Celler (D-NY), embraces the Eisenhower proposals that it be made easier to take civil rights complaints to federal courts, that the attorney general be authorized to file suits in behalf of individuals, and that a bipartisan civil rights commission be created, along with a special civil rights division in the Justice Department.

Psychiatrist's Office Bombed

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP) — A homemade bomb damaged the front of the office of psychiatrist Dr. Frank J. Ayd Jr., today, but no one was hurt.

Dr. Ayd, 34, and his wife, are in Rome, where he is lecturing.

Nine persons, including seven children, were in the combined residence-office when the bomb went off but all slept through it.

In the north Baltimore home were six of the Ayd's 10 children and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brockmeyer, and their daughter. The Brockmeyers are caring for the Ayd children while the parents are away.

The bomb, which police said was fashioned from about a foot long length of pipe, blew out a panel and three panes of a door, shattered two other windows and bent an iron railing.

Dr. Ayd is chief of psychiatry at Franklin Square Hospital.

France Turns Down Russian Proposal

PARIS, July 17 (AP) — Premier Guy Mollet today turned down a Russian proposal to reduce French occupation forces in Germany on the ground that it was "not truly of a nature to assure a relaxation of tension."

Premier Bulganin made the suggestion in a letter June 6. The French reply was delivered to the Soviet Foreign Minister in Moscow today.

Woman Who Wed Again Told Mate May Be Prisoner

DETROIT, July 17 (AP)—Notified that her former husband may be a prisoner of the Russians, a woman who has since remarried said today, "We'll have to wait and see what happens."

Mrs. Edward J. Howard of Ann Arbor remarried in December, 1955, and is expecting a child. Her former husband, Lt. (j.g.) Robert D. Reynolds, was declared legally dead by the Defense Department a year after being reported missing aboard a Navy Privateer lost over the Baltic April 8, 1950.

Another Michigan man, Joseph J. Bourassa, a radioman from Linwood, near Bay City, also was aboard the plane.

Families of the two men said they had heard nothing beyond the report of John H. Noble in January, 1955, when Noble was released after nine years in a Communist prison camp. Noble said he heard reports that several of the airmen from the Privateer still were Red prisoners.

Mrs. Howard has two daughters by Reynolds, one born after he was lost. Howard, 33, is employed in the plant department at the University of Michigan.

Former Illinois Auditor Offers To Repay State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 17 (AP)—Orville E. Hodge today offered to make restitution at least in part of missing state funds, while Democratic leaders called for a "top-to-bottom" investigation of Illinois' Republican administration.

Hodge, who resigned as state auditor yesterday at the insistance of Gov. William G. Stratton, said he would reimburse the state "to the full extent of my resources" and make a full disclosure of his activities before a grand jury.

Later today, Stratton announced that Lloyd Morey, president emeritus of the University of Illinois, had agreed to serve out the balance of Hodge's term as state auditor.

In Chicago, Adlai Stevenson, Stratton's predecessor as governor, released a statement from his office which mentioned sponsorship of statewide broadcasts by Hodge last spring urging a heavy primary vote for President Eisenhower.

It would "be interesting," Stevenson said, to know the source of the funds Hodge used for the broadcasts.

Questions Unanswered

Hodge, too, couched his statement in a typewritten release, refusing to answer questions of reporters. He passed out copies after a conference with State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon attended by his attorney, Arthur M. Fitzgerald.

"I will appear before the grand jury next Monday and make a full disclosure of all transactions during my administration as auditor," Hodge said.

"I will sign an immunity waiver, I have also written Gov. Stratton, assuring him that, to the full extent of my resources, I will make restitution and attempt to hold the state of Illinois from any loss because of my actions."

42 Warrants Cashed

Coutrakon said that at least 42 state warrants were issued by the state auditor and cashed for $544,000 under questionable circumstances. The state's attorney said he had evidence that some of the warrants were cashed for officials of the state auditor's office at the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co. in Chicago.

Stevenson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination this year, said "It is hard to believe that no more than one man is involved" and a "full scale investigation of the Stratton administration would seem to be called for in order to restore the people's confidence."

West Freedoms Ridiculed By Red Boss Khrushchev

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev ridiculed the West and its freedoms tonight at a Kremlin banquet for East German Communist leaders. It was reminiscent of the colder cold war days.

The party chief called Western democracy a sham, said its freedom was only for monopoly capitalists to plunder workers "and shear them like sheep," and charged that the Western press and radio served monopolists.

Khrushchev said the West "could not strangle us in 1917 and 1918, when we stood alone. How can they do it now?" he demanded.

"I won't underestimate their strength but on the socialist side the strength is not negligible."

A picked audience of Soviet officials and members of satellite and neutral embassies several times interrupted the 45-minute tirade with appreciative laughter. Khrushchev himself frequently bubbled over with mirth.

"The Western powers, that is the captalist powers, like to call themselves free countries, the free world (laughter), but this is the free world we liberated ourselves from 39 years ago (more laughter) and we wouldn't be tempted back if they offered it to us on a platter," he said.

He scored what he said was the crushing of a legally elected government in Guatemala and refusal of the free world to allow elections in Indochina.

Lowers Age Of Retirement For Women

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed the Social Security bill carrying a trail-breaking program of benefits for disabled persons starting at age 50 and lowering the retirement age for women from 65 to 62.

The vote was 90-0.

The measure now goes to conference with the House, which voted the same benefits overwhelmingly a year ago 372 to 31. But there were several differences to be adjusted before the bill can go to President Eisenhower.

The final Senate product represented a big victory for the Senate Democratic leadership in the face of strong opposition from the Eisenhower administration.

The Senate Finance Committee under the leadership of Sen. Byrd (D-Va), and at the request of the administration, had largely stripped from the bill both the disability provision and the lowered retirement age for women.

Campaign Material

Senate Democratic leaders holding up votes on the measure, fought an uphill battle in the last few weeks to find acceptable compromises to put them back in.

Democrats have made it clear they expect to use the measure as prime campaign material this fall, whether the President signs or vetoes it.

The Democrats had their closest squeak on the disability benefits, but got this back into the bill 47-45 after a dramatic appeal for it by Sen. George (D-Ga), retiring this year as dean of the Senate after 34 years of service.

Under the George amendment, persons covered by Social Security who become permanently and totally disabled at age 50 will be able to receive checks averaging about $75 a month as a matter of right.

Provision Voted 86-7

Rebuffing the Eisenhower administration, which opposed both provisions, the chamber wrote the earlier retirement for women into the Social Security bill by an overwhelming 86-7 vote. At present, women, like men, must wait until they are 65 before drawing old age insurance payments.

The disability payments—a new concept in the U. S. Social Security system—were championed by Sen. George (D-Ga) and the 47-45 vote approving them was a personal victory for that veteran senator, who is retiring from Congress at the end of the year.

Both provisions were in the bill which passed the House last year 372-31. But they were largely stripped from the measure this year by the Senate Finance Committee at the request of the Eisenhower administration.

East Germany, Russia Tighten Economic Links

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)—The Soviet Union and Communist East Germany announced today new economic links that will prevent closer East German relations with the West, especially with West Germany.

Government and party leaders of the two Red regimes took part in negotiations that also crushed Western hopes for free elections to unify Germany.

A joint declaration said direct talks between the leaders of East and West Germany are the only way to German unification. The declaration also attacked conscription in West Germany in a NATO buildup and called on Britain, France and the United States to reduce occupation troops in Germany.

In the economic agreement, the Soviet Union agreed to cut in half occupation payments from East Germany, beginning next Jan. 1, reducing them to 800 million Eastmarks. (East Germany's news agency ADN said this is equivalent to 47½ million dollars at the open market value of the Eastmark.)

The two groups confirmed agreements for a substantial increase during 1956 in mutual trade deliveries. No figures were given.

The Soviet Union also agreed to design and supply necessary equipment for a 100,000 kilowatt atomic power station in East Germany.

Adjournment Seen

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Senate leaders predicted today that Congress will be in shape to adjourn by the end of next week.

Mrs. Luce's Illness Caused By Arsenic In Rome Villa Paint

ROME, July 17 (AP)—The secret of her illness finally out, Clare Boothe Luce is returning soon to the 17th century Taverna Villa where arsenic poisoning has sickened her through much of her work as U. S. ambassador to Italy.

She is due back Aug. 15 from medical treatment in the United States for fatigue, anemia and an intestinal inflammation.

Heavy tarpaper covers the bedroom ceiling paint officially blamed for her illness, blanketing off the green beams and heavy white roses suspected of filtering arsenic dust and fumes on the blonde envoy as she slept and worked.

Poison Found Feb. 2, 1955

The tarpaper was nailed up and covered with safe paint soon after a poisoning factor—a U. S. State Department spokesman called it arsenate of lead—was detected in the paint Feb. 2, 1955.

Mrs. Luce was believed to have suffered from the arsenic effects most of the time since President Eisenhower appointed her to Rome in 1953. The Villa Taverna is the ambassador's official residence, bought by the United States in 1948. This automatically made it U. S. territory.

American authorities disclosed the details upon publication by Time magazine of the story they had suppressed for 18 months as a possible peril to Italian-American relations. Time's editor in chief, Henry R. Luce, is the ambassador's husband.

Varying Theories

Italians expressed surprise at the story, but most interest seemed centered on varying theories of paint experts about the case. Italians and Americans employed at the villa have long since been investigated and cleared.

U. S. State Department officials said there was "absolutely no evidence" of any attempt on Mrs. Luce's life.

A Dutch doctor practicing in Rome said he had seen a number of cases of similar paint poisoning in the city—"most frequently in the cases of green paint."

In Washington, Francis Scofield, chief of the technical division of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn., declared that if there was lead arsenate in the bedroom ceiling paint "it was added deliberately either to kill someone or to kill flies."

Dr. E. H. Andrews, who performed the one-hour operation, said Van Fleet was resting well and his condition is "satisfactory."

Liquor Revenue Checks Mailed To 22 Counties

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Checks totaling more than a quarter million dollars were mailed tonight by the Alcoholic Beverages Division to Baltimore City and 22 Maryland counties.

The $515,720.18 covers the fourth quarterly returns of the state liquor tax on distilled spirits.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes said $2,046,278.40 has now been returned for the fiscal year ending June 30. This is the first year in which a uniform statewide rate has been in effect.

A law passed over Gov. McKeldin's veto and effective July 1, 1955, established a uniform statewide gallonage tax of $1.50 on distilled spirits. Previously the rate of $1.75 was effective in Baltimore City and Baltimore County, with a $1.25 rate throughout the rest of the state.

Under the new law, Tawes said, distribution is based upon the number of gallons of distilled spirits delivered to retail dealers and is at the rate of 50 cents per gallon. Prior to this year Baltimore City and Baltimore County were the only sub-divisions of the state which shared in the 50 cents per gallon distribution, through local taxation. The other 22 Maryland counties received no return.

Under the uniform tax law, which repealed all taxing of alcoholic beverages at the local level, Baltimore City received 14.36 per cent more than it did during 1955 and Baltimore County received 19.44 per cent above what was collected during the same period last year.

The total number of gallons delivered by wholesalers to local subdivisions during fiscal 1956 was 4,092,557.21, reflecting an increase of 8.13 per cent over fiscal 1955.

The distribution of distilled spirits revenue to the counties and Baltimore City for fiscal 1956 included Allegany County, $61,453.39; Frederick, $39,197.18; and Washington County, $55,671.04.

Blind Couple Has Reasons For Joy

WARWICK, R. I., July 17 (AP)—A blind couple today had several reasons to be joyous.

First, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derosa, who never have seen each other, are the parents of a normal baby girl, Patricia Lynn, born yesterday.

Second, Derosa has found a job—as a power press operator.

Third, Patricia, at 9 pounds, 2½ ounces, is the biggest baby in Osteopathic Hospital.

Papa Derosa, 30, a former acetylene torch burner and railroad worker, went blind while working as a delivery truck driver five years ago. Mrs. Derosa, 35, the former Margaret Grosskopf of New York City, lost her sight at the age of 18. They met at a dance.

Derosa had to give up running a spa a few months ago and was without work until last weekend.

Sarasota Prepares To Welcome Circus

SARASOTA, Fla., July 17 (AP)—Sarasota got ready today to roll out the red carpet to welcome home the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus.

The big show cut short its annual tour after a performance near Pittsburgh last night. Labor troubles, bad weather, rising costs and other factors were responsible.

The circus train with performers, workmen, animals and equipment is expected to reach winter quarters Thursday or Friday.

Top Jackpot Hit By Negro Couple

HOLLYWOOD, July 17 (AP)—Because he trusted his wife, Steve Rowland has won what may be the biggest net earnings in the history of radio-TV jackpots.

Tonight Steve and Dorothy Fowland came to the end of a fabulous string of victories on the CBS TV-show, "Do You Trust Your Wife?" For 14 weeks the Negro couple won the quiz show, earning 14 years of income at $100 a week. Their total—including $1,200 on the qualifying round—$74,000.

Their earnings surpass the "$64,000 Question" winners and even the hundred-granders on "the Big Surprise." The reason is obvious: The Rowlands can spread their tax over a 14-year period.

Their contribution to Uncle Sam depends on their income. Steve says he earns about $8,000 yearly from a liquor store and as an insurance man.

Thus they stand to clear $37,992 at present tax rates. For winning $64,000 they would have cleared but $24,532; and for winning $100,000 but $27,582.

"I felt just as happy the night we lost as I did the first night we won," said Rowland. Tonight's show was filmed five weeks ago. "I was just as happy to have the pressure removed."

It was a policeman who ended the Rowlands' winning spree. Robert Vanaken, who patrols Los Angeles freeways in a helicopter, upset the Rowlands by guessing the population of more American cities correctly. He scored eight to Mrs. Rowland's six in guessing whether 10 cities were more or less than 500,000.

Goodyear And Union Agree On Wage Hike

DAYTON, Ohio, July 17 (AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the International Rubber Workers Union agreed today on a 6.2 cents an hour raise for approximately 24,000 employes at ten bargaining unit plants.

The company and union officials said jointly that the increase became effective yesterday.

In addition to the wage increase, the agreement provides for a funded supplemental unemployment benefit plan. Details of the plan will be negotiated later.

The new agreement must be approved by a majority of the locals representing a majority of the membership and by the international executive board.

Lightning Kills Vet With Metal Plate In Skull

LOGANSPORT, Ind., July 17—(INS)—Lightning struck and killed a disabled World War II veteran with a metal plate in his skull.

The tragedy occurred Monday night as John L. Kaley, 32, of Logansport, was walking near his home. Lightning first hit a tree about three feet away, then jumped to the man.

Dr. M. B. Steward said the lightning bolt which struck Kaley on the left side of his head, may have been attracted to him by the metal plate.

Thank Congress Caravan Ready

DAVIDSONVILLE, Md., July 17 (AP)—Residents of this area will send a caravan to Washington tomorrow to thank congressmen for blocking, at least temporarily, plans to locate a Naval Academy airfield here.

The 17 or more cars will carry placards reading: "Thanks to Congress, we will not have a jet airport near Annapolis."

The plans were approved at a meeting last night of the Citizens Committee of Anne Arundel and Prince Georges counties, which resisted efforts of the Academy to locate the field in this area.

Congress responded by deleting from the military appropriations bill a four million dollar fund for acquiring land and conduction engineering studies for the airfield.

Arthur D. Condon, legal counsel to the committee, said the visit should be unique.

"People have come all the way across the continent to present petitions to Congress in protest about some pending action, or asking favors, but we can find no record of a group calling on congressmen to thank them for what they have done," he told the committee.

Senate Group Votes For Additional Judges

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved a bill that would create 33 additional federal district judges.

One effect of the measure, which now goes to the Senate for action, would be to give each state at least two district judges.

New Road Standards To Give Government More Access Power

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Revised standards for the national inter-state highway system will give the federal government more power to regulate access to the highways.

This was disclosed today by Bureau of Public Roads officials in advance of release of the revised standards.

No other important changes were made in present standards except to give federal authorities broad power to limit access to interstate highways.

In the past, some states have taken the position that their laws did not permit them to limit access to interstate highways. In those cases federal authorities were unable to do anything about it. Now, federal law gives the Bureau of Public Roads broad authority in this field.

Van Fleet Undergoes Emergency Surgery

Dr. E. H. Andrews, who performed the one-hour operation, said Van Fleet was resting well and his condition is "satisfactory."

Liquor Revenue Checks Mailed To 22 Counties

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Checks totaling more than a quarter million dollars were mailed tonight by the Alcoholic Beverages Division to Baltimore City and 22 Maryland counties.

The $515,720.18 covers the fourth quarterly returns of the state liquor tax on distilled spirits.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes said $2,046,278.40 has now been returned for the fiscal year ending June 30. This is the first year in which a uniform statewide rate has been in effect.

A law passed over Gov. McKeldin's veto and effective July 1, 1955, established a uniform statewide gallonage tax of $1.50 on distilled spirits. Previously the rate of $1.75 was effective in Baltimore City and Baltimore County, with a $1.25 rate throughout the rest of the state.

Under the new law, Tawes said, distribution is based upon the number of gallons of distilled spirits delivered to retail dealers and is at the rate of 50 cents per gallon. Prior to this year Baltimore City and Baltimore County were the only sub-divisions of the state which shared in the 50 cents per gallon distribution, through local taxation. The other 22 Maryland counties received no return.

Under the uniform tax law, which repealed all taxing of alcoholic beverages at the local level, Baltimore City received 14.36 per cent more than it did during 1955 and Baltimore County received 19.44 per cent above what was collected during the same period last year.

The total number of gallons delivered by wholesalers to local subdivisions during fiscal 1956 was 4,092,557.21, reflecting an increase of 8.13 per cent over fiscal 1955.

The distribution of distilled spirits revenue to the counties and Baltimore City for fiscal 1956 included Allegany County, $61,453.39; Frederick, $39,197.18; and Washington County, $55,671.04.

Blind Couple Has Reasons For Joy

WARWICK, R. I., July 17 (AP)—A blind couple today had several reasons to be joyous.

First, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derosa, who never have seen each other, are the parents of a normal baby girl, Patricia Lynn, born yesterday.

Second, Derosa has found a job—as a power press operator.

Third, Patricia, at 9 pounds, 2½ ounces, is the biggest baby in Osteopathic Hospital.

Papa Derosa, 30, a former acetylene torch burner and railroad worker, went blind while working as a delivery truck driver five years ago. Mrs. Derosa, 35, the former Margaret Grosskopf of New York City, lost her sight at the age of 18. They met at a dance.

Derosa had to give up running a spa a few months ago and was without work until last weekend.

Sarasota Prepares To Welcome Circus

The big show cut short its annual tour after a performance near Pittsburgh last night. Labor troubles, bad weather, rising costs and other factors were responsible.

The circus train with performers, workmen, animals and equipment is expected to reach winter quarters Thursday or Friday.

The Sarasota Chamber of Commerce is arranging to welcome the train with a large crowd of townspeople and a band composed largely of former circus musicians, directed by Merle Evans, Ringling bandmaster for 37 years until his retirement last year.

Huff, of Platoon 71, outside the courtroom during recess of the court-martial of McKeon at Parris Island, S. C. He pleaded innocent yesterday to main charges of marching the platoon into a swamp last April 8, which led to the death of six Marines. (AP Photofax)

Top Jackpot Hit By Negro Couple

HOLLYWOOD, July 17 (AP)—Because he trusted his wife, Steve Rowland has won what may be the biggest net earnings in the history of radio-TV jackpots.

Tonight Steve and Dorothy Fowland came to the end of a fabulous string of victories on the CBS TV-show, "Do You Trust Your Wife?" For 14 weeks the Negro couple won the quiz show, earning 14 years of income at $100 a week. Their total—including $1,200 on the qualifying round—$74,000.

Their earnings surpass the "$64,000 Question" winners and even the hundred-granders on "the Big Surprise." The reason is obvious: The Rowlands can spread their tax over a 14-year period.

Their contribution to Uncle Sam depends on their income. Steve says he earns about $8,000 yearly from a liquor store and as an insurance man.

Thus they stand to clear $37,992 at present tax rates. For winning $64,000 they would have cleared but $24,532; and for winning $100,000 but $27,582.

"I felt just as happy the night we lost as I did the first night we won," said Rowland. Tonight's show was filmed five weeks ago. "I was just as happy to have the pressure removed."

It was a policeman who ended the Rowlands' winning spree. Robert Vanaken, who patrols Los Angeles freeways in a helicopter, upset the Rowlands by guessing the population of more American cities correctly. He scored eight to Mrs. Rowland's six in guessing whether 10 cities were more or less than 500,000.

Goodyear And Union Agree On Wage Hike

DAYTON, Ohio, July 17 (AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the International Rubber Workers Union agreed today on a 6.2 cents an hour raise for approximately 24,000 employes at ten bargaining unit plants.

The company and union officials said jointly that the increase became effective yesterday.

In addition to the wage increase, the agreement provides for a funded supplemental unemployment benefit plan. Details of the plan will be negotiated later.

The new agreement must be approved by a majority of the locals representing a majority of the membership and by the international executive board.

Tour For Harriman

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman will begin Friday a four-day tour of Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska and South Dakota, the Harriman for President Committee said today.

Lightning Kills Vet With Metal Plate In Skull

The tragedy occurred Monday night as John L. Kaley, 32, of Logansport, was walking near his home. Lightning first hit a tree about three feet away, then jumped to the man.

Dr. M. B. Steward said the lightning bolt which struck Kaley on the left side of his head, may have been attracted to him by the metal plate.

Thank Congress Caravan Ready

DAVIDSONVILLE, Md., July 17 (AP)—Residents of this area will send a caravan to Washington tomorrow to thank congressmen for blocking, at least temporarily, plans to locate a Naval Academy airfield here.

The 17 or more cars will carry placards reading: "Thanks to Congress, we will not have a jet airport near Annapolis."

The plans were approved at a meeting last night of the Citizens Committee of Anne Arundel and Prince Georges counties, which resisted efforts of the Academy to locate the field in this area.

Congress responded by deleting from the military appropriations bill a four million dollar fund for acquiring land and conduction engineering studies for the airfield.

Arthur D. Condon, legal counsel to the committee, said the visit should be unique.

"People have come all the way across the continent to present petitions to Congress in protest about some pending action, or asking favors, but we can find no record of a group calling on congressmen to thank them for what they have done," he told the committee.

Senate Group Votes For Additional Judges

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved a bill that would create 33 additional federal district judges.

One effect of the measure, which now goes to the Senate for action, would be to give each state at least two district judges.

New Road Standards To Give Government More Access Power

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Revised standards for the national inter-state highway system will give the federal government more power to regulate access to the highways.

This was disclosed today by Bureau of Public Roads officials in advance of release of the revised standards.

No other important changes were made in present standards except to give federal authorities broad power to limit access to interstate highways.

In the past, some states have taken the position that their laws did not permit them to limit access to interstate highways. In those cases federal authorities were unable to do anything about it. Now, federal law gives the Bureau of Public Roads broad authority in this field.

Festival At Cresaptown Attracting Large Crowds

The Outdoor Fun Festival sponsored by the Cresaptown Community Council opened Monday at Cresaptown Elementary School with a huge turnout.

The festival will continue all week with a varied program each night. Proceeds will go toward providing a regular leader for the community's organized recreation program.

Airplane swings, chair swings, pony and little auto rides are available for youngsters, according to Mrs. Lester McGill, publicity chairman.

Mrs. McGill said refreshments are also available on the grounds.

Thursday night's program will feature the crowning of "Miss Teen" and "Little Miss" at 8 p. m. by John Yoder, chairman of the Community Council.

A musical program will feature the coronation under the sponsorship of the Progressive Young Women's Club.

Featuring Friday's program will be a parade at 7:30 p. m. under direction of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company and its Auxiliary unit.

A float, sponsored by the Cresaptown area businessmen, will carry "Miss Teen" and "Little Miss."

The festival will close Saturday with an exhibition Little Baseball League game. Dale Broadwater is in charge. Festival activities are scheduled in the evening.

Mrs. McGill said a membership campaign is currently under way by the Cresap Teen Club with Joanne Kidwell in charge.

A booth has been erected on the festival grounds to register new members. The group's weekly dance has been cancelled this Friday because of the Fun Festival.

Another feature of Friday's program will be a square dance at 9 p. m., with the Potomac Valley Lay Health organization in charge.

Court Room Work Praised

The Allegany County Bar Association has passed a resolution of commendation and congratulation to the county commissioners for recent improvements in the Circuit Court room at the Court House.

A letter to this effect was received yesterday by the commissioners from Peter J. Carpenti, president of the Bar Association and Harry Kauffman, secretary.

The improvements, which include solid walnut judges bench, and jury box and seats, new carpeting in the section before the bench, tile flooring in the spectators area and redecorated ceiling and walls, were completed recently.

An invitation was reveiced yesterday by the county commissioners from Rev. Carroll Warnar, pastor of St. Ambrose's Catholic Church at Cresaptown, for the cornerstone laying ceremony at the new church Sunday, July 29 at 2:30 p. m.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

To Be Beautiful, Be Firm

The big difference between you, who's seen the last of her twenties, and the younger beauties on the beach is so often all too obvious in the legs and arms. Even if you keep your weight where it should be, time softens the muscles of the upper legs and arms and spoils their shape unless they have proper exercise.

If you've been suffering by comparison every time you wear a bathing suit, what you want is quick results, an exercise routine that returns that young firmness as fast as possible. Today we start you off with three exercises that get at the problem right away, and tomorrow we'll follow through with three more to add to them.

For your legs: Stand with one hand on a chair back. Snap your right leg up in front of you with the knee bent double. Kick forward sharply, then backward. Make it a brisk, hard kick. Repeat to total five times for the right leg, then five for the left. Now, for the next five kicks with each leg, increase speed. Slow the movement for the next double five, then speed again. Swing into a bracing rhythm.

For your arms: Lie flat on your back and reach for the ceiling. Really reach, as far as you can. Without bending your elbows or wrists, crisscross your arms in short, fast strokes 20 times.

Also for arms: Stand tall with two meidum-sized books grasped in both hands and resting on your shoulders. Stretch your arms forward at shoulder level and return, then to sides and return and lastly, overhead and return. Really stretch 10 times.

Tomorrow — Quick result exercises.

Morgan Posts $15,000 Bond In Rape Case

Glenn Morgan of Klondike, was released under $15,000 bond yesterday following a habeas corpus hearing before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court.

Morgan has been in County Jail since May 5 after being arrested on charges of rape.

He faces grand jury action in October on two charges of rape.

The $15,000 bond was posted by relatives of Morgan. Attorney for the man at yesterday's hearing was Milton Gerson.

The court was told that Morgan is married and has three children and his wife is expecting another sometime this month.

On The Line
by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—Two basic philosophies of government have collided in the case of HR7 225, the congressional bill that has to do with an extension of social security to provide slightly earlier payoffs to women and benefits to all who have reached 50 and successfully claim disability.

We had a talk about this with Sen. Walter F. George, the Georgia Democrat, over the weekend. He said he has plugged hard for this legislation because he feels the "weakest spot" in the social security system has been the rigid rule that a contributor to this pot gets no return until he or she is 65.

Sen. George, who is approaching 80, is soon to embark on a wholly new and active career, that of ambassador to the NATO nations. The durable veteran said that if had his way he would provide for social security payoffs to persons much younger than 50. "But fifty will do for a begenning," he added. He doesn't think HR7 225 will add "substantially" to the employe rolls of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, nor that it is a step toward socialized medicine.

He feels it will cost $350,000,000 the first year, said he couldn't estimate what it might cost in the future, and believes that the disability-at-50 payments could be made out of a special fund created by an extra social security bite of one half of one per cent.

"I think the bill, with its various amendments, will pass the Senate but I don't really know," the Georgian concluded.

Health Secretary Marion Folsom, representing President Eisenhower's views, told us:

"If this bill passes it will cost social security taxpayers nearly a billion dollars a year by 1980. But the thing that is important to the administration, in addition, is that the whole endeavor for the country should be directed toward keeping people productive longer. Medical science has added years and years to the life expectancy. This bill is a step in the opposite direction. "Women who accept $80 a month at 62, instead of waiting three years and collecting $100 a month, will have to settle for $80 the rest of their time, according to this bill. A man of 50, which is not an old man today, will be tempted to surrender to such ailments as he might have—if he feels the federal government will take care of him—instead of having the incentive to rehabilitate himself as countless people have.

"The federal government is already aiding the states in caring for about a quarter of a million disabled people. But this bill would put the government in the insurance business. There would be countless claims of disability, tax increases, and a great burden on doctors and federal boards called upon to ascertain the authenticity of the claims.

"The Senate Finance Committee voted 11-3 against the disability clause, after the remarks of Senator Byrd. Quite a few Democrats will vote against it on the floor, and most Republicans will support the administration. We have a very good chance of beating it. The Senate usually doesn't refute what its committees decide."

Dr. Elmer Hess, past president of the A. M. A., declares that the bill "could break the social security bank." All incentive to fight back against the failures of the flesh will dissolve, he declares. The bill, he adds, "is a political gimmick to catch the votes of those who for sentimental reasons feel that politicians may be doing a humanitarian service for our people."

Rail Business Up As Miners Return To Pits

Railroad traffic, while considerably off due to the steel strike, has perked up a little since the miners went back to work from their vacations.

A check of the Cumberland Division of the B&O Railroad and Elkins Division of the Western Maryland Railway revealed that since members of the United Mine Workers went back to their pits July 10 coal traffic eastward has increased.

The B&O reports that coal loadings are very good, with the railroad gaining back the 1,000 cars a day it lost during the two-week vacation of the miners.

The overall traffic on the Cumberland Division is off 33 per cent and the B&O is currently handling about 8,000 cars a day through the local yards.

The Western Maryland Railway reports that its business in coal is off about 200 cars a day from the West Virginia section. One mine, the Ida Mae Mine of Bethlehem Steel Company near Fairmont, averages about 150 loads a day when it is working.

Local Men To Leave For Induction Aug. 9

Five local youths will leave August 9 for induction into the Armed Forces at Fairmont, according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator for the local Selective Service Boards.

Fahey said yesterday that two youths will leave from Board 27, two more will be called from Board 29 and one man from Board 29.

The youths will report to the local Post Office building at 6:40 a. m. on August 9, and leave by Eastern Greyhound Bus Lines at 7:15 a. m. (EDT).

County CD Officials Plan For 1956 Operation Alert

County Civil Defense chiefs have begun planning a public program during Civil Defense Week in September, according to William G. Barger, county director.

A few details were discussed at a recent meeting of staff chiefs at the Kelly Springfield Tire Company where it was decided a public participation alert after schools open for the fall term would better serve local purposes than a demonstration during Operation Alert which will be staged Friday on a nationwide basis.

However, local control center facilities will be operated Friday and various services will be alerted at their headquarters. A few will go to the control center.

Barger again called attention to the fact that all radio stations will go off the air Friday between 4:10 p. m. and 4:25 p. m. in the first daylight test of Conelrad, the warning system which allows instructions to civilians without exposing radio beams to enemy planes.

The public is urged to listen to these informational broadcasts at 640 or 1240 on the radio dial and notify state Civil Defense Headquarters, Pikesville 8, Md., concerning where the broadcast originated and how it was received.

In all, the 1956 Operation Alert will cover six days to allow full coverage of CD on state and federal levels.

Army Is Seeking Young Reservists

Parents of teen-age boys are the targets of an intensive drive by the Army Reserve Corps to acquaint them of the advantages of the eight-year reserve program for youths between the ages of 17 and 18½ years.

Col. George H. Sibbald, reserve personnel procurement officer for the Maryland Military D ent, is in Cumberland to set this effort to contact parents.

He is arranging a public meeting for these parents Monday, August 6, in downtown Cumberland in order to present various advantages of the eight-year program to this age group.

Living costs for American families are equal to all-time peak of 1953.

Area Men Enlist In Marine Corps

Two young men have been enlisted by the Marine Corps at the local recruiting office.

They are James E. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Martin; and Richard James Pike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard R. Pike. Both are from Crellin.

They have been assigned to Parris Island, S. C., for basic training. Both enlisted for two years.

The Marine Corps has changed its regulations so that a sergeant may remain out of service 90 days and still retain his rank upon reenlisting. Previously only 30 days were allowed.

Glenn Morgan of Klondike, was released under $15,000 bond yesterday following a habeas corpus hearing before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court.

Morgan has been in County Jail since May 5 after being arrested on charges of rape.

He faces grand jury action in October on two charges of rape.

The $15,000 bond was posted by relatives of Morgan. Attorney for the man at yesterday's hearing was Milton Gerson.

The court was told that Morgan is married and has three children and his wife is expecting another sometime this month.

19 Hours Cut Off Operation Alert

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Federal officials today lopped 19 hours off "Operation Alert 1956," this year's big Civil Defense test.

The exercise, which will send scores of government officials to secret hideaways to carry on their work under conditions of a mass enemy attack, will start at 10 a.m. EST Friday and end at 4 p.m. EST next Wednesday.

Original plans were for the alert to continue until Thursday at 11 a.m. EST.

Shortly after the test gets underway more than 1,750 FM and AM radio stations and all the nation's TV stations will go off the air in a 15-minute "blackout" to test Civil Defense emergency broadcasting facilities.

About 1,250 AM radio stations will switch to the "Conelrad" frequencies and broadcast Civil Defense data on the specified 640 or 1240 kilocycle frequencies—640 or 1240 on most radio dials.

The blackout test period will start at 3:15 p.m. EST Friday.

Steel Strike Shrinks Nation's Production

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Industrial production declined about 4 per cent in the first week of July as a result of the steel strike, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Most steel mills were shut down beginning July 1 and steel output dropped to 12 per cent of capacity, as compared with 93 per cent in June, the board said.

This reduction in iron and steel output was accompanied by curtailments in iron ore and coal mining.

For the month of June, the board's seasonally adjusted index of industrial production was 141 per cent of the 1947-49 average, compared with 142 in May, 143 in April, and 141 in March.

The capybara, a mammal of Central and South America, is believed to be the largest rodent.

Neighbors' Silence Pact Protects Dying Woman From Heartbreak

NEWCASTLE, England, July 17 (AP)—Two hundred good neighbors kept a pact of silence today to protect a dying woman from suffering a broken heart.

The drama of Parker Street — for that's where they all live — developed this way:

Four years ago, Mrs. Sarah Mercer, 49, began having headaches. Gradually they got worse. The pain became almost unbearable. Her husband Harold, also 49, took her to the doctors. They put her through exhausting tests.

The physicians finally shook their heads. The trouble was cancer and they said Mrs. Mercer didn't have a chance. The husband urged them to do everything they could. There were two operations. The pain grew worse. Every tortured cry affected Mercer, their daughter said.

At last, her suffering became unbearable for the husband, her devoted nurse. Early this summer he tried to kill her mercifully by giving her 13 sleeping tablets. When Mercer thought his wife was dying he tried to take his own life. They were discovered just in time.

Husband and wife recovered. He was arrested and charged with attempted murder. She was removed to the hospital once more. It was at this point that the neighbors made their vow of silence.

Never, they agreed, would Mrs. Mercer know what her husband had done. The doctors performed an operation that eliminated the pain.

Sunday an ambulance brought Mrs. Mercer back to Parker Street. Her husband was there waiting. The court had put him on three years probation. Every neighbor on Parker Street knew the ambulance was arriving, but not a single window curtain so much as stirred.

"It's good to be back home," said Mrs. Mercer, "and good to be with you."

With tears in her eyes their daughter, Mrs. Connie Brown said: "She may die any time now, but at least she is happy."

Mrs. Mercer thinks she's well. No one on Parker Street is going to tell her the truth. When her husband was away at the court and jail she thought he, too, was sick. No one on Parker Street is going to tell her differently.

Hi-Test—Premium Octane—Regular Gas Price...More Miles Per Dollar

19 Hours Cut Off Operation Alert

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Federal officials today lopped 19 hours off "Operation Alert 1956," this year's big Civil Defense test.

The exercise, which will send scores of government officials to secret hideaways to carry on their work under conditions of a mass enemy attack, will start at 10 a.m. EST Friday and end at 4 p.m. EST next Wednesday.

Original plans were for the alert to continue until Thursday at 11 a.m. EST.

Shortly after the test gets underway more than 1,750 FM and AM radio stations and all the nation's TV stations will go off the air in a 15-minute "blackout" to test Civil Defense emergency broadcasting facilities.

About 1,250 AM radio stations will switch to the "Conelrad" frequencies and broadcast Civil Defense data on the specified 640 or 1240 kilocycle frequencies—640 or 1240 on most radio dials.

The blackout test period will start at 3:15 p.m. EST Friday.

Conelrad is an abbreviation for "Control of Electromagnetic Radiation"

Steel Strike Shrinks Nation's Production

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Industrial production declined about 4 per cent in the first week of July as a result of the steel strike, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Most steel mills were shut down beginning July 1 and steel output dropped to 12 per cent of capacity, as compared with 93 per cent in June, the board said.

This reduction in iron and steel output was accompanied by curtailments in iron ore and coal mining.

For the month of June, the board's seasonally adjusted index of industrial production was 141 per cent of the 1947-49 average, compared with 142 in May, 143 in April, and 141 in March.

The capybara, a mammal of Central and South America, is believed to be the largest rodent.

Tuberculosis is a dreaded killer. It strikes someone every day. Tomorrow . . . next year . . . anytime . . . it could be you.

Woodmen with a year or more of membership have the peace of mind of knowing that if it does strike them, they will receive free, full and adequate treatment in a modern hospital, or as an outpatient of one of our authorized hospitals . . . just because they are Woodmen.

Neighbors' Silence Pact Protects Dying Woman From Heartbreak

NEWCASTLE, England, July 17 (AP)—Two hundred good neighbors kept a pact of silence today to protect a dying woman from suffering a broken heart.

The drama of Parker Street — for that's where they all live — developed this way:

Four years ago, Mrs. Sarah Mercer, 49, began having headaches. Gradually they got worse. The pain became almost unbearable. Her husband Harold, also 49, took her to the doctors. They put her through exhausting tests.

The physicians finally shook their heads. The trouble was cancer and they said Mrs. Mercer didn't have a chance. The husband urged them to do everything they could. There were two operations. The pain grew worse. Every tortured cry affected Mercer, their daughter said.

At last, her suffering became unbearable for the husband, her devoted nurse. Early this summer he tried to kill her mercifully by giving her 13 sleeping tablets. When Mercer thought his wife was dying he tried to take his own life. They were discovered just in time.

Husband and wife recovered. He was arrested and charged with attempted murder. She was removed to the hospital once more. It was at this point that the neighbors made their vow of silence.

Never, they agreed, would Mrs. Mercer know what her husband had done. The doctors performed an operation that eliminated the pain.

Sunday an ambulance brought Mrs. Mercer back to Parker Street. Her husband was there waiting. The court had put him on three years probation. Every neighbor on Parker Street knew the ambulance was arriving, but not a single window curtain so much as stirred.

"It's good to be back home," said Mrs. Mercer, "and good to be with you."

With tears in her eyes their daughter, Mrs. Connie Brown said: "She may die any time now, but at least she is happy."

Mrs. Mercer thinks she's well. No one on Parker Street is going to tell her the truth. When her husband was away at the court and jail she thought he, too, was sick. No one on Parker Street is going to tell her differently.

Elmer Edward Biggs Weds Margaret Jeanne Daniels

Miss Margaret Jeanne Daniels, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn M. Daniels, Parkersburg, W. Va., became the bride of Elmer Edward Biggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Biggs, 419 North Centre Street, Cumberland, July 14. The candlelight wedding ceremony was solemnized in First Methodist Church, Parkersburg, with Rev. John L. Wolfe, D.D., officiating. Two seven-branch candelabra of lighted tapers and standards of white gladioli, stock and other flowers decorated the church, against a background of palms and ferns.

Mrs. Warren W. Miller was her sister's matron of honor, while Miss Jacqueline Doboy, Huntington, and Mrs. Harrison Fletcher, Parkersburg, were bridesmaids and Lark and Joan Warner, Vienna, W. Va., the flower girls. Ensign John H. Biggs, Norfolk, Va., served as his brother's best man. A. M. Hutcheson, Cumberland; Richard A. Biggs, Martinsburg, and Michael Lengemann, Toledo, Ohio, were the ushers. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Monroe Cunningham and Marden Wilson.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Warren W. Miller, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle, fashioned with a high jewel neckline, tiny scalloped sleeves, fitted bodice draped to an apron effect in front. The very full skirt of tulle was gathered in the back. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was attached to a matching headdress trimmed in seed pearls. With it she wore lace mitts extending to a point on the hand, a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and a family heirloom aquamarine ring. Completing her costume, she carried an open Bible, topped with a white orchid, encircled with babysbreath and a shower of stephanotis.

Her attendants were attired in gowns of white lace and net over taffeta. With them they wore lace bolero jackets and white headbands trimmed with roses, and carried open Bibles topped with bouquets of white roses. The flower girls wore white organdy frocks and carried baskets of rose petals.

The bride is a graduate of Parkersburg High School and West Virginia University. She is a member of the Kappa Phi Methodist Girls' Club.

He is a member of Chi Epsilon, civil engineering honorary, Sigma Theta Epsilon, Methodist men's fraternity and the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is employed by the United States Government, Bureau of Public Roads.

Mrs. Daniels entertained with a wedding reception for her daughter and her bridal party in the social room of the church, which was decorated in assorted white flowers and greenery. The bridal motif was repeated in the three-tiered wedding cake adorned with white roses.

For their eastern trip the bride chose a baby blue and white silk print dress with navy blue duster lined in the same fabric, white accessories, and with it she wore her orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Biggs will reside at 203 Nelson Avenue, Williamsburg, Va.

Miss Margaret Jeanne Daniels, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn M. Daniels, Parkersburg, W. Va., became the bride of Elmer Edward Biggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Biggs, 419 North Centre Street, Cumberland, July 14. The candlelight wedding ceremony was solemnized in First Methodist Church, Parkersburg, with Rev. John L. Wolfe, D.D., officiating. Two seven-branch candelabra of lighted tapers and standards of white gladioli, stock and other flowers decorated the church, against a background of palms and ferns.

Mrs. Warren W. Miller was her sister's matron of honor, while Miss Jacqueline Doboy, Huntington, and Mrs. Harrison Fletcher, Parkersburg, were bridesmaids and Lark and Joan Warner, Vienna, W. Va., the flower girls. Ensign John H. Biggs, Norfolk, Va., served as his brother's best man. A. M. Hutcheson, Cumberland; Richard A. Biggs, Martinsburg, and Michael Lengemann, Toledo, Ohio, were the ushers. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Monroe Cunningham and Marden Wilson.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Warren W. Miller, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle, fashioned with a high jewel neckline, tiny scalloped sleeves, fitted bodice draped to an apron effect in front. The very full skirt of tulle was gathered in the back. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was attached to a matching headdress trimmed in seed pearls. With it she wore lace mitts extending to a point on the hand, a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and a family heirloom aquamarine ring. Completing her costume, she carried an open Bible, topped with a white orchid, encircled with babysbreath and a shower of stephanotis.

Her attendants were attired in gowns of white lace and net over taffeta. With them they wore lace bolero jackets and white headbands trimmed with roses, and carried open Bibles topped with bouquets of white roses. The flower girls wore white organdy frocks and carried baskets of rose petals.

The bride is a graduate of Parkersburg High School and West Virginia University. She is a member of the Kappa Phi Methodist Girls' Club.

For their eastern trip the bride chose a baby blue and white silk print dress with navy blue duster lined in the same fabric, white accessories, and with it she wore her orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Biggs will reside at 203 Nelson Avenue, Williamsburg, Va.

Nautilus Has Cruised Nearly 50,000 Miles Without Refueling

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)— A Senate subcommittee disclosed today the Navy's first atomic-powered submarine, Nautilus, has cruised almost 50,000 miles without refueling.

The figure was mentioned at a closed session of the Armed Services subcommittee June 20 and made public in testimony just released.

During a discussion of submarines as launching platforms for ballistic missiles now under development, Sen. Symington (D-Mo) asked Navy Capt. S. S. Searcy if he knew how far the Nautilus had traveled.

"It is approaching 50,000 miles," Searcy replied.

Symington: "Without refueling?"

Searcy: "Yes, sir."

It was on Jan. 17, 1955, that the 3,000-ton Nautilus first put to sea under nuclear power.

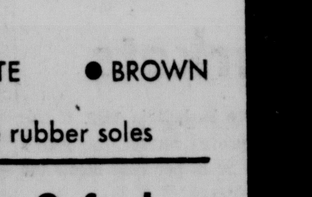
WIFE PRESERVERS



To save on your electric bills, when you leave a room for more than five minutes, make it a habit to switch off the lights.

It takes nature from 500 to 1,000 years to make an inch of good topsoil, the National Geographic Society says, yet reckless plowing, overgrazing or uprooting of natural cover can destroy as much in a year.

Starting At Bottom

TOKYO, July 17 (AP) — Japan's Atomic Energy Commission will send 32 research students abroad to study nuclear physics late this year and early in 1957. Twenty-two will go to the United States, the rest to England, France, Canada, Sweden and Norway.

The Ohio State Capitol at Columbus took 22 years to build, the National Geographic Society says. A low-domed structure of Doric style, it stands in a 10-acre downtown park.

TOKYO, July 17 (AP) — Japan's Atomic Energy Commission will send 32 research students abroad to study nuclear physics late this year and early in 1957. Twenty-two will go to the United States, the rest to England, France, Canada, Sweden and Norway.

Keyser Council Authorizes Regester To Make Survey On Sewage Disposal System

Preliminary Step Taken To Obtain Pertinent Data

KEYSER—The mayor and city council yesterday afternoon passed a resolution authorizing Robert G. Regester, consultant engineer of Baltimore and Cumberland, to proceed with a preliminary survey for future construction of a sewage disposal system for Keyser.

The survey, which will cost about $1,800, will include an estimate of overall costs, type of system most feasible here, and other pertinent data which will give the city officials an idea of the scope of the whole problem.

Regester, who is consultant on the huge sewage disposal plant at Cumberland, was accompanied to the meeting by Harry Brenner, a member of his staff. He told the mayor and councilmen that a sewage disposal system has recently been completed at Elkton, Md., a town similar in population to Keyser, and this system, with local adjustments, might prove economical and satisfactory for Keyser.

Officials explain that both the State of West Virginia and the federal government are taking steps to end pollution of streams. Emphasis lately has been placed on eliminating pollution from the North Branch of the Potomac River. It is possible, if, as and when a plan is completed and various problems resolved, state and federal aid funds may be forthcoming for this type of project, city officials stated.

The council discussed a number of matters at the meeting, prior to the conference with Regester. Plans are in process of advancement for the care of the city streets here, since the street sweeper was purchased and put into operation. In connection with this, the matter of merchants having litter from their places of business swept out onto sidewalks and reaching the street gutters, was brought up, and action was taken to have this placed in a new ordinance about care of streets. The mayor added that if the sidewalks are swept off, the sweepings will have to be gathered up and placed in a receptacle in the places of business.

This statement leaves a void between the sidewalks and the streets, as neither the mayor nor the members of council offered any information as to how sidewalks will be cleaned. However there was agreement that the sweepings from the interior of the places of business are not to be swept outside the place of business unless it is cleaned up by the merchants.

The recently framed copy of the West Virginia Honor Roll, presented to the City of Keyser, in recognition of its accomplishment in completing the year 1955 without a fatal motor accident within the municipal limits, was placed on the council room wall with other such honor rolls that were presented to the city in past years.

Piedmont Council Outlines Rules For New Police Cruiser

PIEDMONT — Regulations for operating the new police cruiser recently purchased by the town were discussed at a meeting of the Mayor and Council last evening.

Present rules adopted when the previous car was bought will be in effect with added features.

Mayor Rodney Baker pointed out that police officers will patrol the downtown section on foot, except when a call is received for assistance.

No loitering will be permitted in the police station and an officer returning to the office will not remain there more than 20 minutes at any time.

The mayor commended the police officers, Chief Gene Keyes and Charles Spiker, patrolman. Arrests have doubled in the past year and the parking meter receipts have increased $600 during that period. Last week, $97.39 was collected from the meters and $11.50 for parking violations.

Mayor Baker said the police will be expected to check the parking meters once an hour.

Piedmont Fire Company Buys Panel Truck

PIEDMONT — The Tri-Towns Fire Company, at a meeting last night, ordered the purchase of a panel truck to be converted into an equipment vehicle and emergency ambulance.

Theodore Combs and William Conn, represented the fire company at an earlier meeting of the mayor and council and outlined plans to buy the truck. They requested council to authorize widening of doors at the fire hall to accomodate the extra vehicle.

Mayor Rodney Baker told the firemen to obtain three bids on the work, and firemen last night announced that they will receive such bids.

At the council meeting, firemen also suggested that wiring in the fire hall be checked and Mayor Baker ordered the inspection made at once.

Firemen, according to Vernon Hamilton, fire chief, will have the panel truck converted and painted, so it can be used to haul equipment to fires. Often, this auxiliary apparatus may eliminate the necessity of taking the big pumper to minor blazes.

William Conn, assistant secretary of the company also noted last night that the company is planning to obtain a badly needed tank truck. Thomas Bryan, fire company president is having this project checked, and the firemen plan to stage an equipment fund drive beginning September 5.

Frostburg Asks Berkowitz For Final Action

Ultimatum Issued On Garment Plant

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and Council Monday voted unanimously that the M. Berkowitz Company be notified to either accept or reject by July 23 the plan of the city to erect a factory at the east end of the city to replace the present factory on Mechanic Street.

In the last city election, voters approved a bond issue $85,000 to be used to erect the plant which the Berkowitz firm would amortize over a period of 20 to 25 years, paying enough rent to cover the interest and repayment of the loan and other expenses. At the end of this period the factory would then become the property of the company.

Council further instructed City Attorney Edward J. Ryan to inform Berkowitz that any cost of erecting the building above the $85,000 mark would have to be borne by the company and that notification by July 23 was necessary because manufacturers bidding on materials for the proposed factory have notified Jesse Fuller and Son, contractors, that prices quoted on materials will be voided August 1. However, if orders are placed before that date old quotations will be honored.

The Berkowitz factory on East Mechanic Street has been working on a part-time basis for over a year since the second story of the building was declared unsafe by insurance underwriters. The company entered into negotiations with the city to erect a new building which they could buy over a period of years. The Berkowitz Company submitted plans of other buildings similar to the type they wanted here.

City officials engaged the Corinthian Engineering Company, Cumberland, to draw plans for the proposed plant.

These were then submitted to the Berkowitz Company which approved them. The city then advertised for bids and, when opened, Jesse Fuller and Son was the low bidder. The Berkowitz firm then asked for changes in the heating system which changed the original bid of approximately $80,000.

Insurance underwriters of the company questioned the ability of the city to furnish enough water pressure at the proposed site to operate an automatic sprinkler system for fire control.

City officials promised the company that a new line would be laid to the factory site after construction started and not before. It is at this point, with a few other minor details, that negotiations have been at a standstill.

Mayor James and council stated last evening that they felt that the city has now done all it can and, in all fairness to the community, the Berkowitz firm should now either accept or reject the plan and not hold up the city from proceeding with other work that has been held up due to the factory situation.

The firm, with offices in Davis, is presently under contract with the West Virginia Conservation Commission for construction work at Blackwater State Park.

Harper also reported that Paul R. Hinkle of Parsons has been engaged to supervise the work.

Mrs. John L. Kee of Parsons, chairman of the transportation and parking committee for the Tucker County Fair and centennial celebration, asked permission to use the city park as a parking lot during the pageant to be held during fair week.

Harper reported that Delbert Little has been rehired for another year as maintenance supervisor; Grover Channell, utility man; James Phillips, mechanic and supervisor of transpartation and Mrs. Winona Coberly, financial and statistical secretary.

Youth And Beauty Stressed In 1956 Bedford Fair Plans

BEDFORD—Supported by agricultural and educational leaders of a tri-county area in its drive for expanded facilities, the Bedford County Fair will stress Youth and Beauty during its annual full week exposition, Monday, August 6 through Saturday, August 11.

Both as exhibitors and spectators, the youth of five counties will continue to receive special attention from the Bedford Fair management, which believes that the young people of today provide the adult audiences of tomorrow.

School students will be admitted free on both Tuesday, August 7 and Friday, August 10.

On Wednesday, Band Day, many high school bands from the area will assemble for a parade around the track and several massed-play numbers, before the State Police Rodeo is presented. The bands will be guests of the fair all day.

A big feature of the fair will be the Junior Livestock Show, in which the entries of 4-H and F.F.A. youngsters of Blair, Bedford and Fulton counties vie for their own prizes. In a greatly expanded program, there will be junior shows for dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine and sheep, as well as the Baby Beef show.

Greatly enlarged and high quality exhibits in all of 12 departments are assured by the Bedford Fair's policy in recent years, which has seen premiums trebled and quadrupled to attract outstanding entries and bring back the real purpose of the county fair.

There will be harness racing Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, the State Police Rodeo and Band Day Wednesday, and auto racing Saturday afternoon. Each afternoon six big circus and vaudeville acts, headed by the famed Wazzan troupe, will provide entertainment in front of the grandstand.

Each night, Tuesday through Saturday, the celebrated GAC-Hamid International Follies, with the famed Roxyettes and TV star Milton Blakeley as emcee, will thrill the grandstand crowd with the spectacular and colorful fantasy "Honeymoon," supplemented by the Wazzans and other high wire and comedy acts.

For the first time in several years, a gorgeous display of fireworks will bring the night show to a close.

On the Midway will be the popular Prell Shows, with a mile-long carnival of rides and amusements.

Area Apples Move To Canadian Markets

The first of the big apple crop from this section has moved to Canadian markets, according to Henry W. Miller Jr., vice president and general manager of Consolidated Orchards Inc.

Consolidated, biggest apple grower in Allegany County, and neighboring Morgan and Hampshire counties, loaded two cars for Canada and one for Detroit Friday at its Paw Paw packing house.

Other shipments are being moved to northern markets this week, he added, where the price for early apples is always better because of the lateness of the northern crops.

The summer varieties must be 2¼ inches in diameter and up, according to Canadian-American trade limitations. Customarily, markets seek two inches and up.

Heavy thinning plus extra fertilizer has produced an acceptable fruit in the area orchards for these northern markets.

Consolidated and the orchards in the Hampshire fruit belt south of here fared better than did other orchards in the West Virginia-Maryland apple growing section.

Most of the orchards in this immediate district are located on top of mountains or on high locations and did not get the severe killing frosts that were common until a late date in the lowlands.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service in Charleston reports that the killing frosts in May caused a downward revision of the West Virginia apple crop forecast.

A harvest 26 per cent less than last year's is predicted. This would be 3,200,000 bushels as compared to 4,346,000 bushels in 1955. If this forecast proves correct, this year's crop will be 16 per cent below the 1945-54 average.

The most severe frost damage to both apple and peach crops occurred in Berkeley and Jefferson counties. Much less seriously affected were Hampshire and Morgan Counties.

In fact, the crop reporting service said that some Hampshire and Morgan orchards have heavy apple crops and thinning has been necessary. Only minor reduction of the peach crop was noted in the higher elevations of those two counties.

The crop reporting service said conditions as of July 1 pointed to a peach crop of 572,000 bushels this year, which would be 28 per cent below 1955's relatively large production, but almost up to the ten-year average.

Miller said the apples going to the northern markets are selling for $3.75 to $4 a bushel, FOB Paw Paw.

Three Counties Request Migrant Labor Force

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Orchardists in Morgan, Berkeley and Jefferson counties have made a tentative requisition for 200 Bahamans to work in this area during the apple harvest season.

The request was made by the Tri-County Labor Camp after a conference with representatives of the U. S. Employment Service.

Arrangements had to be made early so that the requisition can be passed on to the Bahaman government. Growers are permitted to scale down their request within two weeks of the scheduled arrival of the workers, usually about Sept. 1.

The workers, as in previous years, will come here from the vegetable fields of Minnesota and will go from here late in October after the apple harvest to the citrus plantations in Florida.

They will be housed and fed at the Tri-County building two miles east of Martinsburg. C. A. Mehle of Charles Town, former State policeman, will again be manager of the labor camp as he has the past two years.

Similar camps are operated for the Frederick County, Virginia, apple area and at Hancock, Md.

Keyser Council Authorizes Regester To Make Survey On Sewage Disposal System

Preliminary Step Taken To Obtain Pertinent Data

KEYSER—The mayor and city council yesterday afternoon passed a resolution authorizing Robert G. Regester, consultant engineer of Baltimore and Cumberland, to proceed with a preliminary survey for future construction of a sewage disposal system for Keyser.

The survey, which will cost about $1,800, will include an estimate of overall costs, type of system most feasible here, and other pertinent data which will give the city officials an idea of the scope of the whole problem.

Regester, who is consultant on the huge sewage disposal plant at Cumberland, was accompanied to the meeting by Harry Brenner, a member of his staff. He told the mayor and councilmen that a sewage disposal system has recently been completed at Elkton, Md., a town similar in population to Keyser, and this system, with local adjustments, might prove economical and satisfactory for Keyser.

Officials explain that both the State of West Virginia and the federal government are taking steps to end pollution of streams. Emphasis lately has been placed on eliminating pollution from the North Branch of the Potomac River. It is possible, if, as and when a plan is completed and various problems resolved, state and federal aid funds may be forthcoming for this type of project, city officials stated.

The council discussed a number of matters at the meeting, prior to the conference with Regester. Plans are in process of advancement for the care of the city streets here, since the street sweeper was purchased and put into operation. In connection with this, the matter of merchants having litter from their places of business swept out onto sidewalks and reaching the street gutters, was brought up, and action was taken to have this placed in a new ordinance about care of streets. The mayor added that if the sidewalks are swept off, the sweepings will have to be gathered up and placed in a receptacle in the places of business.

This statement leaves a void between the sidewalks and the streets, as neither the mayor nor the members of council offered any information as to how sidewalks will be cleaned. However there was agreement that the sweepings from the interior of the places of business are not to be swept outside the place of business unless it is cleaned up by the merchants.

The recently framed copy of the West Virginia Honor Roll, presented to the City of Keyser, in recognition of its accomplishment in completing the year 1955 without a fatal motor accident within the municipal limits, was placed on the council room wall with other such honor rolls that were presented to the city in past years.

Piedmont Council Outlines Rules For New Police Cruiser

PIEDMONT — Regulations for operating the new police cruiser recently purchased by the town were discussed at a meeting of the Mayor and Council last evening.

Present rules adopted when the previous car was bought will be in effect with added features.

Mayor Rodney Baker pointed out that police officers will patrol the downtown section on foot, except when a call is received for assistance.

No loitering will be permitted in the police station and an officer returning to the office will not remain there more than 20 minutes at any time.

The mayor commended the police officers, Chief Gene Keyes and Charles Spiker, patrolman. Arrests have doubled in the past year and the parking meter receipts have increased $600 during that period. Last week, $97.39 was collected from the meters and $11.50 for parking violations.

Mayor Baker said the police will be expected to check the parking meters once an hour.

Piedmont Fire Company Buys Panel Truck

PIEDMONT — The Tri-Towns Fire Company, at a meeting last night, ordered the purchase of a panel truck to be converted into an equipment vehicle and emergency ambulance.

Theodore Combs and William Conn, represented the fire company at an earlier meeting of the mayor and council and outlined plans to buy the truck. They requested council to authorize widening of doors at the fire hall to accomodate the extra vehicle.

Mayor Rodney Baker told the firemen to obtain three bids on the work, and firemen last night announced that they will receive such bids.

At the council meeting, firemen also suggested that wiring in the fire hall be checked and Mayor Baker ordered the inspection made at once.

Firemen, according to Vernon Hamilton, fire chief, will have the panel truck converted and painted, so it can be used to haul equipment to fires. Often, this auxiliary apparatus may eliminate the necessity of taking the big pumper to minor blazes.

William Conn, assistant secretary of the company also noted last night that the company is planning to obtain a badly needed tank truck. Thomas Bryan, fire company president is having this project checked, and the firemen plan to stage an equipment fund drive beginning September 5.

Frostburg Asks Berkowitz For Final Action

Ultimatum Issued On Garment Plant

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and Council Monday voted unanimously that the M. Berkowitz Company be notified to either accept or reject by July 23 the plan of the city to erect a factory at the east end of the city to replace the present factory on Mechanic Street.

In the last city election, voters approved a bond issue $85,000 to be used to erect the plant which the Berkowitz firm would amortize over a period of 20 to 25 years, paying enough rent to cover the interest and repayment of the loan and other expenses. At the end of this period the factory would then become the property of the company.

Council further instructed City Attorney Edward J. Ryan to inform Berkowitz that any cost of erecting the building above the $85,000 mark would have to be borne by the company and that notification by July 23 was necessary because manufacturers bidding on materials for the proposed factory have notified Jesse Fuller and Son, contractors, that prices quoted on materials will be voided August 1. However, if orders are placed before that date old quotations will be honored.

The Berkowitz factory on East Mechanic Street has been working on a part-time basis for over a year since the second story of the building was declared unsafe by insurance underwriters. The company entered into negotiations with the city to erect a new building which they could buy over a period of years. The Berkowitz Company submitted plans of other buildings similar to the type they wanted here.

City officials engaged the Corinthian Engineering Company, Cumberland, to draw plans for the proposed plant.

These were then submitted to the Berkowitz Company which approved them. The city then advertised for bids and, when opened, Jesse Fuller and Son was the low bidder. The Berkowitz firm then asked for changes in the heating system which changed the original bid of approximately $80,000.

Insurance underwriters of the company questioned the ability of the city to furnish enough water pressure at the proposed site to operate an automatic sprinkler system for fire control.

City officials promised the company that a new line would be laid to the factory site after construction started and not before. It is at this point, with a few other minor details, that negotiations have been at a standstill.

Mayor James and council stated last evening that they felt that the city has now done all it can and, in all fairness to the community, the Berkowitz firm should now either accept or reject the plan and not hold up the city from proceeding with other work that has been held up due to the factory situation.

Youth And Beauty Stressed In 1956 Bedford Fair Plans

BEDFORD—Supported by agricultural and educational leaders of a tri-county area in its drive for expanded facilities, the Bedford County Fair will stress Youth and Beauty during its annual full week exposition, Monday, August 6 through Saturday, August 11.

Both as exhibitors and spectators, the youth of five counties will continue to receive special attention from the Bedford Fair management, which believes that the young people of today provide the adult audiences of tomorrow.

School students will be admitted free on both Tuesday, August 7 and Friday, August 10.

On Wednesday, Band Day, many high school bands from the area will assemble for a parade around the track and several massed-play numbers, before the State Police Rodeo is presented. The bands will be guests of the fair all day.

A big feature of the fair will be the Junior Livestock Show, in which the entries of 4-H and F.F.A. youngsters of Blair, Bedford and Fulton counties vie for their own prizes. In a greatly expanded program, there will be junior shows for dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine and sheep, as well as the Baby Beef show.

Greatly enlarged and high quality exhibits in all of 12 departments are assured by the Bedford Fair's policy in recent years, which has seen premiums trebled and quadrupled to attract outstanding entries and bring back the real purpose of the county fair.

There will be harness racing Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, the State Police Rodeo and Band Day Wednesday, and auto racing Saturday afternoon. Each afternoon six big circus and vaudeville acts, headed by the famed Wazzan troupe, will provide entertainment in front of the grandstand.

Each night, Tuesday through Saturday, the celebrated GAC-Hamid International Follies, with the famed Roxyettes and TV star Milton Blakeley as emcee, will thrill the grandstand crowd with the spectacular and colorful fantasy "Honeymoon," supplemented by the Wazzans and other high wire and comedy acts.

For the first time in several years, a gorgeous display of fireworks will bring the night show to a close.

400 Orchardists Set Up Apple Growers' Co-Op

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 17 (AP)—A new apple grower's co-operative which is expected to bring the processed apple market on a par with the fresh fruit market has been formed by some 400 orchardists in the four-state Appalachian apple belt.

E. Blackburn Moore of Berryville, Va., is chairman of the new organization which will meet tomorrow and Thursday with similar groups functioning in the Hudson Valley of New York and New England in an effort to map a plan for marketing the processor stock from the East's three major producing areas.

Organization of the Appalachian cooperative and attempts to link the other Eastern orchards into some form of cooperative marketing arrangement are being patterned on the experience of orchardists in the Far West. Spokesmen said the plan is being kept strictly within legal limits to avoid any transgression of individual rights.

In 1952, Appalachian Apple Service and five processing firms were charged by the Federal Trade Commission with unfair trade practices by combining to fix prices for raw fruit. The charges were later dismissed, after a lengthy FTC hearing at which the growers and processors denied the charge.

Appalachian Apple Service is still in existence but its primary purpose is promotion of the apple as a food.

Growers Cooperative

Processing firms are not included in the newly formed organization, which will be a cooperative for the growers who feel it will help them get a better price for their fruit and a standard price for the processor stock — fruit which does not sell on the fresh market or is left over after the fresh market has been filled.

Growers say there are numerous reasons why they are forced to form such an organization.

Up to the present, the apple people have dealt with the processing firms on an individual basis. Because there are so many individual growers—many of them with relatively small production — the larger growers claim the processors have the advantage in dealings, a spokesman said. The small grower is not able to speak for any large production.

To offset this, the cooperative will speak for the growers and will be able to speak with authority and tell the processor how much fruit is available and that apples will not be sold under a certain level. It is expected also that the small grower will be able to stand pat on the price asked because of the security he has as part of the cooperative.

Better Protection

With this stability, the growers say, they will be better protected and the processors can deal with confidence that they are paying the "going" rate.

Growers who make it a practice to try to sell on the fresh market rather than the processing market are recognizing a firm relationship between the two, price-wise. When the fresh market is strong, the processors must bid up to get the fruit which they must have for their operations. One market prices the other up or down.

On the other hand, many growers—particularly the small ones—don't try for the fresh market. They don't have the equipment to wash or size their fruit. In many cases, their fruit is not of sufficient quality to compete on the fresh market.

So they sell their production to the processors. They avoid the fruit handling and receive cash for their apples.

This situation influences both fresh and process markets. But the larger commercial growers, who try for the fresh, are not disposed to strengthen the cheaper process market to which they end up selling a large amount of their production.

The Appalachian orchardists feel some cooperative arrangement must be made with the other two major growing areas of the East to assure a truly stabilized market, thus tomorrow's meeting with New York and New England growers.

Weekly Pool Parties Are Well Attended

Teen-agers are making good use of the late hours slated at Constitution Park pool on Thursdays, according to Robert E. Pence, recreation director.

Some 200 junior and senior high school age youths attended the informal session held last Thursday night, he said.

The pool and casino, he said, are open until 11 p. m. on Thursday nights to provide a meeting place and supervised activities for teenagers.

Dancing and refreshments are available in the casino, and the pool is kept open two hours past the closing hours for those who wish to swim.

County Issues Five Building Permits

Five building permits for minor projects with a total estimated cost of $3,785 were issued in the past two days by the Allegany County Assessing Department.

Two of the jobs are in Election District 16 at North Branch, two in Election District 7 in the Cresaptown-Rawlings area and one in District 2 at Oldtown. The biggest job was a concrete block cottage costing an estimated $2,000. Raymond W. Wheeler, RFD 4, obtained the permit.

must be done to prevent "the licensing of unqualified people to practice medicine" in Maryland.

"Under the resolution," he said, "the attorney general would draft whatever legislation is necessary to eliminate this menacing situation."

In Circuit Court, Dr. Reddick contended that the attorney general had taken sides in a controversy that concerned only members of the board and which should have been ironed out among the contesting parties.

He also attacked the qualifications of Drs. Edward J. Simon, Joseph H. Watson and Julius Chepko for membership on the homeopathic board of examiners.

Resignation In Question

Those three doctors were among four who in an earlier case in Dorchester County asked for a court order directing Dr. Reddick to turn over all records, funds and property of the board.

The four doctors alleged that Dr. Reddick had allowed unqualified persons to take examinations for medical licenses.

The Dorchester County case was never completed because Dr. Reddick declared he had resigned as secretary-treasurer and agreed to turn over the records.

Later, however, he declared that since the society had never received his resignation, and he had never received notice of dismissal, "I am still a member qualified to give and-or authorize exams for licensed applicants."

400 Orchardists Set Up Apple Growers' Co-Op

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 17 (AP)—A new apple grower's co-operative which is expected to bring the processed apple market on a par with the fresh fruit market has been formed by some 400 orchardists in the four-state Appalachian apple belt.

E. Blackburn Moore of Berryville, Va., is chairman of the new organization which will meet tomorrow and Thursday with similar groups functioning in the Hudson Valley of New York and New England in an effort to map a plan for marketing the processor stock from the East's three major producing areas.

Organization of the Appalachian cooperative and attempts to link the other Eastern orchards into some form of cooperative marketing arrangement are being patterned on the experience of orchardists in the Far West. Spokesmen said the plan is being kept strictly within legal limits to avoid any transgression of individual rights.

In 1952, Appalachian Apple Service and five processing firms were charged by the Federal Trade Commission with unfair trade practices by combining to fix prices for raw fruit. The charges were later dismissed, after a lengthy FTC hearing at which the growers and processors denied the charge.

Appalachian Apple Service is still in existence but its primary purpose is promotion of the apple as a food.

Growers Cooperative

Processing firms are not included in the newly formed organization, which will be a cooperative for the growers who feel it will help them get a better price for their fruit and a standard price for the processor stock — fruit which does not sell on the fresh market or is left over after the fresh market has been filled.

Growers say there are numerous reasons why they are forced to form such an organization.

Up to the present, the apple people have dealt with the processing firms on an individual basis. Because there are so many individual growers—many of them with relatively small production — the larger growers claim the processors have the advantage in dealings, a spokesman said. The small grower is not able to speak for any large production.

To offset this, the cooperative will speak for the growers and will be able to speak with authority and tell the processor how much fruit is available and that apples will not be sold under a certain level. It is expected also that the small grower will be able to stand pat on the price asked because of the security he has as part of the cooperative.

Better Protection

With this stability, the growers say, they will be better protected and the processors can deal with confidence that they are paying the "going" rate.

Growers who make it a practice to try to sell on the fresh market rather than the processing market are recognizing a firm relationship between the two, price-wise. When the fresh market is strong, the processors must bid up to get the fruit which they must have for their operations. One market prices the other up or down.

On the other hand, many growers—particularly the small ones—don't try for the fresh market. They don't have the equipment to wash or size their fruit. In many cases, their fruit is not of sufficient quality to compete on the fresh market.

So they sell their production to the processors. They avoid the fruit handling and receive cash for their apples.

This situation influences both fresh and process markets. But the larger commercial growers, who try for the fresh, are not disposed to strengthen the cheaper process market to which they end up selling a large amount of their production.

The Appalachian orchardists feel some cooperative arrangement must be made with the other two major growing areas of the East to assure a truly stabilized market, thus tomorrow's meeting with New York and New England growers.

Weekly Pool Parties Are Well Attended

Teen-agers are making good use of the late hours slated at Constitution Park pool on Thursdays, according to Robert E. Pence, recreation director.

Some 200 junior and senior high school age youths attended the informal session held last Thursday night, he said.

The pool and casino, he said, are open until 11 p. m. on Thursday nights to provide a meeting place and supervised activities for teenagers.

Dancing and refreshments are available in the casino, and the pool is kept open two hours past the closing hours for those who wish to swim.

ESB Confirms Lease Signed With Political Figure For Building

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP) —The State Department of Employment Security confirmed today it has signed a lease with another Maryland political figure for an office building.

The department has signed a five-year lease with E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery county real estate man and Democratic leader, for an office building constructed this year in Silver Spring by Lee.

Last week Robert B. Kimble, chairman of the Employment Security Board, confirmed his department has signed a leasing agreement for a field office in Towson. The building is being constructed by a firm headed by State Sen. George W. Della (D-Balto 6th).

Gov. McKeldin yesterday asked Kimble for a complete report on the agreement with Della. Today the governor said he has been given "complete assurance that the agreement was entered into openly and is in the best interests of the department."

The governor said he has the "fullest confidence" in the ESB members. Serving with Kimble on the board are Charles H. Borcherding Sr. and Joseph P. Healy.

The latest leasing agreement involves a one-story Silver Spring building apparently constructed for Lee specifically for use by the ESD. The structure provides working space for the six employes in Montgomery County.

ESD employes said Lee's lease to the State was for $4,800 a year, or about $2.40 a square foot. The Towson lease, including both utilities and janitor service, is for $3.50 a square foot, the department employes said.

Montgomery County building records show the estimated cost of the Silver Spring building at $20,000. The building permit was applied for on March 22 for the property which Lee has owned in his own name since 1952.

The ESB said the Towson building, leased for about $18,000 a year, will cost $35,000 to build. Della said the cost will be considerably higher.

Kimble said his agency had been looking for new office space in the Silver Spring area for some time as part of a statewide move to obtain better field offices.

The board chairman said his staff had been unable to find a suitable location until early this year when a federal government official suggested Lee might construct a building for the agency on his property.

Rooftop Traffic "Cop"

Expert To Study Baltimore Police Dept. Efficiency

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP) — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro today hired that expert he's been looking for to study the Baltimore Police Department with an eye toward getting more men on the street and stopping a growing outbreak of crime.

The mayor wrote Garrett, asking him to meet here July 30 in his office with Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron prior to undertaking the study. He assured Garrett of the "full cooperation of the city administration and the police commissioner."

Garrett's study is to be threefold, including looks at the adequacy of the police department's numerical strength, effectiveness of its promotional system and appropriateness of its pension system.

"An examination of these elements, especially that of manpower, will necessitate a close look at the entire department in every aspect of its around-the-clock operation," Garrett wrote last week in a letter following up a telephone call with City Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison.

Garrett said he would make the study for a per diem fee of $85 for each full work day or a maximum of $1,700, based on his estimate that the study will require at least four weeks. He will submit a written report on his findings.

The mayor received Board of Estimates approval to hire an expert after Gov. Theodore McKeldin, who appoints Baltimore's police commissioner, turned down the mayor's request that he order an immediate study of the department.

The governor said he felt no outside experts were necessary at this time and suggested the mayor discuss the matter further with Police Commissioner Hepbron.

After a conference, the mayor announced he and Hepbron were agreed on the need for such a study.

Both have expressed growing concern over the large numbers of muggings, holdups and other crimes on the city's streets.

The mayor has said he feels a return to old fashioned police methods, with an emphasis on returning more foot patrolmen to the street, might be the answer.

Frederick Firm Low Bidder On Road Work

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Richard F. Kline of Frederick was low bidder at $1,094,331 on grading, drainage and surfacing of the Thurmont bypass, the State Roads Commission announced today.

The job, relocated U.S. 15, extends from Little Hunting Creek northerly to Owens Creek, for a distance of about 4.4 miles, plus connections with Maryland 77 and 81 and U.S. 15.

Kline also was low bidder at $461,900 for grading, drainage and surfacing of Maryland 17 in Brunswick from West C street, northeasterly to Maryland 79, about 1 mile.

Freight Car Deliveries

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP) — Deliveries of new freight cars to railroads amounted to 5,550 in June, compared to 6,667 the previous month and 3,015 in June a year ago, it was reported today by the American Railway Car Institute and the Assn. of American Railroads.

Route 40 Cecil County Police Barracks Urged

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP) —Del. William F. Burkley (D-Cecil) said today he believes a State Police barracks on U. S. 40 in Cecil County would reduce the number of speeders along that busy highway.

Troopers who apprehend speeders now must take them to Conowingo, Burkley said.

"The trip means that the trooper is off Route 40 for lengthy periods after an arrest. With a State Police barracks on 40, that time would be cut considerably."

In a letter to Gov. McKeldin, Burkley said that in Harford County on U. S. 1 where the traffic count is 4,500 vehicles a day there are two barracks. On U. S. 40 the count is 23,000 vehicles daily.

Burkley has recommended that $152,956 earmarked for improvements at Conowingo go instead for a Cecil County barracks on U.S. 40.

Reformatory Board Members Appointed

ANNAPOLIS, July 17 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today announced appointment to six-year terms on the Boards of Managers for Barrett School for Girls and Boys Village.

Three were reappointed and four were named new members of governing bodies of the two reformatories.

New appointees for the Barrett School for Girls are Dr. U. G. Bourne Jr. of Frederick and Theodore W. Kess of Glen Burnie. Mrs. Lillian A. Lottier of Baltimore was reappointed to the eight-member board.

Barrett Rawlings of Baltimore and Leonard Curling of Hagerstown were named new members of the board at Boys Village and Joseph H. Neal of Baltimore and Charles E. Cornish of Cambridge were reappointed.

Surgeon's Knife Will Rob Boy, 4, Of Sight In Order To Save His Life

ORLANDO, Fla., July 17 (AP) — The surgeon's knife will rob Mike Sibole of his eyesight tomorrow morning.

It's that or his life.

Still unaware that the operation is imminent, the 4-year-old boy went on an outing with his family today.

A friend said the Rev. James M. Sibole took the lad on a picnic back to the Atlantic Ocean shore near New Smyrna Beach where he had so much fun yesterday romping in the surf.

Grandparents from Miami apparently joined the family group. A car with a Dade County license was parked in the driveway of the modest concrete block home where the pastor of the Forrest Park Baptist Church and his family led a quiet life until the story of Mike's doomed sight was carried around the world.

Now it has become impossible to stay at home, the Rev. Mr. Sibole said last night. The telephone rings incessantly. There is a parade of telegraph boys, special boys, special delivery letter carriers and visitors.

All these people want to help but nothing can be done.

Mike's case has been treated by Dr. A. B. Reese of New York, an expert in the disease known as retino blastoma, a cancer which spreads by its own growth but not through the blood stream as do most cancers.

Dr. Reese reported in April that the child had taken all the TEM a chemical administered by injection, and all the X-ray treatments that his body could safely stand.

Once doctors thought they had it licked but apparently a few cells survived and, in the manner of cancer, multiplied.

Now the operation is inevitable, doctors told the Rev. Mr. Sibole.

He said he probably will tell Mike about the operation when he gets up in the morning. A few hours later it will be over and a plastic sphere will be in the place where his dimming left eye is tonight.

Lightning Is Blamed For Lighthouse Fire

LEONARDTOWN, Md., July 17 (AP)—Lightning is believed to have started the fire which burned over historic Blakiston Island last night, badly damaging a 100-year-old lighthouse and two small buildings.

The St. Mary's County sheriff's office said the fire probably started when lightning struck the lighthouse.

St. Mary's County firemen and a fire unit from Dahlgren Naval Proving Grounds fought the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control.

The mayor wrote Garrett, asking him to meet here July 30 in his office with Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron prior to undertaking the study. He assured Garrett of the "full cooperation of the city administration and the police commissioner."

Garrett's study is to be threefold, including looks at the adequacy of the police department's numerical strength, effectiveness of its promotional system and appropriateness of its pension system.

"An examination of these elements, especially that of manpower, will necessitate a close look at the entire department in every aspect of its around-the-clock operation," Garrett wrote last week in a letter following up a telephone call with City Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison.

Garrett said he would make the study for a per diem fee of $85 for each full work day or a maximum of $1,700, based on his estimate that the study will require at least four weeks. He will submit a written report on his findings.

The mayor received Board of Estimates approval to hire an expert after Gov. Theodore McKeldin, who appoints Baltimore's police commissioner, turned down the mayor's request that he order an immediate study of the department.

The governor said he felt no outside experts were necessary at this time and suggested the mayor discuss the matter further with Police Commissioner Hepbron.

After a conference, the mayor announced he and Hepbron were agreed on the need for such a study.

Both have expressed growing concern over the large numbers of muggings, holdups and other crimes on the city's streets.

The mayor has said he feels a return to old fashioned police methods, with an emphasis on returning more foot patrolmen to the street, might be the answer.

Frederick Firm Low Bidder On Road Work

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Richard F. Kline of Frederick was low bidder at $1,094,331 on grading, drainage and surfacing of the Thurmont bypass, the State Roads Commission announced today.

The job, relocated U.S. 15, extends from Little Hunting Creek northerly to Owens Creek, for a distance of about 4.4 miles, plus connections with Maryland 77 and 81 and U.S. 15.

Kline also was low bidder at $461,900 for grading, drainage and surfacing of Maryland 17 in Brunswick from West C street, northeasterly to Maryland 79, about 1 mile.

Freight Car Deliveries

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP) — Deliveries of new freight cars to railroads amounted to 5,550 in June, compared to 6,667 the previous month and 3,015 in June a year ago, it was reported today by the American Railway Car Institute and the Assn. of American Railroads.

Route 40 Cecil County Police Barracks Urged

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP) —Del. William F. Burkley (D-Cecil) said today he believes a State Police barracks on U. S. 40 in Cecil County would reduce the number of speeders along that busy highway.

Troopers who apprehend speeders now must take them to Conowingo, Burkley said.

"The trip means that the trooper is off Route 40 for lengthy periods after an arrest. With a State Police barracks on 40, that time would be cut considerably."

In a letter to Gov. McKeldin, Burkley said that in Harford County on U. S. 1 where the traffic count is 4,500 vehicles a day there are two barracks. On U. S. 40 the count is 23,000 vehicles daily.

Burkley has recommended that $152,956 earmarked for improvements at Conowingo go instead for a Cecil County barracks on U.S. 40.

Reformatory Board Members Appointed

ANNAPOLIS, July 17 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today announced appointment to six-year terms on the Boards of Managers for Barrett School for Girls and Boys Village.

Three were reappointed and four were named new members of governing bodies of the two reformatories.

New appointees for the Barrett School for Girls are Dr. U. G. Bourne Jr. of Frederick and Theodore W. Kess of Glen Burnie. Mrs. Lillian A. Lottier of Baltimore was reappointed to the eight-member board.

Barrett Rawlings of Baltimore and Leonard Curling of Hagerstown were named new members of the board at Boys Village and Joseph H. Neal of Baltimore and Charles E. Cornish of Cambridge were reappointed.

It's that or his life.

Still unaware that the operation is imminent, the 4-year-old boy went on an outing with his family today.

A friend said the Rev. James M. Sibole took the lad on a picnic back to the Atlantic Ocean shore near New Smyrna Beach where he had so much fun yesterday romping in the surf.

Grandparents from Miami apparently joined the family group. A car with a Dade County license was parked in the driveway of the modest concrete block home where the pastor of the Forrest Park Baptist Church and his family led a quiet life until the story of Mike's doomed sight was carried around the world.

Now it has become impossible to stay at home, the Rev. Mr. Sibole said last night. The telephone rings incessantly. There is a parade of telegraph boys, special boys, special delivery letter carriers and visitors.

All these people want to help but nothing can be done.

Mike's case has been treated by Dr. A. B. Reese of New York, an expert in the disease known as retino blastoma, a cancer which spreads by its own growth but not through the blood stream as do most cancers.

Dr. Reese reported in April that the child had taken all the TEM a chemical administered by injection, and all the X-ray treatments that his body could safely stand.

Once doctors thought they had it licked but apparently a few cells survived and, in the manner of cancer, multiplied.

He said he probably will tell Mike about the operation when he gets up in the morning. A few hours later it will be over and a plastic sphere will be in the place where his dimming left eye is tonight.

Lightning Is Blamed For Lighthouse Fire

LEONARDTOWN, Md., July 17 (AP)—Lightning is believed to have started the fire which burned over historic Blakiston Island last night, badly damaging a 100-year-old lighthouse and two small buildings.

The St. Mary's County sheriff's office said the fire probably started when lightning struck the lighthouse.

St. Mary's County firemen and a fire unit from Dahlgren Naval Proving Grounds fought the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control.

Less Time To Think On Superhighways

Those who will be first-timers this year in driving on the nation's spreading network of superhighways, are headed for a new experience. And they will be safer if they recognize in advance that driving on ordinary roads and on the high-speed turnpikes, are indeed two different things.

On limited access highways where legal speeds are as high as 60 and 70 miles an hour and where mile after mile of perfect surface invites the driver to keep at top speed, the unwary may fail to realize that decisions must be made much faster than on other roads.

This is the danger that led to an article in a recent issue of Changing Times, for it is increasingly necessary for drivers to learn the knack of turnpike driving. More than 1,600 miles of high-speed toll roads have been opened since 1940. Approximately 1,400 miles more are under construction and another 8,000 miles are authorized or proposed for the next few years.

Bad driving habits may not have too serious results at low speed, but at 60 and 70 miles the consequences are magnified. Also, the driver's reactions may be quick enough at 40 but deadly slow at 60. The car that is adequate for ordinary travel might find the non-stop, high-speed grind too much—just as tires not yet too smooth for 50 miles may fail, with tragic results, under the pace set on a superhighway.

So the first piece of advice for the driver unfamiliar with turnpikes begins with the observation that he doesn't have to maintain the maximum legal speed even if these highways are meant to reduce travel time. The driver should select a speed he knows he can handle and adjust it downward when weather and other conditions dictate.

The man at the wheel should devote his entire attention to the task, leaving map reading, scenery, and sandwiches to others or until he pauses on the side stripe with wheels well off the paving. He should maintain an increasingly greater distance from other cars as his speedometer climbs. And let him beware of the loss of judgment about speed, a hazard which haunts superhighways where drivers fail to slow down quickly enough for traffic conditions ahead or for exit ramps leading to restaurants and service stations.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Toughest Job

There can be little question but that the toughest job in all this world is running for high office in the United States. It is a very unpleasant task because adversaries attack each other without mercy, on the assumption that the people will vote for the man who has the better of two reputations ruined during a campaign. The only compensation for this invasion of privacy and the twisting of a man's motives is the nobility of the office.

At any rate, President Eisenhower is willing to run for a second term, despite his heart and his ileum, and his running mate will be Richard Nixon. The Republicans expect to win this election and they probably will, although no election can possibly be a foregone conclusion.

The Democrats made a grievous error in making such a fuss about Ike's health. Any man can get sick and most men do when they pass their sixtieth birthday, as nature then makes a few physical adjustments which may slow up the body as the mind reaches maturity. Some people's minds remain juvenile forever, which may have some advantage, but an immature person does not belong in the Presidency. It must be assumed that Eisenhower knows what he is doing, because it is unbelievable that a man of his training would risk his country for the pride of a second term.

The Democrats are still faced by the quandary as to whether there is a Democrat who can defeat Eisenhower. It was hoped by some Democrats that they could make an issue of the President's health, but that failed because it ran counter to good taste and only irritated many persons who felt sorry for the President. When somebody stooped to bring in the evidence of a handwriting expert, the whole business became ludicrous.

So Harry Truman advised the Democrats to drop the discussion about Ike's health and to go in for attacking the special interests, which in this Administration has come to mean, more or less, General Motors. The Attorney General countered by bringing an anti-trust action against General Motors on the subject of buses. Such an action takes years, if it is pursued avidly. The probability is that it will be solved by a consent decree which will in no way affect the net earnings of General Motors.

Attacking the special interests is good sport in bad times, because then everything that is prosperous is a special interest. In good times, most people are concerned with making more dollars and making them go farther. Times are these days pretty good, except for a few spotty places. If conditions remain good up to Election Day, the special interests argument will not affect too many votes.

Actually, I think most politicians are wondering what the issue of the 1956 campaign can be. Certainly it will not be the foreign policy. Except for a few internationalist extremists on the Democratic side, and a few isolationist extremists on the Republican side, the bulk of both parties favor the same policy which started with Harry Hopkins in the time of Franklin D. Roosevelt and has continued right through the first Eisenhower Administration. Neither side can attack the other on this subject.

On the domestic side, the Democrats cannot attack the Republicans for the national debt or high taxes because it all started with the Democrats and continued with the Republicans. The tariff cannot be an issue because the Republicans got lower tariff rates than the Democrats. Maybe immigration could be developed into something to quarrel about, but surely no big city Democrat is prepared to oppose the Eisenhower ideas on liberalization of the McCarran-Walter Act and the Refugee Relief Act. Business, farmers, labor all get direct or indirect subsidies and got them in the time of Roosevelt and Truman as well as Eisenhower.

Therefore, what is there to campaign about? Personalities? Ike's health or his golf record; Stevenson's sartorial get-up; Nixon's fitness to be President should Ike die? Are these campaign issues?

Maybe there is nothing else to talk about. At any rate, in 1952, an issue could be made about Communism in the United States and everybody said he was against it but for a different reason and that he would use different methods to stamp it out. Maybe the Democrats will pick that one up in 1956.

The Promised Land . . .

Ex-Senator Cordon Now Receiving Retainers From Private Utilities

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In the files of the Federal Power Commission are significant facts about certain lobbyists now engaged in one of the biggest legislative battles in Washington.

The big private utilities are required to publish the amounts they pay various people, and if you take the trouble to look at the 1955 annual report of the Idaho Power Company, on file at the FPC, Page 56, you will find this notation: "VII. 1 (A) Guy Cordon-Washington, DC (B) retainer (C) basis of charges—time required and expenses incurred. (D) account 796."

Guy Cordon, of course, is the amiable ex-senator from Oregon, Republican, defeated in 1954 by Senator Richard Neuberger during a campaign in which Neuberger accused Cordon of being friendly to the big private utilities and against federal development of Hell's Canyon on the Snake River. Cordon denied these charges at the time.

However, if you look at Account 796, Page 81, of the Idaho Power Company report you will find listed disbursements for legal services of $31,999.95, of which $18,348.75 went to Parry, Keenan, Robertson and Daly in Twin Falls, Idaho, and the balance to ex-Senator Cordon.

Further search through Power Commission files shows that Senator Cordon also is being paid by Washington Water Power Company, another big utility which is fighting against Hell's Canyon. Both Idaho Power and Washington Water Power were once part of the giant holding company, Electric Bond and Share, before FDR's Holding Company Act broke them up.

Cordon is paid a "retainer fee for 1955 of $10,000 in equal monthly installments."

Further search of the FPC records shows that Portland General Electric, which also has joined Idaho Power in financing the campaign against public development of Hell's Canyon, lists ex-Senator Cordon as getting a retainer of $10,000 per year, "commencing January 1955 as per oral agreement."

January 1955 was immediately after Cordon stepped out of the Senate. In other words, he retired on December 31, 1954, and immediately began picking up retainers from the private utilities to help them defeat public power at Hell's Canyon.

Well-Greased Lobby

You don't hear much about it, but one of the most potent and carefully greased lobbies in the nation's capital is now buttonholing senators to defeat Hell's Canyon. They are making none of the mistakes of the natural gas lobby which stubbed its toe when it tried, in effect, to bribe Senator Case of South Dakota.

Guy Cordon, who as an ex-Senator, has the privilege of mingling with his former colleagues on the Senate floor, is part of this lobby. But he's only relatively a small part. Private utilities in the East, South, and Midwest have ganged up with utilities in the Northwest to stop Hell's Canyon.

Nor is the issue of federal development of Hell's Canyon solely involved. The basic backstage issue is whether the Democrats or the Republicans will control the Senate next year.

For Hell's Canyon is a fighting term in the Northwest, and its defeat in July might well mean the defeat of two key Democratic senators — Magnuson of Washington and Morse of Oregon—in November. These two votes would mean the Democrats would lose control of the Senate next year.

Reason for political passion over Hell's Canyon may not be easily understood on the pavements of New York or on the prairies of Kansas. But federal power from some of the biggest dams in the world—Grand Coulee, Bonneville—has made the Northwest blossom beyond human dreams, and the Northwest wants to keep on blossoming.

Idaho Power is not dealing in big dreams. It has a license to build one small, relatively cheap dam on the Snake. Once this is built, a big federal dam will be out of the question. It would inundate the small dam.

The Northwest knows that Hell's Canyon is the last remaining big dam site in the U. S. A. It also knows the Eisenhower administration will spend $800,000,000 on a public power dam on the Upper Colorado which private utilities don't want to build themselves because it's too expensive to be economic.

Meanwhile they see the administration giving the choicest dam site of all—Hell's Canyon—to the private utilities.

In other words, the principle of private power vs. public power is not involved, for Eisenhower has already gone in heavily for public power on the Upper Colorado where the private utilities don't want to build, but is for private power on the Snake River where the private utilities do want to build.

Democrats Desert

Here is the line-up of Democratic senators whom the utility lobbyists have been working on, and who may vote with the Republicans even if it means loss of Democratic control.

Russell of Georgia, usually a stanch Democrat has been hearing from Georgia Power and Light; Pastore of Rhode Island, another stanch Democrat, will vote with the New England power companies which have joined in the battle to help Idaho Power.

In the same category are reported Ellender and Long of Louisiana, despite the fact that the man who gave both their start, Huey Long, battled to the end against the big power companies; Frear of Delaware; Holland and Smathers of Florida; Byrd and Robertson of Virginia; and Daniel of Texas who's been hearing from friends of Texas Light and Power.

Congress' Action On Red China Warning To World

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—When the Congress of the United States by virtually unanimous votes writes into a law as important a pronouncement as the statement that it does not favor admission of the Red China government into the United Nations, one would think this news would be widely printed in this country as well as abroad.

But for some strange reason it wasn't. It's a mystery right on the door step of the "right to know" crusaders in the House Subcommittee on Government Operations which has lately become solicitous about the suppression—intentional or otherwise—of official news in other parts of the government.

Here is the exact wording of Section 110 in Public Law 603 as signed by the President on June 20, 1956:

Warning To World

"It is the sense of the Congress that the Communist China government should not be admitted to membership in the United Nations as the representative of China."

This is an important warning to the world that both political parties in the United States have taken a firm position on the matter of refusing to seat Red China's government in the United Nations. Yet in London where the prime ministers of the British Commonwealth were meeting in the last week of June and the first week in July, the conference was reported by the Uunited Press on July 2 as having decided that admission of Red China could be achieved after the November elections in the United States.

No such conclusion could possibly have been reached if the London newspapers had told the story of the action of the U. S. Congress earlier in June. Nothing is more calculated to produce friction between friendly nations than suppression of important news affecting their relations. But the British newspapers have a good alibi—they probably didn't get the item from any of their American news services. So far as this correspondent can determine by a review of a few newspapers in this country, it wasn't printed here either.

The desires of Congress were expressed in the appropriation law for the Department of State for the fiscal year that began on July 1, 1956. Because it's in an appropriation act, this can be taken to mean that it is advice to the Department of State which has the responsibility of sending instructions to the representatives of this country at the United Nations Assembly.

Congress, therefore, has put the world on notice that while it may not direct foreign policy it does control the purse strings. It may well be that American appropriations for the United Nations would be cut off despite American protests, the Red China government were voted into the United Nations.

Opposition to the admission of Red China to the U. N. never has been a political or partisan question in this country. Perhaps the most forceful and explicit declaration on the subject that has ever been made came from the pen of Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, in a speech delivered before the China Institute banquet in New York City on May 18, 1951. Mr. Rusk was at the time a subordinate of Dean Acheson who was then secretary of state under the Truman administration. What was said then can be said to be the American policy today under the Eisenhower-Dulles administration. Mr. Rusk said:

Support From Free People

"We cannot provide a formula to engage the unity of effort among all Chinese who love their country. But one thing we can say—as the Chinese people move to assert their freedom and to work out their destiny in accordance with their own historical purposes, they can count upon tremendous support from free peoples in other parts of the world.

"It is not my purpose, in these few moments this evening, to go into specific elements of our own national policy in the present situation. But we can tell our friends in China that the United States will not acquiesce in the degradation which is being forced upon them.

"We do not recognize the authorities in Peiping for what they pretend to be. The Peiping regime may be a colonial Russian government—a slavic Manchukuo on a larger scale. It is not the government of China. It does not pass the first test. It is not Chinese. It is not entitled to speak for China in the community of nations. It is entitled only to the fruits of its own conduct—the fruits of aggression upon which it is now willfully, openly and senselessly embarked.

"We recognize the national government of the Republic of China, even though the territory under its control is severely restricted. We believe it more authentically represents the views of the great body of the people of China, particularly their historic demand for independence from foreign control. That government will continue to receive important aid and assistance from the United States. Under the circumstances, however, such aid in itself cannot be decisive to the future of China. The decision and the effort are for the Chinese people, pooling their efforts, wherever they are in behalf of China.

U. S. Position Unchanged

"If the Chinese people decide for freedom, they shall find friends among the peoples of the earth who have known and love freedom. They shall find added strength from those who refuse to believe that China is fated to become a land of tyranny and aggression and who expect China to fulfill the promise of the great past."

Nothing has been said since that expresses more eloquently or more exactly the American position which is that admission of Red China into the U. N. means a discouragement to freedom and an encouragement to aggression and tyranny in the world.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The primaries are over and you know no candidate wants a summer replacement.

The little children in the mountain camps have added another item to their history books. The 48 states are united. But not the governors.

The governor of any state has enough boot training to be president, junior grade.

He lives on a hill, operates under a gilded dome and his word is law until he can think up an amendment. He handles a legislature, okays bills and signs reprieves, appropriations and et scattera.

Deep down in his portfolio it is natural for a governor to want to better his condition. So there are 48 modeling for the job.

Chickens Come Home

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

All sorts of elaborate theories have been put forward to justify the very heavy reductions in the armed forces which have been proposed by Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson and Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But there is hardly an informed man in the Pentagon who has the slightest private doubt that the theories are so much camouflage for the following simple facts.

The Eisenhower administration came to power committed to lower taxes and balance the budget. Both laudable objectives have been achieved, largely thanks to the "new look" at defense policy, which has permitted very sharp reductions in previously planned defense levels.

Won't Last Forever

Even the "new look," however, would not have permitted a balanced budget for the current fiscal year if it had not been for an artificial process of "one shot" defense reductions. For the current fiscal year the armed services were told, in effect, to live off their capital in order to permit a balanced budget.

But it is not possible to live off capital forever. On the contrary, artificially low defense spending for one fiscal year spells artificially high defense spending for the next. Moreover, certain military hardware — like the B-52 heavy bomber—is reaching the stage where it must be bought and paid for. Thus the administration's fiscal chickens are suddenly coming home to roost.

The powers that be in the administration have been horrified by the size of the unwelcome birds. For example, in order to maintain the agreed-upon force levels for the Air Force (which many air officers, like Gen. Curtis LeMay, consider already grossly inadequate) it will be necessary to up Air Force spending a cool $6 billion in the next fiscal year.

Similarly, the artificial savings for the other two services must also be made up in the next fiscal year. Preliminary estimates by the services have put the overall increase in the neighborhood of $12 billion. Final and official estimates must be submitted to Secretary Wilson by October 1.

Only One Method

Any such increase would of course knock the budget for the next fiscal year into a cocked hat. It would also knock into a cocked hat the administration's budget-balancing boasts, which are counted on heavily as campaign material for this election year.

Secretary Wilson has thus ordered that defense estimates for the next fiscal year be held down to about the current level, or at most only a billion or so more. Because the current level is artificial, there is only one way that this can be done, other than by abandoning the 137-wing air force program, to which the administration is absolutely committed.

It can only be done by the kind of very sharp reduction in military manpower which Wilson and Radford have been proposing to the dismayed Joint Chiefs. It is well to understand what a cut in manpower of 500,000 to 800,000 men would mean.

It would mean a large scale withdrawal of American forces from Europe, which would drive the last nail into NATO's coffin. In a large sense, it would also mean that the United States had passed the point of no return in total dependence on the Strategic Air Command's ability to deliver hydrogen bombs to enemy targets.

No sensible man disputes that SAC must have the power to deliver its hydrogen bombs, if the worst comes to the worst. But is is highly significant that Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief of staff, has joined the Army and Navy chiefs in protesting the proposed cuts. As one high Air Force official has remarked, "We don't want to be left all alone with SAC."

Spelled Out By Gavin

The meaning of being left all alone with SAC was spelled out in Lt. Gen. James Gavin's recent testimony before the Senate Air Power Subcommittee. A hydrogen attack on the Soviet empire would result, Gavin said, in "several hundred million deaths from radioactive fallout." The deaths would extend well back into Western Europe," or deep into Asia, "depending on which way the wind blew."

Thus, in case of future local Communist aggression, the United States would be left with the choice of killing several hundred million people, including our friends, or doing nothing at all. The administration's much-vaunted "new look," in short, threatens to leave this country in the hopeless situation of a policeman armed only with a weapon which, if used, will destroy not only the criminal at which it is aimed, but several city blocks round about.

Regular Examinations Best Retirement Insurance

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is no fun to retirement unless the individual is healthy. Sickness is just as disabling at 70 as at 40. In this respect there is no substitute for health at any age.

Many physicians have retired patients who can afford a beautiful home in Florida, California, Texas, or North Carolina. They have a car, servants galore, and always pay their bills promptly. They worked a lifetime for material success and end up with everything but health. Some are disabled by heart trouble, others by high blood pressure, paralysis, poor circulation, or a chronic lung disorder. Health was taken for granted rather than planned as part of a goal.

In retrospect, there is no advantage to retirement in the circumstances. These oldsters cannot fish because it is too difficult to get in and out of a boat, cannot enjoy a good meal because food produces indigestion, and cannot drink as cocktails aggravate their gout or cause palpitation. Dust is gathering in the workshop and golf clubs are beginning to tarnish. The retired invalid is wretched in the midst of plenty, which in itself is a double hurt.

This does not mean that the situation is hopeless. Some have given up, though they are not as sick as they think they are. Others are in need of better or more modern medical care. Many dramatic results have been obtained through rehabilitation. It requires cooperation and effort and cannot be obtained by sitting on the porch in a rocking or wheel chair.

Health is a privilege and those who want it when they retire must prepare for it. The mistakes of others should serve as a lesson for the next generation. The future looks rosy for middle aged men and women of today, provided they are willing to plan for it. Begin at 40 by inaugurating an annual physical examination. Give yourself a present every year in the form of a checkup in your birth month. This is another form of insurance that will pay dividends in the future.

Your physician will concentrate on the early changes that hasten deterioration or lead to crippling deformities in old age. This is the time to uncover diabetes, early hypertension, and emotional instability. Obesity also is a potential trouble maker and the arteries and blood pressure are likely to suffer from tension and over-fatigue. Practice moderation from now on and perhaps we can add 10 more years to the current life expectancy.

Less Time To Think On Superhighways

Those who will be first-timers this year in driving on the nation's spreading network of superhighways, are headed for a new experience. And they will be safer if they recognize in advance that driving on ordinary roads and on the high-speed turnpikes, are indeed two different things.

On limited access highways where legal speeds are as high as 60 and 70 miles an hour and where mile after mile of perfect surface invites the driver to keep at top speed, the unwary may fail to realize that decisions must be made much faster than on other roads.

This is the danger that led to an article in a recent issue of Changing Times, for it is increasingly necessary for drivers to learn the knack of turnpike driving. More than 1,600 miles of high-speed toll roads have been opened since 1940. Approximately 1,400 miles more are under construction and another 8,000 miles are authorized or proposed for the next few years.

Bad driving habits may not have too serious results at low speed, but at 60 and 70 miles the consequences are magnified. Also, the driver's reactions may be quick enough at 40 but deadly slow at 60. The car that is adequate for ordinary travel might find the non-stop, high-speed grind too much—just as tires not yet too smooth for 50 miles may fail, with tragic results, under the pace set on a superhighway.

So the first piece of advice for the driver unfamiliar with turnpikes begins with the observation that he doesn't have to maintain the maximum legal speed even if these highways are meant to reduce travel time. The driver should select a speed he knows he can handle and adjust it downward when weather and other conditions dictate.

The man at the wheel should devote his entire attention to the task, leaving map reading, scenery, and sandwiches to others or until he pauses on the side stripe with wheels well off the paving. He should maintain an increasingly greater distance from other cars as his speedometer climbs. And let him beware of the loss of judgment about speed, a hazard which haunts superhighways where drivers fail to slow down quickly enough for traffic conditions ahead or for exit ramps leading to restaurants and service stations.

These Days

The Toughest Job

There can be little question but that the toughest job in all this world is running for high office in the United States. It is a very unpleasant task because adversaries attack each other without mercy, on the assumption that the people will vote for the man who has the better of two reputations ruined during a campaign. The only compensation for this invasion of privacy and the twisting of a man's motives is the nobility of the office.

At any rate, President Eisenhower is willing to run for a second term, despite his heart and his ileum, and his running mate will be Richard Nixon. The Republicans expect to win this election and they probably will, although no election can possibly be a foregone conclusion.

The Democrats made a grievous error in making such a fuss about Ike's health. Any man can get sick and most men do when they pass their sixtieth birthday, as nature then makes a few physical adjustments which may slow up the body as the mind reaches maturity. Some people's minds remain juvenile forever, which may have some advantage, but an immature person does not belong in the Presidency. It must be assumed that Eisenhower knows what he is doing, because it is unbelievable that a man of his training would risk his country for the pride of a second term.

The Democrats are still faced by the quandary as to whether there is a Democrat who can defeat Eisenhower. It was hoped by some Democrats that they could make an issue of the President's health, but that failed because it ran counter to good taste and only irritated many persons who felt sorry for the President. When somebody stooped to bring in the evidence of a handwriting expert, the whole business became ludicrous.

So Harry Truman advised the Democrats to drop the discussion about Ike's health and to go in for attacking the special interests, which in this Administration has come to mean, more or less, General Motors. The Attorney General countered by bringing an anti-trust action against General Motors on the subject of buses. Such an action takes years, if it is pursued avidly. The probability is that it will be solved by a consent decree which will in no way affect the net earnings of General Motors.

Attacking the special interests is good sport in bad times, because then everything that is prosperous is a special interest. In good times, most people are concerned with making more dollars and making them go farther. Times are these days pretty good, except for a few spotty places. If conditions remain good up to Election Day, the special interests argument will not affect too many votes.

Actually, I think most politicians are wondering what the issue of the 1956 campaign can be. Certainly it will not be the foreign policy. Except for a few internationalist extremists on the Democratic side, and a few isolationist extremists on the Republican side, the bulk of both parties favor the same policy which started with Harry Hopkins in the time of Franklin D. Roosevelt and has continued right through the first Eisenhower Administration. Neither side can attack the other on this subject.

On the domestic side, the Democrats cannot attack the Republicans for the national debt or high taxes because it all started with the Democrats and continued with the Republicans. The tariff cannot be an issue because the Republicans got lower tariff rates than the Democrats. Maybe immigration could be developed into something to quarrel about, but surely no big city Democrat is prepared to oppose the Eisenhower ideas on liberalization of the McCarran-Walter Act and the Refugee Relief Act. Business, farmers, labor all get direct or indirect subsidies and got them in the time of Roosevelt and Truman as well as Eisenhower.

Therefore, what is there to campaign about? Personalities? Ike's health or his golf record; Stevenson's sartorial get-up; Nixon's fitness to be President should Ike die? Are these campaign issues?

Maybe there is nothing else to talk about. At any rate, in 1952, an issue could be made about Communism in the United States and everybody said he was against it but for a different reason and that he would use different methods to stamp it out. Maybe the Democrats will pick that one up in 1956.

The Promised Land . . .

Congress' Action On Red China Warning To World

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—When the Congress of the United States by virtually unanimous votes writes into a law as important a pronouncement as the statement that it does not favor admission of the Red China government into the United Nations, one would think this news would be widely printed in this country as well as abroad.

But for some strange reason it wasn't. It's a mystery right on the door step of the "right to know" crusaders in the House Subcommittee on Government Operations which has lately become solicitous about the suppression—intentional or otherwise—of official news in other parts of the government.

Here is the exact wording of Section 110 in Public Law 603 as signed by the President on June 20, 1956:

Warning To World

"It is the sense of the Congress that the Communist China government should not be admitted to membership in the United Nations as the representative of China."

This is an important warning to the world that both political parties in the United States have taken a firm position on the matter of refusing to seat Red China's government in the United Nations. Yet in London where the prime ministers of the British Commonwealth were meeting in the last week of June and the first week in July, the conference was reported by the Uunited Press on July 2 as having decided that admission of Red China could be achieved after the November elections in the United States.

No such conclusion could possibly have been reached if the London newspapers had told the story of the action of the U. S. Congress earlier in June. Nothing is more calculated to produce friction between friendly nations than suppression of important news affecting their relations. But the British newspapers have a good alibi—they probably didn't get the item from any of their American news services. So far as this correspondent can determine by a review of a few newspapers in this country, it wasn't printed here either.

The desires of Congress were expressed in the appropriation law for the Department of State for the fiscal year that began on July 1, 1956. Because it's in an appropriation act, this can be taken to mean that it is advice to the Department of State which has the responsibility of sending instructions to the representatives of this country at the United Nations Assembly.

Congress, therefore, has put the world on notice that while it may not direct foreign policy it does control the purse strings. It may well be that American appropriations for the United Nations would be cut off despite American protests, the Red China government were voted into the United Nations.

Opposition to the admission of Red China to the U. N. never has been a political or partisan question in this country. Perhaps the most forceful and explicit declaration on the subject that has ever been made came from the pen of Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern Affairs, in a speech delivered before the China Institute banquet in New York City on May 18, 1951. Mr. Rusk was at the time a subordinate of Dean Acheson who was then secretary of state under the Truman administration. What was said then can be said to be the American policy today under the Eisenhower-Dulles administration. Mr. Rusk said:

Support From Free People

"We cannot provide a formula to engage the unity of effort among all Chinese who love their country. But one thing we can say—as the Chinese people move to assert their freedom and to work out their destiny in accordance with their own historical purposes, they can count upon tremendous support from free peoples in other parts of the world.

"It is not my purpose, in these few moments this evening, to go into specific elements of our own national policy in the present situation. But we can tell our friends in China that the United States will not acquiesce in the degradation which is being forced upon them.

"We do not recognize the authorities in Peiping for what they pretend to be. The Peiping regime may be a colonial Russian government—a slavic Manchukuo on a larger scale. It is not the government of China. It does not pass the first test. It is not Chinese. It is not entitled to speak for China in the community of nations. It is entitled only to the fruits of its own conduct—the fruits of aggression upon which it is now willfully, openly and senselessly embarked.

"We recognize the national government of the Republic of China, even though the territory under its control is severely restricted. We believe it more authentically represents the views of the great body of the people of China, particularly their historic demand for independence from foreign control. That government will continue to receive important aid and assistance from the United States. Under the circumstances, however, such aid in itself cannot be decisive to the future of China. The decision and the effort are for the Chinese people, pooling their efforts, wherever they are in behalf of China.

U. S. Position Unchanged

"If the Chinese people decide for freedom, they shall find friends among the peoples of the earth who have known and love freedom. They shall find added strength from those who refuse to believe that China is fated to become a land of tyranny and aggression and who expect China to fulfill the promise of the great past."

Nothing has been said since that expresses more eloquently or more exactly the American position which is that admission of Red China into the U. N. means a discouragement to freedom and an encouragement to aggression and tyranny in the world.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

The primaries are over and you know no candidate wants a summer replacement.

The little children in the mountain camps have added another item to their history books. The 48 states are united. But not the governors.

The governor of any state has enough boot training to be president, junior grade.

He lives on a hill, operates under a gilded dome and his word is law until he can think up an amendment. He handles a legislature, okays bills and signs reprieves, appropriations and et scattera.

Deep down in his portfolio it is natural for a governor to want to better his condition. So there are 48 modeling for the job.

Regular Examinations Best Retirement Insurance

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is no fun to retirement unless the individual is healthy. Sickness is just as disabling at 70 as at 40. In this respect there is no substitute for health at any age.

Many physicians have retired patients who can afford a beautiful home in Florida, California, Texas, or North Carolina. They have a car, servants galore, and always pay their bills promptly. They worked a lifetime for material success and end up with everything but health. Some are disabled by heart trouble, others by high blood pressure, paralysis, poor circulation, or a chronic lung disorder. Health was taken for granted rather than planned as part of a goal.

In retrospect, there is no advantage to retirement in the circumstances. These oldsters cannot fish because it is too difficult to get in and out of a boat, cannot enjoy a good meal because food produces indigestion, and cannot drink as cocktails aggravate their gout or cause palpitation. Dust is gathering in the workshop and golf clubs are beginning to tarnish. The retired invalid is wretched in the midst of plenty, which in itself is a double hurt.

This does not mean that the situation is hopeless. Some have given up, though they are not as sick as they think they are. Others are in need of better or more modern medical care. Many dramatic results have been obtained through rehabilitation. It requires cooperation and effort and cannot be obtained by sitting on the porch in a rocking or wheel chair.

Health is a privilege and those who want it when they retire must prepare for it. The mistakes of others should serve as a lesson for the next generation. The future looks rosy for middle aged men and women of today, provided they are willing to plan for it. Begin at 40 by inaugurating an annual physical examination. Give yourself a present every year in the form of a checkup in your birth month. This is another form of insurance that will pay dividends in the future.

Your physician will concentrate on the early changes that hasten deterioration or lead to crippling deformities in old age. This is the time to uncover diabetes, early hypertension, and emotional instability. Obesity also is a potential trouble maker and the arteries and blood pressure are likely to suffer from tension and over-fatigue. Practice moderation from now on and perhaps we can add 10 more years to the current life expectancy.

Ex-Senator Cordon Now Receiving Retainers From Private Utilities

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In the files of the Federal Power Commission are significant facts about certain lobbyists now engaged in one of the biggest legislative battles in Washington.

The big private utilities are required to publish the amounts they pay various people, and if you take the trouble to look at the 1955 annual report of the Idaho Power Company, on file at the FPC, Page 56, you will find this notation: "VII. 1 (A) Guy Cordon-Washington, DC (B) retainer (C) basis of charges—time required and expenses incurred. (D) account 796."

Guy Cordon, of course, is the amiable ex-senator from Oregon, Republican, defeated in 1954 by Senator Richard Neuberger during a campaign in which Neuberger accused Cordon of being friendly to the big private utilities and against federal development of Hell's Canyon on the Snake River. Cordon denied these charges at the time.

However, if you look at Account 796, Page 81, of the Idaho Power Company report you will find listed disbursements for legal services of $31,999.95, of which $18,348.75 went to Parry, Keenan, Robertson and Daly in Twin Falls, Idaho, and the balance to ex-Senator Cordon.

Further search through Power Commission files shows that Senator Cordon also is being paid by Washington Water Power Company, another big utility which is fighting against Hell's Canyon. Both Idaho Power and Washington Water Power were once part of the giant holding company, Electric Bond and Share, before FDR's Holding Company Act broke them up.

Cordon is paid a "retainer fee for 1955 of $10,000 in equal monthly installments."

Further search of the FPC records shows that Portland General Electric, which also has joined Idaho Power in financing the campaign against public development of Hell's Canyon, lists ex-Senator Cordon as getting a retainer of $10,000 per year, "commencing January 1955 as per oral agreement."

January 1955 was immediately after Cordon stepped out of the Senate. In other words, he retired on December 31, 1954, and immediately began picking up retainers from the private utilities to help them defeat public power at Hell's Canyon.

Well-Greased Lobby

You don't hear much about it, but one of the most potent and carefully greased lobbies in the nation's capital is now buttonholing senators to defeat Hell's Canyon. They are making none of the mistakes of the natural gas lobby which stubbed its toe when it tried, in effect, to bribe Senator Case of South Dakota.

Guy Cordon, who as an ex-Senator, has the privilege of mingling with his former colleagues on the Senate floor, is part of this lobby. But he's only relatively a small part. Private utilities in the East, South, and Midwest have ganged up with utilities in the Northwest to stop Hell's Canyon.

Nor is the issue of federal development of Hell's Canyon solely involved. The basic backstage issue is whether the Democrats or the Republicans will control the Senate next year.

For Hell's Canyon is a fighting term in the Northwest, and its defeat in July might well mean the defeat of two key Democratic senators — Magnuson of Washington and Morse of Oregon—in November. These two votes would mean the Democrats would lose control of the Senate next year.

Reason for political passion over Hell's Canyon may not be easily understood on the pavements of New York or on the prairies of Kansas. But federal power from some of the biggest dams in the world—Grand Coulee, Bonneville—has made the Northwest blossom beyond human dreams, and the Northwest wants to keep on blossoming.

Idaho Power is not dealing in big dreams. It has a license to build one small, relatively cheap dam on the Snake. Once this is built, a big federal dam will be out of the question. It would inundate the small dam.

The Northwest knows that Hell's Canyon is the last remaining big dam site in the U. S. A. It also knows the Eisenhower administration will spend $800,000,000 on a public power dam on the Upper Colorado which private utilities don't want to build themselves because it's too expensive to be economic.

Meanwhile they see the administration giving the choicest dam site of all—Hell's Canyon—to the private utilities.

In other words, the principle of private power vs. public power is not involved, for Eisenhower has already gone in heavily for public power on the Upper Colorado where the private utilities don't want to build, but is for private power on the Snake River where the private utilities do want to build.

Democrats Desert

Here is the line-up of Democratic senators whom the utility lobbyists have been working on, and who may vote with the Republicans even if it means loss of Democratic control.

Russell of Georgia, usually a stanch Democrat has been hearing from Georgia Power and Light; Pastore of Rhode Island, another stanch Democrat, will vote with the New England power companies which have joined in the battle to help Idaho Power.

In the same category are reported Ellender and Long of Louisiana, despite the fact that the man who gave both their start, Huey Long, battled to the end against the big power companies; Frear of Delaware; Holland and Smathers of Florida; Byrd and Robertson of Virginia; and Daniel of Texas who's been hearing from friends of Texas Light and Power.

Chickens Come Home

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

All sorts of elaborate theories have been put forward to justify the very heavy reductions in the armed forces which have been proposed by Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson and Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But there is hardly an informed man in the Pentagon who has the slightest private doubt that the theories are so much camouflage for the following simple facts.

The Eisenhower administration came to power committed to lower taxes and balance the budget. Both laudable objectives have been achieved, largely thanks to the "new look" at defense policy, which has permitted very sharp reductions in previously planned defense levels.

Won't Last Forever

Even the "new look," however, would not have permitted a balanced budget for the current fiscal year if it had not been for an artificial process of "one shot" defense reductions. For the current fiscal year the armed services were told, in effect, to live off their capital in order to permit a balanced budget.

But it is not possible to live off capital forever. On the contrary, artificially low defense spending for one fiscal year spells artificially high defense spending for the next. Moreover, certain military hardware — like the B-52 heavy bomber—is reaching the stage where it must be bought and paid for. Thus the administration's fiscal chickens are suddenly coming home to roost.

The powers that be in the administration have been horrified by the size of the unwelcome birds. For example, in order to maintain the agreed-upon force levels for the Air Force (which many air officers, like Gen. Curtis LeMay, consider already grossly inadequate) it will be necessary to up Air Force spending a cool $6 billion in the next fiscal year.

Similarly, the artificial savings for the other two services must also be made up in the next fiscal year. Preliminary estimates by the services have put the overall increase in the neighborhood of $12 billion. Final and official estimates must be submitted to Secretary Wilson by October 1.

Only One Method

Any such increase would of course knock the budget for the next fiscal year into a cocked hat. It would also knock into a cocked hat the administration's budget-balancing boasts, which are counted on heavily as campaign material for this election year.

Secretary Wilson has thus ordered that defense estimates for the next fiscal year be held down to about the current level, or at most only a billion or so more. Because the current level is artificial, there is only one way that this can be done, other than by abandoning the 137-wing air force program, to which the administration is absolutely committed.

It can only be done by the kind of very sharp reduction in military manpower which Wilson and Radford have been proposing to the dismayed Joint Chiefs. It is well to understand what a cut in manpower of 500,000 to 800,000 men would mean.

It would mean a large scale withdrawal of American forces from Europe, which would drive the last nail into NATO's coffin. In a large sense, it would also mean that the United States had passed the point of no return in total dependence on the Strategic Air Command's ability to deliver hydrogen bombs to enemy targets.

No sensible man disputes that SAC must have the power to deliver its hydrogen bombs, if the worst comes to the worst. But is is highly significant that Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief of staff, has joined the Army and Navy chiefs in protesting the proposed cuts. As one high Air Force official has remarked, "We don't want to be left all alone with SAC."

Spelled Out By Gavin

The meaning of being left all alone with SAC was spelled out in Lt. Gen. James Gavin's recent testimony before the Senate Air Power Subcommittee. A hydrogen attack on the Soviet empire would result, Gavin said, in "several hundred million deaths from radioactive fallout." The deaths would extend well back into Western Europe," or deep into Asia, "depending on which way the wind blew."

Thus, in case of future local Communist aggression, the United States would be left with the choice of killing several hundred million people, including our friends, or doing nothing at all. The administration's much-vaunted "new look," in short, threatens to leave this country in the hopeless situation of a policeman armed only with a weapon which, if used, will destroy not only the criminal at which it is aimed, but several city blocks round about.

The victory was the seventh in a row for the league leaders.

Ronnie Young, who won four games and lost five for Valley High School in the Bi-State Conference this year, limited Frostburg to two hits, singles by Anderson and Staggs, struck out seven, failed to issue a base on balls and notched his third win against one loss in the Legion circuit.

Midland rapped the offerings of three pitchers for 14 hits, including three by "Champ" Spiker who blasted a pair of two-baggers and a single in four official trips. Warnick, Johnson, Rogish and Winters collected two hits each.

The Fort Cumberland-Oakland contest scheduled yesterday at Fort Hill Field was postponed on account of wet grounds. It marked the second time in a week that the teams were idled because of rain. Box score of yesterday's Midland-Frostburg game:

Near Riot Mars Game

Gomez Hits Adcock With Ball Twice

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—Ruben Gomez hit Milwaukee's big Joe Adcock with a ball twice tonight and the Braves-Giants game exploded into a near riot that ended only after the Braves had piled into the New York dugout after the fleeing Gomez.

The trouble came in the second inning, after the Milwaukee first baseman had been hit on the right wrist by a pitched ball.

As Adcock walked toward first base, he looked toward Gomez on the mound and apparently said something. Gomez apparently answered and Joe charged toward the pitchers mound.

When he was about half way there Gomez threw the ball at him and hit him on the left leg. Before Adcock could reach Gomez in pursuit.

Milwaukee's third base coach, Johnny Riddle, threw a flying tackle at Adcock, but missed. Several Giant players blocked Adcock's path. Then in split seconds the Braves dug out emptied of players, all racing toward the Giant dug out in what for a moment looked like a full scale player riot.

The stadium organist started playing the National Anthem, but for a full two minutes no one paid any attention as players from both teams milled about the Giant dug out.

The umpires restored order in about five minutes, and both Adcock and Gomez were ejected from the game.

New York Halts Milwaukee, 8-6

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—The New York Giants and the Milwaukee Braves turned their game into a near riot tonight before the last place Giants came from behind to score an 8-6 victory in 11 innings and snap a seven game Milwaukee winning streak.

Honors For Cronin Hott To Head West

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN eight girl and boy orphans from Greece arrived last weekend at New York's Idlewood Airport, on their way to foster homes in this country, they were met by Leo J. Lamberson, of South Bend, Ind., chairman of the executive board of the AHEPA Refugee Relief Committee.

LEO J. LAMBERSON

The youngsters have been adopted by residents in nine states.

This item should be of interest locally because Leo J. Lamberson is a prominent attorney of South Bend, Ind., and is a brother of little Jimmy Lamberson, who once won 18 bouts around Cumberland as a flyweight, bantam and featherweight boxer under the management of Christ Charuhas, now proprietor of the Nu Way Hat Cleaners and Shoe Rebuilders, North Mechanic street.

Leo and Jimmy came up the hard way in LaPorte, Indiana. Their parents were poor and the kids had to go to work to scrape up enough money to make a living.

They picked up a few bucks occasionally at carnivals. Leo, who then scaled around 200, would do the wrestling and little Jimmy would box.

Leo decided to get a college education so he entered Davis and Elkins at Elkins, W. Va. In his spare time he worked at the Coney Island Lunch Room on Liberty street, serving up the hot dogs, cleaning dishes, pots and pans and mopping the floors. Jimmy aided his brother by turning over a good portion of his ring earnings to help Leo through school.

Jimmy came here on the advice of his brother and made his home with Charuhas during the time he was boxing professionally. He returned to Indiana about 1931 after living here for three years and died of leukemia in an Indianapolis hospital in 1945.

Leo went on to prominence in the law profession and politics at South Bend and rose to the office of supreme president of the Order of AHEPA. In recent years he returned to Greece to supervise the construction of three hospitals. As he took on greater responsibilities he also added weight and today he tips the beam around the 250 mark.

The moral of this story is always be kind to the fellow behind the counter serving your hot dog or hamburger sandwich. Who knows, he too might be a famous Greek some day!

JOE GALLEN reports the tape measure movement, popularized by Mickey Mantle's long home run blasts, has spread to Cumberland.

Another four-bagger walloped ove. the right field fence at the same park by Ted McGraw of the Times-News Hot Stove League team, went 303 feet, 4 inches. The fence in right field is 280 feet from the plate.

INDUCTION of Joseph E. Cronin into Baseball's Hall of Fame next Monday at Cooperstown, N. Y., brings back memories of the first year of the Middle Atlantic League when the classy young shortstop played for Manager Norman McNeill's championship team at Johnstown.

Cronin was the property of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 when Glenn Wright was the Bucs' brilliant shortstop. Joe was farmed to Johnstown for more seasoning and he was a member of a fine infield quartet quartet that included Eddie Montague, Jose Olivares and the hard-hitting Mike Martineck.

Other members of that Johnstown club were pitchers Jack Matthews, Lefty Schmutte and Grover Hinebaugh, catchers McNeill and Dick Vassey and Jimmy "Rip" Collins, who later starred with the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs, and Nat Hickey, outfielders.

In spite of this star-studded lineup, Cumberland's Colts gave the Johnnies a great run for the honors, losing the first half race by 2½ games and the second half dash by three games.

Cronin, Collins, Hickey and Matthews were very friendly and whenever they came to town they'd head for the old NEWS office to talk baseball. At that time the writer served as official scorer for the league as well as Cumberland.

James F. McGuire managed the Colts and the other skippers were Pat Eastley at Wheeling, Cy Ferry at Fairmont, "Pop" Shriver at Clarksburg and Joe Brehany at Scottdale.

Cronin went on to star as a player and player-manager at Washington and Boston. During his 20-year major league career with the Senators and Bosox he batted .302 and collected 2,285 hits. He succeeded Walter Johnson as manager at Washington in 1933 and piloted the team for two years and served as leader of the Red Sox for 13 years, 1935 through 1947.

Joe appeared in five all-star games, his last being in 1940 when he managed the American Leaguers.

Today he is vice president, treasurer and general manager of the Boston Club.

Hank Greenberg also will be formally inducted into the Hall of Fame at exercises on Monday.

The New York Giants and Detroit Tigers will clash at 2:30 p. m.

BALTIMORE'S COLTS of the National Football League are following the Georgia Tech idea of adding shoulder numerals to their uniforms.

It will be easier to credit tackles and blocks from the press box because on many occasions a player's shoulders are in plain view, although his front and back numerals are obscured.

Los Angeles and New York also plan to sport the shoulder numerals during the 1956 season.

GEORGE HOTT, one-time Moorefield High School gridiron, baseball and basketball star, will depart this week for the California training camp of the Washington Redskins.

George was born at Baker, W. Va., January 30, 1928, one of four sons. He is married and has two children.

Freddy Wyant, West Virginia University backfield ace of recent seasons, also is among the 25 backfield candidates headed for the 'Skins camp.

Baltimore Beats Chicago Twice

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Rookie Don Ferrarese pitched a three-hitter and veteran Bill Wight followed up with a six-hit job as Baltimore swept a double-header from the faltering Chicago White Sox by identical 5-3 scores before 21,209 fans tonight.

The twin setback extended the Chisox' losing streak to 10 in a row and dropped them to fourth place in the American League pennant chase.

Whipped in three previous games of the series by scores of 14-8, 20-9 and 9-5, the B.P.O. Elks turned on the Eagles yesterday and thumped them to the tune of 10-5 at Allegany Field in a Rocking Chair Softball League battle.

A three-run homer by Jim Fahey in the first inning got the Elks off to a flying start but the Eagles went ahead at 5-3 in the fifth. Trailing 5-4, the Elks rallied for six runs in the fifth to put the game on ice.

Fahey had a double in addition to his homer, Johnny Cox and "Tag" Reel had two hits each and Paul Roeder, shortfielder provided the fielding gem when he snared a line drive from Jim Gaffney's bat.

The Loyal Order of Moose and V.F.W. won and remained tied for third place.

Wade Decisions Law

Bob Wade outpitched "Bud" Law to give the Moose a 3-1 decision over the Knights of Columbus at Post Playground.

The Moose scored all of their runs in the fifth frame. John Esposito was safe on an error, "Red" McClure walked and Tommy Head got a life on an error to load the bassocks. Then Elmer Furlow drove in two runs with a double and Bob Wade's sacrifice fly sent over the final run of the inning.

McClure, Furlow and Wade shared six of the winners' eight hits. Wade and Furlow rapped two-baggers. Pete Cecil played outstanding ball at third base for the winners. "Chick" Snider obtained two of the five hits yielded by Wade and scored the Knights' lone run in the fifth on Law's base hit. Jack Steiner stood out with several nice catches in centerfield for the K. of C.

Klavuhn Beats Silkmen

The Vets racked up ten hits, including Bob Koelker's three-run homer and single, Paul Laber's triple and single and two one-base knocks by Klavuhn. Scores:

Kucks Blanks Tigers, 4-0, Yanks Win 11th Straight

Johnny Cops No. 14, Hoeft Loses 7th

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Righthander Johnny Kucks became the first 14-game winner of the season in the major leagues tonight as the New York Yankees smacked the Detroit Tigers 4-0 for their 11th straight victory — padding their bulging American League lead to 10½ games.

Hoeft, Maas (8) and House; Kucks and Berra. L—Hoeft.

Kucks, a sophomore who has lost four games, didn't give the Tigers a hit until Ray Boone's leadoff double in the fifth. He wound up with a six-hitter, and seldom was in trouble.

The Tigers—a 5½-million-dollar baseball property counting Briggs Stadium and other holdings, but only a sixth-place club in the pennant race—now have lost three in a row and four of their last five.

The Yankees, winning 18 of their last 20 games and 25 of their last 31 to make a farce of the current "race," produced three runs in the first inning for Kucks, tagging lefthander Billy Hoeft for four singles while sending nine men to the plate.

Then they added another run in the sixth on Jerry Coleman's single, a sacrifice, a stolen base and Gil McDougald's single to guarantee Hoeft's seventh defeat against 11 victories.

Mickey Mantle, much to the disappointment of the 26,266 fans, fanned twice and walked twice.

The Yankees' 11-game streak is tops in the AL this season, but has been matched in the National League by Milwaukee.

Williams Hits Homer No. 400, Beats A's, 1-0

Boston Grabs Pair, Copping First, 10-0

BOSTON, July 17 (AP)—Ted Williams' 400th major league home run—a majestic 430 foot drive into the right field bleachers — beat Kansas City 1-0 for Boston tonight as the Red Sox swept a twi-night doubleheader.

Williams' big moment as the fifth man in major league history to reach the magic figure followed righthander Tom Brewer's four-hit, 10-0 triumph in the opener.

Wiliams' homer sent veteran righthander Tom Gorman's first pitch in the sixth inning 15 rows into the seats behind the visitors bullpen.

The drive was Ted's sixth of the year and first since July 8. He went 59 games, until June 22, to get his first in '56.

It took Williams' blast to help Bob Porterfield, pitching his best game of the year, to gain his third triumph of the campaign after five straight losses. His record is 3-8.

Ronnie Young Holds Farrady To Two Blows

Posts Third Win, 14-Hit Attack Is Sparked By Spiker

LEGION JR. LEAGUE

The victory was the seventh in a row for the league leaders.

Ronnie Young, who won four games and lost five for Valley High School in the Bi-State Conference this year, limited Frostburg to two hits, singles by Anderson and Staggs, struck out seven, failed to issue a base on balls and notched his third win against one loss in the Legion circuit.

Midland rapped the offerings of three pitchers for 14 hits, including three by "Champ" Spiker who blasted a pair of two-baggers and a single in four official trips. Warnick, Johnson, Rogish and Winters collected two hits each.

The Fort Cumberland-Oakland contest scheduled yesterday at Fort Hill Field was postponed on account of wet grounds. It marked the second time in a week that the teams were idled because of rain. Box score of yesterday's Midland-Frostburg game:

Near Riot Mars Game

Gomez Hits Adcock With Ball Twice

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—Ruben Gomez hit Milwaukee's big Joe Adcock with a ball twice tonight and the Braves-Giants game exploded into a near riot that ended only after the Braves had piled into the New York dugout after the fleeing Gomez.

The trouble came in the second inning, after the Milwaukee first baseman had been hit on the right wrist by a pitched ball.

As Adcock walked toward first base, he looked toward Gomez on the mound and apparently said something. Gomez apparently answered and Joe charged toward the pitchers mound.

When he was about half way there Gomez threw the ball at him and hit him on the left leg. Before Adcock could reach Gomez in pursuit.

Milwaukee's third base coach, Johnny Riddle, threw a flying tackle at Adcock, but missed. Several Giant players blocked Adcock's path. Then in split seconds the Braves dug out emptied of players, all racing toward the Giant dug out in what for a moment looked like a full scale player riot.

The stadium organist started playing the National Anthem, but for a full two minutes no one paid any attention as players from both teams milled about the Giant dug out.

The umpires restored order in about five minutes, and both Adcock and Gomez were ejected from the game.

New York Halts Milwaukee, 8-6

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—The New York Giants and the Milwaukee Braves turned their game into a near riot tonight before the last place Giants came from behind to score an 8-6 victory in 11 innings and snap a seven game Milwaukee winning streak.

WHEN eight girl and boy orphans from Greece arrived last weekend at New York's Idlewood Airport, on their way to foster homes in this country, they were met by Leo J. Lamberson, of South Bend, Ind., chairman of the executive board of the AHEPA Refugee Relief Committee.

LEO J. LAMBERSON

The youngsters have been adopted by residents in nine states.

This item should be of interest locally because Leo J. Lamberson is a prominent attorney of South Bend, Ind., and is a brother of little Jimmy Lamberson, who once won 18 bouts around Cumberland as a flyweight, bantam and featherweight boxer under the management of Christ Charuhas, now proprietor of the Nu Way Hat Cleaners and Shoe Rebuilders, North Mechanic street.

Leo and Jimmy came up the hard way in LaPorte, Indiana. Their parents were poor and the kids had to go to work to scrape up enough money to make a living.

They picked up a few bucks occasionally at carnivals. Leo, who then scaled around 200, would do the wrestling and little Jimmy would box.

Leo decided to get a college education so he entered Davis and Elkins at Elkins, W. Va. In his spare time he worked at the Coney Island Lunch Room on Liberty street, serving up the hot dogs, cleaning dishes, pots and pans and mopping the floors. Jimmy aided his brother by turning over a good portion of his ring earnings to help Leo through school.

Jimmy came here on the advice of his brother and made his home with Charuhas during the time he was boxing professionally. He returned to Indiana about 1931 after living here for three years and died of leukemia in an Indianapolis hospital in 1945.

Leo went on to prominence in the law profession and politics at South Bend and rose to the office of supreme president of the Order of AHEPA. In recent years he returned to Greece to supervise the construction of three hospitals. As he took on greater responsibilities he also added weight and today he tips the beam around the 250 mark.

The moral of this story is always be kind to the fellow behind the counter serving your hot dog or hamburger sandwich. Who knows, he too might be a famous Greek some day!

JOE GALLEN reports the tape measure movement, popularized by Mickey Mantle's long home run blasts, has spread to Cumberland.

Another four-bagger walloped ove. the right field fence at the same park by Ted McGraw of the Times-News Hot Stove League team, went 303 feet, 4 inches. The fence in right field is 280 feet from the plate.

INDUCTION of Joseph E. Cronin into Baseball's Hall of Fame next Monday at Cooperstown, N. Y., brings back memories of the first year of the Middle Atlantic League when the classy young shortstop played for Manager Norman McNeill's championship team at Johnstown.

Cronin was the property of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 when Glenn Wright was the Bucs' brilliant shortstop. Joe was farmed to Johnstown for more seasoning and he was a member of a fine infield quartet quartet that included Eddie Montague, Jose Olivares and the hard-hitting Mike Martineck.

Other members of that Johnstown club were pitchers Jack Matthews, Lefty Schmutte and Grover Hinebaugh, catchers McNeill and Dick Vassey and Jimmy "Rip" Collins, who later starred with the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs, and Nat Hickey, outfieiders.

In spite of this star-studded lineup, Cumberland's Colts gave the Johnnies a great run for the honors, losing the first half race by 2½ games and the second half dash by three games.

Cronin, Collins, Hickey and Matthews were very friendly and whenever they came to town they'd head for the old NEWS office to talk baseball. At that time the writer served as official scorer for the league as well as Cumberland.

James F. McGuire managed the Colts and the other skippers were Pat Eastley at Wheeling, Cy Ferry at Fairmont, "Pop" Shriver at Clarksburg and Joe Brehany at Scottdale.

Cronin went on to star as a player and player-manager at Washington and Boston. During his 20-year major league career with the Senators and Bosox he batted .302 and collected 2,285 hits. He succeeded Walter Johnson as manager at Washington in 1933 and piloted the team for two years and served as leader of the Red Sox for 13 years, 1935 through 1947.

Joe appeared in five all-star games, his last being in 1940 when he managed the American Leaguers.

Today he is vice president, treasurer and general manager of the Boston Club.

Hank Greenberg also will be formally inducted into the Hall of Fame at exercises on Monday.

The New York Giants and Detroit Tigers will clash at 2:30 p. m.

BALTIMORE'S COLTS of the National Football League are following the Georgia Tech idea of adding shoulder numerals to their uniforms.

It will be easier to credit tackles and blocks from the press box because on many occasions a player's shoulders are in plain view, although his front and back numerals are obscured.

Los Angeles and New York also plan to sport the shoulder numerals during the 1956 season.

GEORGE HOTT, one-time Moorefield High School gridiron, baseball and basketball star, will depart this week for the California training camp of the Washington Redskins.

George was born at Baker, W. Va., January 30, 1928, one of four sons. He is married and has two children.

Freddy Wyant, West Virginia University backfield ace of recent seasons, also is among the 25 backfield candidates headed for the 'Skins camp.

Baltimore Beats Chicago Twice

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Rookie Don Ferrarese pitched a three-hitter and veteran Bill Wight followed up with a six-hit job as Baltimore swept a double-header from the faltering Chicago White Sox by identical 5-3 scores before 21,209 fans tonight.

The twin setback extended the Chisox' losing streak to 10 in a row and dropped them to fourth place in the American League pennant chase.

Whipped in three previous games of the series by scores of 14-8, 20-9 and 9-5, the B.P.O. Elks turned on the Eagles yesterday and thumped them to the tune of 10-5 at Allegany Field in a Rocking Chair Softball League battle.

A three-run homer by Jim Fahey in the first inning got the Elks off to a flying start but the Eagles went ahead at 5-3 in the fifth. Trailing 5-4, the Elks rallied for six runs in the fifth to put the game on ice.

Fahey had a double in addition to his homer, Johnny Cox and "Tag" Reel had two hits each and Paul Roeder, shortfielder provided the fielding gem when he snared a line drive from Jim Gaffney's bat.

The Loyal Order of Moose and V.F.W. won and remained tied for third place.

Wade Decisions Law

Bob Wade outpitched "Bud" Law to give the Moose a 3-1 decision over the Knights of Columbus at Post Playground.

The Moose scored all of their runs in the fifth frame. John Esposito was safe on an error, "Red" McClure walked and Tommy Head got a life on an error to load the hassocks. Then Elmer Furlow drove in two runs with a double and Bob Wade's sacrifice fly sent over the final run of the inning.

McClure, Furlow and Wade shared six of the winners' eight hits. Wade and Furlow rapped two-baggers. Pete Cecil played outstanding ball at third base for the winners. "Chick" Snider obtained two of the five hits yielded by Wade and scored the Knights' lone run in the fifth on Law's base hit. Jack Steiner stood out with several nice catches in centerfield for the K. of C.

Klavuhn Beats Silkmen

The Vets racked up ten hits, including Bob Koelker's three-run homer and single, Paul Laber's triple and single and two one-base knocks by Klavuhn. Scores:

Kucks Blanks Tigers, 4-0, Yanks Win 11th Straight

Johnny Cops No. 14, Hoeft Loses 7th

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Righthander Johnny Kucks became the first 14-game winner of the season in the major leagues tonight as the New York Yankees smacked the Detroit Tigers 4-0 for their 11th straight victory — padding their bulging American League lead to 10½ games.

Hoeft, Maas (8) and House; Kucks and Berra. L—Hoeft.

Kucks, a sophomore who has lost four games, didn't give the Tigers a hit until Ray Boone's leadoff double in the fifth. He wound up with a six-hitter, and seldom was in trouble.

The Tigers—a 5½-million-dollar baseball property counting Briggs Stadium and other holdings, but only a sixth-place club in the pennant race—now have lost three in a row and four of their last five.

The Yankees, winning 18 of their last 20 games and 25 of their last 31 to make a farce of the current "race," produced three runs in the first inning for Kucks, tagging lefthander Billy Hoeft for four singles while sending nine men to the plate.

Then they added another run in the sixth on Jerry Coleman's single, a sacrifice, a stolen base and Gil McDougald's single to guarantee Hoeft's seventh defeat against 11 victories.

Mickey Mantle, much to the disappointment of the 26,266 fans, fanned twice and walked twice.

The Yankees' 11-game streak is tops in the AL this season, but has been matched in the National League by Milwaukee.

Williams Hits Homer No. 400, Beats A's, 1-0

Boston Grabs Pair, Copping First, 10-0

BOSTON, July 17 (AP)—Ted Williams' 400th major league home run—a majestic 430 foot drive into the right field bleachers — beat Kansas City 1-0 for Boston tonight as the Red Sox swept a twi-night doubleheader.

Williams' big moment as the fifth man in major league history to reach the magic figure followed righthander Tom Brewer's four-hit, 10-0 triumph in the opener.

Wiliams' homer sent veteran righthander Tom Gorman's first pitch in the sixth inning 15 rows into the seats behind the visitors bullpen.

The drive was Ted's sixth of the year and first since July 8. He went 59 games, until June 22, to get his first in '56.

It took Williams' blast to help Bob Porterfield, pitching his best game of the year, to gain his third triumph of the campaign after five straight losses. His record is 3-8.

Greenberg Plants Time Bomb Under Cleveland Indians

Avila, Garcia May Figure In Big Shake-Up

BY HOWARD BABCOCK

CLEVELAND, July 17—(INS)—General Manager Hank Greenberg planted a time bomb under several members of the Cleveland Indians today and set it to go off before July 31, blasting some of them right off the team.

The Indian chief, grossly dissatisfied with the Tribe's recent flop, which has dropped them 10 games behind the league-leading New York Yankees, would not say who would be shipped out, but admitted he was "very disappointed" in performances by second baseman Bobby Avila and pitcher Mike Garcia and said he would do everything possible to strengthen the sagging Redskins.

This includes acquiring one or more established hitters by trade or outright purchase, and bringing up the cream of the Tribe's minor league crop.

Greenberg swung into action after the Indians dropped three to New York and one to Boston and after a conference with major stockholder Aloysius O'Shaughnessy.

Greenberg said O'Shaughnessy did not take a "win or else" attitude as reported by one Cleveland paper, but said he is eager to win the pennant.

"Naturally, we'll have to make room for any new players," said Greenberg, "and that means someone will have to go. I don't believe it's fair to say who it might be, but it must be done before the July 31 deadline."

Avila, Garcia Flop

Although he did not definitely say which players would go in a major shake-up, the former home run king admitted that Avila and Garcia have been anything but outstanding.

"It isn't fair to place the entire blame on Avila," said Hank, "but he certainly is not living up to expectations. He is not a .200 hitter and I'm sure we would be considerably closer if he were out of that class." Avila is hitting .217—124 points lower than his 1954 average and 55 points in arrears of his '55 mark—and has been benched by Manager Al Lopez in favor of George Strickland.

Greenberg said Garcia also has been a major disappointment. The chunky righthander has only a 6-8 won-lost record and an earned run average of 4.08. He has been a soft touch for New York and Chicago and hasn't been much of a mystery to the second division teams.

"We were hoping Mike would snap back," said the general manager, "but you must play better than .500 ball to win.

"Our biggest drawback has been hitting. We have been getting some fair hitting, but the Yankees get their hits when they count."

Since June 14, the Indians have played .621 ball, which normally would be a pennant-winning pace. They have won 18 of 29 games, but lost eight of their 11 setbacks to New York and Chicago.

Greenberg said another factor which has hurt the Redskins are injuries. Outfielder Gene Woodling was out for several weeks, Al Rosen was on the injury list for some time and now ace reliefer Ray Narleski is on the shelf with a bum elbow.

Lacks Replacements

"We don't have the real replacements to offset those losses," Hank asserted. "We have to be functioning at top speed to do the job. The Yankees' replacements are stronger than ours—and I'm trying to do something about that now."

Greenberg admitted he has been in touch with other clubs in the last few days in an effort to make a strengthening deal, but he refused to say which clubs. He did not disclose which minor leaguers would be brought up before July 31, although he said they likely would be called from the Tribe's triple A Indianapolis club.

Newcombe Denies Calling Umpires "Gutless Bums"

CINCINNATI, July 17 —(INS)—Brooklyn pitcher Don Newcombe called on the carpet by National League president Warren Giles, denied today that he called the league's umpires "gutless bums" during a beanball warning incident last Sunday.

Manager Walt Alston removed the pitcher from a game with the Chicago Cubs to protect him from possible 10-day suspension after he was warned against throwing too close to the hitters.

The angry pitcher was quoted by a news service as calling the umpires "gutless bums." After a session with Giles today, Newcombe issued a signed statement saying:

"I emphatically deny that I ever said any such thing. I just did not say that or anything like that."

Giles said the incident was due to the "tension and short tempers" created by the close pennant race. He added:

"The only regrettable feature of such a race is that the umpires' job becomes much harder and, unfortunately, subjects them to unjustified criticism. Of one thing I am certain — all our umpires have unbounded courage and integrity and are doing a great job in a close, tense race."

Giants' Protest Denied By Giles

CINCINNATI, July 17 (INS)—National League president Warren Giles tonight denied a protest lodged by New York Manager Bill Rigney during the Giants-Cardinals game July 13 at St. Louis.

The protest stemmed from a play on which umpires Art Gore and Henry Crawford made conflicting calls simultaneously.

With New York leading, 4 to 3, and one out in the fifth inning, Ken Boyer hit a ball to left field which Hank Thompson trapped. Gore called it "safe" and Crawford calle it "out."

Thompson threw to third and Don Blasingame was forced. After a few moments delay, the ball was thrown to second and Alvin Dark was forced. Dark, however, had seen only Crawford's "out" sign and had retreated to first.

After a hasty meeting, the umpires ruled Blasingame forced at third but permitted Dark to occupy second. Rigney then lodged his protest.The next batter, Rip Repulski, went out to end the inning.

Giles said that there was "no substntial evidence that the final outcome of the game (which St. Louis won, 7 to 5) would have been different had they ruled otherwise."

Webb, Mims Meet In Chicago Bout

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP)—Ellsworth (Spider) Webb, only two months out of military service, takes on experienced Holly Mims in a 10-round middleweight bout at Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

The nationally televised fight (ABC) serves as a replacement for two other matches that failed to materialize because of injuries to the participants.

Originally, Willie Pastrano and John Holman were to mix it up in a heavyweight engagement. Holman was ruled out with an infected eye. Then Archie McBride was called in to meet Pastrano. But Pastrano last week end suffered a back injury and had to withdraw.

Downey, Glick Lose Matches At Huntington

Ann Quast Rallies, Beats Miss Bailey

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 17 (AP) — Ann Quast, medalist from Everett, Wash., won the last three holes today from Meriam Bailey of Palatine, Ill., to avoid elimination in the first round of the Women's Western Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss Quast, a month shy of being 19 years old, sank a pressure putt of nearly 10 feet on the 185h green for a birdie two. Miss Bailey then putted and missed from half as far away to lose after being two holes ahead with three to go on par 72 Guyan Country Club course.

Miss Quast, who qualified yesterday with a record two-under-par 70, shot 75 and her opponent 76.

Rains Delay Play

Competition and the weather were tough with a heavy downpour of rain, third of the day, forcing a temporary suspension of play.

Among those who fell by the wayside in the first round were the veterans Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Mary Downey, Curtis Cupper from Baltimore.

Miss Lindsay was beaten 4 and 3 by Nan Berry of Quincy, Ill., and Miss Downey one up by Mrs. Berton Craig of Morrow, Ohio.

Pat Lesser, the defending champion from Seattle, was about the only one of the favorites to have what might be called a comfortable time even though she was shooting high.

She was five over par 37 for the first nine, but enjoyed a three-hole lead over Polly Martin of St. Clairsville, Ohio. Miss Lesser made it four up at the 12th and the match ended when they halved the next three holes.

Miss Lesser is at the bottom of the bracket which is topped by Miss Quast.

Comes From Behind

Mrs. Mark Porter, the former Dorothy Germaine from Havertown, Pa., also had to come from behind. She was two down after the first six holes to Judy Anderson of Milford, Ohio. She got even on the next two holes. Her effort included a birdie three on the ninth and she had a three-hole advantage by the 16th where the match ended.

Canadian Swims English Channel

ST. MARGARET'S BAY, England, July 17 (AP)—Jacques Amyot, 31-year-old Canadian from Quebec, opened the English Channel swimming season today when he thrashed through the tricky tides from France to England in about 13 hours and 2 minutes.

It was the first crossing of the year of this difficult 22 mile stretch. Amyot's time was nowhere near a record, but it was a good performance. The changing tides force a swimmer to travel about 40 miles through choppy, chilly water.

Dan O'Connell Fined By Haney

Failed To Run Out Grounder To Long

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—Danny O'Connell's failure to run out a routine ground ball against the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday means that the Milwaukee Braves infielder's next pay check will be $25 lighter.

That fine was levied by Manager Fred Haney after the Braves' 2-1 victory. O'Connell is the first player to be penalized for misdeed on the field since the Braves moved here from Boston three years ago.

First baseman Dale Long had fielded O'Connell's easy grounder in the third inning but the ball rolled up under his right arm. He tried to get it out but just as he reached the bag, the ball dropped to the ground.

O'Connell apparently would have been safe, but he turned off short of first base and headed for the dugout. Pitcher Ron Kline fell on the ball and touched the bag before O'Connell could get there.

Haney ventured the guess that the incident would not happen again in 10 years.

"Not to O'Connell anyway," he quipped.

American League Approves Purchase Of Detroit Club

DETROIT, July 17 (AP) — The American League today unanimously approved the 11-man syndicate that purchased the Detroit Tigers for the record price of 5½ million dollars.

The league advised the club's current president, Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., in a telegram that all club owners approved the group headed by Fred Knorr and John Fetzer, Michigan radio executives. A Knorr-Fetzer bid of 5½ million, a record price in baseball, was accepted by Detroit club directors yesterday. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick quickly gave his O.K. to the group.

The sale still must be approved by trustees of the estate of the late Walter O. Briggs Sr. but that approval is a forgone conclusion.

Mrs. Mae Hartman, Jane Grindle Lead Maplehurst Golf

Mrs. Maxine Jackson had low gross score of 59.

Twenty eight members participated in the tourney.

The second golf clinic for members will be conducted by "Buddy" Rice, pro, tonight at 10 o'clock at the Maplehurst Country Club.

The work, scheduled to start immediately following the 1956 season, will increase the capacity by 8,000.

Cubs Defeat Phils In 16th, Baker's Blow Decides, 3-2

Meyer Is Victim; Banks' Hit In 9th Ties Score At 2-2

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP) — Gene Baker hit a two-out single in the 16th inning today to score Don Hoak with the winning run in a 3-2 Chicago Cubs conquest of the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was the second extra-inning game that Baker had won for the Cubs. He used a 15th inning homer to beat Brooklyn 4-2 here June 1.

Jack Meyer, who became the Phillies' third pitcher in the 16th inning, retired the first two Cubs he faced before Hoak smashed his third double of the game. Baker followed with a blast off the right-field wall but received credit for only a single as Hoak sped across the plate.

There were two out in the ninth when the Cubs fashioned a 2-2 tie. Hobie Landrith opened with a pinch homer. A combination of Hoak's second double, Baker's sacrifice, and Ernie Banks' infield single produced the tying run.

Phils starter Ron Negray had a two hit shutout going into the ninth.

Ann Quast Rallies, Beats Miss Bailey

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 17 (AP) — Ann Quast, medalist from Everett, Wash., won the last three holes today from Meriam Bailey of Palatine, Ill., to avoid elimination in the first round of the Women's Western Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss Quast, a month shy of being 19 years old, sank a pressure putt of nearly 10 feet on the 185h green for a birdie two. Miss Bailey then putted and missed from half as far away to lose after being two holes ahead with three to go on par 72 Guyan Country Club course.

Miss Quast, who qualified yesterday with a record two-under-par 70, shot 75 and her opponent 76.

Rains Delay Play

Competition and the weather were tough with a heavy downpour of rain, third of the day, forcing a temporary suspension of play.

Among those who fell by the wayside in the first round were the veterans Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Mary Downey, Curtis Cupper from Baltimore.

Miss Lindsay was beaten 4 and 3 by Nan Berry of Quincy, Ill., and Miss Downey one up by Mrs. Berton Craig of Morrow, Ohio.

Pat Lesser, the defending champion from Seattle, was about the only one of the favorites to have what might be called a comfortable time even though she was shooting high.

She was five over par 37 for the first nine, but enjoyed a three-hole lead over Polly Martin of St. Clairsville, Ohio. Miss Lesser made it four up at the 12th and the match ended when they halved the next three holes.

Miss Lesser is at the bottom of the bracket which is topped by Miss Quast.

Comes From Behind

Mrs. Mark Porter, the former Dorothy Germaine from Havertown, Pa., also had to come from behind. She was two down after the first six holes to Judy Anderson of Milford, Ohio. She got even on the next two holes. Her effort included a birdie three on the ninth and she had a three-hole advantage by the 16th where the match ended.

Canadian Swims English Channel

ST. MARGARET'S BAY, England, July 17 (AP)—Jacques Amyot, 31-year-old Canadian from Quebec, opened the English Channel swimming season today when he thrashed through the tricky tides from France to England in about 13 hours and 2 minutes.

It was the first crossing of the year of this difficult 22 mile stretch. Amyot's time was nowhere near a record, but it was a good performance. The changing tides force a swimmer to travel about 40 miles through choppy, chilly water.

Dan O'Connell Fined By Haney

Failed To Run Out Grounder To Long

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—Danny O'Connell's failure to run out a routine ground ball against the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday means that the Milwaukee Braves infielder's next pay check will be $25 lighter.

That fine was levied by Manager Fred Haney after the Braves' 2-1 victory. O'Connell is the first player to be penalized for misdeed on the field since the Braves moved here from Boston three years ago.

First baseman Dale Long had fielded O'Connell's easy grounder in the third inning but the ball rolled up under his right arm. He tried to get it out but just as he reached the bag, the ball dropped to the ground.

O'Connell apparently would have been safe, but he turned off short of first base and headed for the dugout. Pitcher Ron Kline fell on the ball and touched the bag before O'Connell could get there.

Haney ventured the guess that the incident would not happen again in 10 years.

"Not to O'Connell anyway," he quipped.

American League Approves Purchase Of Detroit Club

DETROIT, July 17 (AP) — The American League today unanimously approved the 11-man syndicate that purchased the Detroit Tigers for the record price of 5½ million dollars.

The league advised the club's current president, Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., in a telegram that all club owners approved the group headed by Fred Knorr and John Fetzer, Michigan radio executives. A Knorr-Fetzer bid of 5½ million, a record price in baseball, was accepted by Detroit club directors yesterday. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick quickly gave his O.K. to the group.

The sale still must be approved by trustees of the estate of the late Walter O. Briggs Sr. but that approval is a forgone conclusion.

Mrs. Mae Hartman, Jane Grindle Lead Maplehurst Golf

Mrs. Mae Hartman and Miss Jane Grindle were tied with low net scores of 38 in the blind bogey golf tournament held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association at the Maplehurst Country Club, Frostburg.

Mrs. Maxine Jackson had low gross score of 59.

Twenty eight members participated in the tourney.

Tech To Increase Seating Capacity

ATLANTA, July 17 (AP)—Plans for double-decking the west stands of Georgia Tech's football stadium to give Grant Field a seating capacity of 48,000 were announced today by Athletic Director Bobby Dodd.

The work, scheduled to start immediately following the 1956 season, will increase the capacity by 8,000.

Cubs Defeat Phils In 16th, Baker's Blow Decides, 3-2

Meyer Is Victim; Banks' Hit In 9th Ties Score At 2-2

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP) — Gene Baker hit a two-out single in the 16th inning today to score Don Hoak with the winning run in a 3-2 Chicago Cubs conquest of the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was the second extra-inning game that Baker had won for the Cubs. He used a 15th inning homer to beat Brooklyn 4-2 here June 1.

Jack Meyer, who became the Phillies' third pitcher in the 16th inning, retired the first two Cubs he faced before Hoak smashed his third double of the game. Baker followed with a blast off the right-field wall but received credit for only a single as Hoak sped across the plate.

There were two out in the ninth when the Cubs fashioned a 2-2 tie. Hobie Landrith opened with a pinch homer. A combination of Hoak's second double, Baker's sacrifice, and Ernie Banks' infield single produced the tying run.

Phils starter Ron Negray had a two hit shutout going into the ninth.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 17 (INS)—Hold on for this one—it looks as if ole rock-n-roll Elvis Presley himself, in person, will be offered "Lil Abner" on Broadway. He's first choice for the stage musical based on the cartoon, but before torso-tossin' Elvis can say yes or no, he first has to mesh contracts with film producer Hal Wallis who has first call on his services.

Hal, however, is quick to admit he hasn't a story for "Pelvis." There's been some talk that he might steam up one of the old Will Rogers pictures and change it to fit the measurements of his hip swinging hot potato.

But the more Elvis gets around professionally, including the three TV appearances he'll make for $50,000—just builds him up for Hal and the movies.

Bing Crosby and Kathy Grant head in opposite directions for their vacations — but don't think this romance isn't still on. While Bing is fishing off the coast of Oregon with cronies Bill Morrow, Pete Pettito, son Linnie, and Jimmy Van Heusen, an all-stag outing, his favorite girl friend goes south to Mexico.

Kathy, along with Mary Morrow (Mrs. Bill) and Mary Gargan, is off Friday on a "hen" party aboard a chartered boat off Acapulco where the gals will do some fishing themselves.

Both expeditions will be gone about three weeks—then we'll see what we will see with Kathy and Bing.

Whether she ever comes back to make a picture, MGM is still treating Grace Kelly like a favored daughter. At the premiere of "High Society" in Hollywood August 1, all her friends will be invited to "tape" a special message of greeting direct to the princess. The newsreel cameras will make special shots (not shown to the public) of Bing Crosby, Cole Porter, and other celebrities speaking directly to her grace and telling her about the big night. These will be clipped into a special film.

Papa Kelly gave the Rainiers a projection room in the palace for a wedding gift. If they haven't dusted it off yet, this is a good occasion.

Ran into Betty Furness, flashing around town in a new haircut and looking as chic as she does opening refrigerator doors on TV, and she tells me her commercial sponsors have given her permission, for the first time, to make movies.

"If the studios can sell out their inventories to TV, I guess TV can spare me to movies," Betty laughs.

Last year, when the ban was on, she was offered three good screen roles which she had to turn down. Betty's a gay and charming girl and it's nice to have her back where she started from.

Hollywood in shorts:

The Andy Devines winging to Honolulu to join son Tad who is in training there for the Olympic swim meets.

Eva Marie Saint's back in town to rest a week before resuming "Raintree County." She loved Europe—and vice versa.

While my boss, Louella Parsons, is winging TWA to England for the wedding of her goddaughter Barbara Bebe Lyon, and also visiting and writing about the Hollywood stars in London, I'll be holding down this spot. So if you'll bear with me a few weeks—I'll say now, as she does—that's all for today.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 17 — (INS) — The impression is growing in rival dug-outs that the New York Yankees could use their bench-warmers and still win the American League flag.

As Chuck Dressen, Washington's shrewd manager, once remarked: "Casey Stengel has an interchangeable ball club."

When Joe McCarthy was leading the Yanks to so many pennants, the irrepressible Jimmy Dyches, then managing the Chicago White Sox, aroused the McCarthy ire by calling Joe a "push-button manager."

Dykes meant, of course, that if McCarthy needed another star, all he had to do was push a button and the late Ed Barrow, would supply one.

Stengel doesn't even have to push buttons to have general manager George Weiss supply him with more stars. He already has all that any manager could want.

In fact, there would be a wild rush to bid and buy if Casey's bench warmers were thrown on the market, for they would be regulars on almost any other club.

But even Casey would be hard pressed to name his "bench warmers." He can throw most of them anywhere and be sure of a good job.

He can switch Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer, Joe Collins, Norm Siebern, Bob Cerv, Irv Noren and Elston Howard around his outfield with no apparent loss of strength.

He can and does use that same Howard as a fine replacement for Yogi Berra behind the plate. Charley Silvera, who rarely ever gets into a game, would be a first string receiver on some clubs.

He can and does bring Collins in from the outfield to play first base, and he can shove all his other infielders around as the spirit moves him.

It doesn't seem to matter much where he puts Gil MacDougald, Gerry Coleman, Billy Martin, or Phil Rizzuto. They can play anywhere and turn in a bang-up job. Only Bill Skowron at first and Andy Carey at third seem a little out of place at other spots.

But if both are out of the lineup, any of the other infielders can easily fill in for them.

When anybody tells Stengel his club has no pitching, he replies: "Maybe not, but somebody must have been winning all those games for me."

What the critics of Yankee pitching mean is that he hasn't four Walter Johnsons, Lefty Groves or Carl Hubbells. But he has three young prospective 20 game winners in Whitey Ford, Johnny Kucks and Tom Studivant, and three or four others who have winning records to date.

The Yanks of 1927 set an American League record for games won in a season at 110 — subsequently topped by one by the 1954 Cleveland Indians. The Yanks of 1956 are not traveling quite that fast, but they should put more than 100 in the win column.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 17 (INS)—Hold on for this one—it looks as if ole rock-n-roll Elvis Presley himself, in person, will be offered "Lil Abner" on Broadway. He's first choice for the stage musical based on the cartoon, but before torso-tossin' Elvis can say yes or no, he first has to mesh contracts with film producer Hal Wallis who has first call on his services.

Hal, however, is quick to admit he hasn't a story for "Pelvis." There's been some talk that he might steam up one of the old Will Rogers pictures and change it to fit the measurements of his hip swinging hot potato.

But the more Elvis gets around professionally, including the three TV appearances he'll make for $50,000—just builds him up for Hal and the movies.

Bing Crosby and Kathy Grant head in opposite directions for their vacations — but don't think this romance isn't still on. While Bing is fishing off the coast of Oregon with cronies Bill Morrow, Pete Pettito, son Linnie, and Jimmy Van Heusen, an all-stag outing, his favorite girl friend goes south to Mexico.

Kathy, along with Mary Morrow (Mrs. Bill) and Mary Gargan, is off Friday on a "hen" party aboard a chartered boat off Acapulco where the gals will do some fishing themselves.

Both expeditions will be gone about three weeks—then we'll see what we will see with Kathy and Bing.

Whether she ever comes back to make a picture, MGM is still treating Grace Kelly like a favored daughter. At the premiere of "High Society" in Hollywood August 1, all her friends will be invited to "tape" a special message of greeting direct to the princess. The newsreel cameras will make special shots (not shown to the public) of Bing Crosby, Cole Porter, and other celebrities speaking directly to her grace and telling her about the big night. These will be clipped into a special film.

Papa Kelly gave the Rainiers a projection room in the palace for a wedding gift. If they haven't dusted it off yet, this is a good occasion.

Ran into Betty Furness, flashing around town in a new haircut and looking as chic as she does opening refrigerator doors on TV, and she tells me her commercial sponsors have given her permission, for the first time, to make movies.

"If the studios can sell out their inventories to TV, I guess TV can spare me to movies," Betty laughs.

Last year, when the ban was on, she was offered three good screen roles which she had to turn down. Betty's a gay and charming girl and it's nice to have her back where she started from.

Hollywood in shorts:

The Andy Devines winging to Honolulu to join son Tad who is in training there for the Olympic swim meets.

Eva Marie Saint's back in town to rest a week before resuming "Raintree County." She loved Europe—and vice versa.

While my boss, Louella Parsons, is winging TWA to England for the wedding of her goddaughter Barbara Bebe Lyon, and also visiting and writing about the Hollywood stars in London, I'll be holding down this spot. So if you'll bear with me a few weeks—I'll say now, as she does—that's all for today.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 17 — (INS) — The impression is growing in rival dug-outs that the New York Yankees could use their bench-warmers and still win the American League flag.

As Chuck Dressen, Washington's shrewd manager, once remarked: "Casey Stengel has an interchangeable ball club."

When Joe McCarthy was leading the Yanks to so many pennants, the irrepressible Jimmy Dyches, then managing the Chicago White Sox, aroused the McCarthy ire by calling Joe a "push-button manager."

Dykes meant, of course, that if McCarthy needed another star, all he had to do was push a button and the late Ed Barrow, would supply one.

Stengel doesn't even have to push buttons to have general manager George Weiss supply him with more stars. He already has all that any manager could want.

In fact, there would be a wild rush to bid and buy if Casey's bench warmers were thrown on the market, for they would be regulars on almost any other club.

But even Casey would be hard pressed to name his "bench warmers." He can throw most of them anywhere and be sure of a good job.

He can switch Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer, Joe Collins, Norm Siebern, Bob Cerv, Irv Noren and Elston Howard around his outfield with no apparent loss of strength.

He can and does use that same Howard as a fine replacement for Yogi Berra behind the plate. Charley Silvera, who rarely ever gets into a game, would be a first string receiver on some clubs.

He can and does bring Collins in from the outfield to play first base, and he can shove all his other infielders around as the spirit moves him.

It doesn't seem to matter much where he puts Gil MacDougald, Gerry Coleman, Billy Martin, or Phil Rizzuto. They can play anywhere and turn in a bang-up job. Only Bill Skowron at first and Andy Carey at third seem a little out of place at other spots.

But if both are out of the lineup, any of the other infielders can easily fill in for them.

When anybody tells Stengel his club has no pitching, he replies: "Maybe not, but somebody must have been winning all those games for me."

What the critics of Yankee pitching mean is that he hasn't four Walter Johnsons, Lefty Groves or Carl Hubbells. But he has three young prospective 20 game winners in Whitey Ford, Johnny Kucks and Tom Studivant, and three or four others who have winning records to date.

The Yanks of 1927 set an American League record for games won in a season at 110 — subsequently topped by one by the 1954 Cleveland Indians. The Yanks of 1956 are not traveling quite that fast, but they should put more than 100 in the win column.

How Not To Write A Comedy Package

"Joe and Mabel" is a half-hour comedy series which the tall brass at CBS-TV has been wrestling with for a year or so now and, after the first couple of episodes, it's easy to understand their indecision over there. It just isn't very good. On the other hand, it isn't very bad either. I can see why a network with a lot of money tied up in the thing might blow hot and cold but I don't know that the average viewer, with only a half-hour to spend or not to spend, is going to be troubled by any such doubts.

"Joe and Mabel" is about a taxi-driver and his girl, both of whom talk pure Brooklyn or what the script writers like to think is pure Brooklyn. Each episode opens with Joe turning his head in his cab to address a mythical passenger (the viewer) in sublime defiance of the rules of safety and bland disregard of the ordinary customs of cab drivers. At least the cab drivers I ride with generally toss their nuggets of wisdom into the back seat out of the corner of their mouths without taking their eyes off the road, a trick somewhat akin to spitting a figure-eight into the wind.

Some of the pearls of wisdom tossed about on this show: "You know something—traffic wouldn't be half bad if there weren't so many cars on the road." "My girl friend doesn't want to be my girl friend. She wants to be my wife. Also, her mother wants her to be my wife." "Why can't you and Mabel be like me and my girl friend—we hate each other. It makes for a healthy relationship." "Everything in the world is relative—mostly your wife's relatives."

Well, I have always held that as philosophers cab drivers are horribly over-rated, but, Lord love 'em, they do better than that. In short, the whole show has a strained and unreal air about as if CBS just went out of its way to create a comedy series. I can just see a bunch of thinkers gathered around a table over at CBS: "We gotta come up with a package, fellows. Half-hour, situation comedy. Now let's see—what hasn't been done yet?

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of diamonds.

At risk of stressing the obvious, I take this occasion to point out that one trick does not beat a slam. It is for this reason that ace leads against slams are not, in the long run, apt to be nearly as effective as is commonly believed. It is my own policy to shy away from the lead of an ace in such cases unless there appears to be some prospect of an additional trick, either in my own hand or in partner's. An exception is to be noted in the cases where one is persuaded that dummy has a solid suit which will provide discard. There, time is of the essence and the cashing of an ace is recommended as being nice work if you can get it.

West, today, combined his knowledge with a little bit of fortitude and succeeded in defeating what might ordinarily have been an invincible contract.

South's leap to six spades was fully justified and was actually on the conservative side. While there is no possible question as to the propriety of North's jump to three spades, nevertheless it will be observed that there exists a great deal of duplication in the diamond suit.

The jack of diamonds was opened and taken by the ace. While trumps were being drawn, West did some thinking. There was obviously no spade or diamond trick for his side and South surely had the ace of clubs and possibly the queen as well. It appeared that the only hope was to take two heart tricks. When declarer led a heart, West promptly played low. South played the nine from dummy (this is the correct percentage play) and East won with the ten. From this point on there was nothing declarer could do.

If it is argued that West might have lost his heart trick by playing low, the answer is, "What is 30 points more or less when there is so much at stake?"

How Not To Write A Comedy Package

"Joe and Mabel" is a half-hour comedy series which the tall brass at CBS-TV has been wrestling with for a year or so now and, after the first couple of episodes, it's easy to understand their indecision over there. It just isn't very good. On the other hand, it isn't very bad either. I can see why a network with a lot of money tied up in the thing might blow hot and cold but I don't know that the average viewer, with only a half-hour to spend or not to spend, is going to be troubled by any such doubts.

"Joe and Mabel" is about a taxi-driver and his girl, both of whom talk pure Brooklyn or what the script writers like to think is pure Brooklyn. Each episode opens with Joe turning his head in his cab to address a mythical passenger (the viewer) in sublime defiance of the rules of safety and bland disregard of the ordinary customs of cab drivers. At least the cab drivers I ride with generally toss their nuggets of wisdom into the back seat out of the corner of their mouths without taking their eyes off the road, a trick somewhat akin to spitting a figure-eight into the wind.

Some of the pearls of wisdom tossed about on this show: "You know something—traffic wouldn't be half bad if there weren't so many cars on the road." "My girl friend doesn't want to be my girl friend. She wants to be my wife. Also, her mother wants her to be my wife." "Why can't you and Mabel be like me and my girl friend—we hate each other. It makes for a healthy relationship." "Everything in the world is relative—mostly your wife's relatives."

Well, I have always held that as philosophers cab drivers are horribly over-rated, but, Lord love 'em, they do better than that. In short, the whole show has a strained and unreal air about as if CBS just went out of its way to create a comedy series. I can just see a bunch of thinkers gathered around a table over at CBS: "We gotta come up with a package, fellows. Half-hour, situation comedy. Now let's see—what hasn't been done yet?

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of diamonds.

At risk of stressing the obvious, I take this occasion to point out that one trick does not beat a slam. It is for this reason that ace leads against slams are not, in the long run, apt to be nearly as effective as is commonly believed. It is my own policy to shy away from the lead of an ace in such cases unless there appears to be some prospect of an additional trick, either in my own hand or in partner's. An exception is to be noted in the cases where one is persuaded that dummy has a solid suit which will provide discard. There, time is of the essence and the cashing of an ace is recommended as being nice work if you can get it.

West, today, combined his knowledge with a little bit of fortitude and succeeded in defeating what might ordinarily have been an invincible contract.

South's leap to six spades was fully justified and was actually on the conservative side. While there is no possible question as to the propriety of North's jump to three spades, nevertheless it will be observed that there exists a great deal of duplication in the diamond suit.

The jack of diamonds was opened and taken by the ace. While trumps were being drawn, West did some thinking. There was obviously no spade or diamond trick for his side and South surely had the ace of clubs and possibly the queen as well. It appeared that the only hope was to take two heart tricks. When declarer led a heart, West promptly played low. South played the nine from dummy (this is the correct percentage play) and East won with the ten. From this point on there was nothing declarer could do.

If it is argued that West might have lost his heart trick by playing low, the answer is, "What is 30 points more or less when there is so much at stake?"

When six-cylinder cars were introduced into the Belgian Congo, cotton-print artists ornamented fabrics with spark plugs. Wearers became known as six-spark-plug women, the National Geographic Society reports.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 17 (INS)—Hold on for this one—it looks as if ole rock-n-roll Elvis Presley himself, in person, will be offered "Lil Abner" on Broadway. He's first choice for the stage musical based on the cartoon, but before torso-tossin' Elvis can say yes or no, he first has to mesh contracts with film producer Hal Wallis who has first call on his services.

Hal, however, is quick to admit he hasn't a story for "Pelvis." There's been some talk that he might steam up one of the old Will Rogers pictures and change it to fit the measurements of his hip swinging hot potato.

But the more Elvis gets around professionally, including the three TV appearances he'll make for $50,000—just builds him up for Hal and the movies.

Bing Crosby and Kathy Grant head in opposite directions for their vacations — but don't think this romance isn't still on. While Bing is fishing off the coast of Oregon with cronies Bill Morrow, Pete Pettito, son Linnie, and Jimmy Van Heusen, an all-stag outing, his favorite girl friend goes south to Mexico.

Kathy, along with Mary Morrow (Mrs. Bill) and Mary Gargan, is off Friday on a "hen" party aboard a chartered boat off Acapulco where the gals will do some fishing themselves.

Both expeditions will be gone about three weeks—then we'll see what we will see with Kathy and Bing.

Whether she ever comes back to make a picture, MGM is still treating Grace Kelly like a favored daughter. At the premiere of "High Society" in Hollywood August 1, all her friends will be invited to "tape" a special message of greeting direct to the princess. The newsreel cameras will make special shots (not shown to the public) of Bing Crosby, Cole Porter, and other celebrities speaking directly to her grace and telling her about the big night. These will be clipped into a special film.

Papa Kelly gave the Rainiers a projection room in the palace for a wedding gift. If they haven't dusted it off yet, this is a good occasion.

Ran into Betty Furness, flashing around town in a new haircut and looking as chic as she does opening refrigerator doors on TV, and she tells me her commercial sponsors have given her permission, for the first time, to make movies.

"If the studios can sell out their inventories to TV, I guess TV can spare me to movies," Betty laughs.

Last year, when the ban was on, she was offered three good screen roles which she had to turn down. Betty's a gay and charming girl and it's nice to have her back where she started from.

Hollywood in shorts:

The Andy Devines winging to Honolulu to join son Tad who is in training there for the Olympic swim meets.

Eva Marie Saint's back in town to rest a week before resuming "Raintree County." She loved Europe—and vice versa.

While my boss, Louella Parsons, is winging TWA to England for the wedding of her goddaughter Barbara Bebe Lyon, and also visiting and writing about the Hollywood stars in London, I'll be holding down this spot. So if you'll bear with me a few weeks—I'll say now, as she does—that's all for today.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 17 — (INS) — The impression is growing in rival dug-outs that the New York Yankees could use their bench-warmers and still win the American League flag.

When Joe McCarthy was leading the Yanks to so many pennants, the irrepressible Jimmy Dyches, then managing the Chicago White Sox, aroused the McCarthy ire by calling Joe a "push-button manager."

Dykes meant, of course, that if McCarthy needed another star, all he had to do was push a button and the late Ed Barrow, would supply one.

Stengel doesn't even have to push buttons to have general manager George Weiss supply him with more stars. He already has all that any manager could want.

In fact, there would be a wild rush to bid and buy if Casey's bench warmers were thrown on the market, for they would be regulars on almost any other club.

But even Casey would be hard pressed to name his "bench warmers." He can throw most of them anywhere and be sure of a good job.

He can switch Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer, Joe Collins, Norm Siebern, Bob Cerv, Irv Noren and Elston Howard around his outfield with no apparent loss of strength.

He can and does use that same Howard as a fine replacement for Yogi Berra behind the plate. Charley Silvera, who rarely ever gets into a game, would be a first string receiver on some clubs.

He can and does bring Collins in from the outfield to play first base, and he can shove all his other infielders around as the spirit moves him.

It doesn't seem to matter much where he puts Gil MacDougald, Gerry Coleman, Billy Martin, or Phil Rizzuto. They can play anywhere and turn in a bang-up job. Only Bill Skowron at first and Andy Carey at third seem a little out of place at other spots.

But if both are out of the lineup, any of the other infielders can easily fill in for them.

When anybody tells Stengel his club has no pitching, he replies: "Maybe not, but somebody must have been winning all those games for me."

What the critics of Yankee pitching mean is that he hasn't four Walter Johnsons, Lefty Groves or Carl Hubbells. But he has three young prospective 20 game winners in Whitey Ford, Johnny Kucks and Tom Studivant, and three or four others who have winning records to date.

The Yanks of 1927 set an American League record for games won in a season at 110 — subsequently topped by one by the 1954 Cleveland Indians. The Yanks of 1956 are not traveling quite that fast, but they should put more than 100 in the win column.

have that locked up. Husbands—the plain garden variety—are a dime a dozen. Private eyes are dead. Phil Silvers has taken the army out of circulation. Newspaper reporters? Absolutely not. Already, there's 'Big Story' and Peter Lawford and God knows how many others.

"A cab driver? Say, maybe you've got something there, Manny. A cab-driver gets all over town, he meets all kinds of people, he could get into all types of scrapes. Now, maybe he's got this girl friend, see, and she's got a little monster of a kid brother and maybe a battle-axe of a mother."

This is what you might call creative thinking by elimination. Toss out everything that has been done and the residue is your comedy program, a system that might work in gold mining but not very well in television.

Joe and Mabel are played respectively by Larry Blyden and Nita Talbot. They are both attractive people and fairly hep at comedy but I don't think either of them has the stature to carry a comedy series—it takes a comic genius or towering personality or both to make the viewer tune in week after week and this pair just isn't funny enough.

Sooner or later someone was bound to call in a psychologist to analyze rock 'n' roll and the other day WNEW, the cheeky New York independent radio station, did just that. The psychologist was Dr. Benjamin Walstein who delivered a good many opinions on the subject after listening to some records. I was struck by his analysis of that well-known song, "Blue Suede Shoes."

"Well," said Dr. Walstein, "the first impression that I get from it has to do with this business of 'Don't step on my blue suede shoes'—don't hurt me—allow me to have a sense of independence. The interesting thing about this has, I think, to do with the adolescent's desire for some degree of privacy. I think also that there is some sexual component in this in that one may say that the blue suede shoes represent something that has not been tried yet by the adolescent."

This analysis disagrees rather violently with my own. I have always thought that the blue suede shoes is a symbol of mother-fixation. The adolescent is trying to escape from the domination of his mother—the shoes are too tight, see—but at the same time he's warning the girl not to step on his mother-fixation till he's got the thing licked himself. Of course, there's another theory that the kid just wants to keep his shoes clean but that one has been rejected by every psychologist I know.

Gains By Oils, Aluminums Feature Market Session

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Heavy trading and wide gains by oils, ably seconded by aluminums, sparked buoyancy among a variety of selected issues in the stock market today.

By mid-session advances of pivotal stocks ranged to 4 or 5 points but these were shaded slightly in late profit-taking.

The market as a whole, however, was only slightly on the plus side since advances outnumbered declines only by 508 to 404.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 20 cents to $188.50 with the industrials up 50 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

The most active stock was Sunray Oil, up 2⅛ at 27¾ on 61,500 shares. Second was Evans Products, off ¼ at 28¼ on 41,800 shares. Third was Benguet, up ¼ at 2 on 38,200 shares.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 12 advanced.

Steels were generally off fractions as industry leaders huddled secretly to review the strike situation. Both U.S. Steel and Bethlehem lost ¼. Youngstown dropped ⅞.

How Not To Write A Comedy Package

"Joe and Mabel" is a half-hour comedy series which the tall brass at CBS-TV has been wrestling with for a year or so now and, after the first couple of episodes, it's easy to understand their indecision over there. It just isn't very good. On the other hand, it isn't very bad either. I can see why a network with a lot of money tied up in the thing might blow hot and cold but I don't know that the average viewer, with only a half-hour to spend or not to spend, is going to be troubled by any such doubts.

"Joe and Mabel" is about a taxi-driver and his girl, both of whom talk pure Brooklyn or what the script writers like to think is pure Brooklyn. Each episode opens with Joe turning his head in his cab to address a mythical passenger (the viewer) in sublime defiance of the rules of safety and bland disregard of the ordinary customs of cab drivers. At least the cab drivers I ride with generally toss their nuggets of wisdom into the back seat out of the corner of their mouths without taking their eyes off the road, a trick somewhat akin to spitting a figure-eight into the wind.

Some of the pearls of wisdom tossed about on this show: "You know something—traffic wouldn't be half bad if there weren't so many cars on the road." "My girl friend doesn't want to be my girl friend. She wants to be my wife. Also, her mother wants her to be my wife." "Why can't you and Mabel be like me and my girl friend—we hate each other. It makes for a healthy relationship." "Everything in the world is relative—mostly your wife's relatives."

Well, I have always held that as philosophers cab drivers are horribly over-rated, but, Lord love 'em, they do better than that. In short, the whole show has a strained and unreal air about as if CBS just went out of its way to create a comedy series. I can just see a bunch of thinkers gathered around a table over at CBS: "We gotta come up with a package, fellows. Half-hour, situation comedy. Now let's see—what hasn't been done yet?

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of diamonds.

At risk of stressing the obvious, I take this occasion to point out that one trick does not beat a slam. It is for this reason that ace leads against slams are not, in the long run, apt to be nearly as effective as is commonly believed. It is my own policy to shy away from the lead of an ace in such cases unless there appears to be some prospect of an additional trick, either in my own hand or in partner's. An exception is to be noted in the cases where one is persuaded that dummy has a solid suit which will provide discard. There, time is of the essence and the cashing of an ace is recommended as being nice work if you can get it.

West, today, combined his knowledge with a little bit of fortitude and succeeded in defeating what might ordinarily have been an invincible contract.

South's leap to six spades was fully justified and was actually on the conservative side. While there is no possible question as to the propriety of North's jump to three spades, nevertheless it will be observed that there exists a great deal of duplication in the diamond suit.

The jack of diamonds was opened and taken by the ace. While trumps were being drawn, West did some thinking. There was obviously no spade or diamond trick for his side and South surely had the ace of clubs and possibly the queen as well. It appeared that the only hope was to take two heart tricks. When declarer led a heart, West promptly played low. South played the nine from dummy (this is the correst percentage play) and East won with the ten. From this point on there was nothing declarer could do.

If it is argued that West might have lost his heart trick by playing low, the answer is, "What is 30 points more or less when there is so much at stake?"

McKeldin Calls Special Session

Governor, Legislative Leaders Will Meet On Medical Licensing

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today called a special session of the General Assembly to deal with the State's system of licensing physicians.

The governor announced his call for the special session after a one-hour conference with Attorney Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and Assistant Attorney Gen. Norman P. Ramsey.

"This is a serious matter," the governor said, "and I feel that a special session is necessary to correct the situation."

He said he would meet with legislative leaders Thursday morning to confer on what legislation is deemed necessary.

A definite date for the session also will be named at the conference.

Session Not Limited

Whether any other legislative matters will come before the special session also presumably will be determined at the Thursday conference in the Governor's Baltimore office.

Unless the two houses of the Legislature themselves rule otherwise, the Assembly is not constitutionally limited to the subjects named by the governor in a call for a special session. The Constitution specifies only that a special session must be limited to 30 days.

Legislators also may take up at a special session any bills vetoed by the governor after the adjournment of the last session.

The governor's decision to call the special session is the latest move in a developing controversy over the activities of the State Board of Homeopathic Medical Examiners, one of two boards authorized to examine applicants for licenses to practice medicine in the State.

Board Restrained By Court

The secretary-treasurer of the board, Dr. Robert H. Reddick, appeared before Baltimore Circuit Court today to show cause why he should not be permanently enjoined from performing the duties of that office. Trial of the case is scheduled for next Monday.

The governor's call for a special session followed closely a resolution by the Legislative Council calling for such a session. The resolution also asked the attorney general to draft legislation which would clarify the status of the Homeopathic Board.

The council had scheduled a hearing on the activities of the board for today, but recessed at the request of the attorney general until court action is completed.

Probe Delayed

The council, the between-sessions screening group of the Legislature, agreed to delay its probe but kept the witnesses it had summoned under subpoena.

The Maryland Medical Practice Act authorized two boards of medical examiners, one representing the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty to which most physicians belong, the other the homeopathic society.

The law specifies, however, that applicants before either board must be graduates of schools approved by the American Medical Assn., the Assn. of American Medical Colleges, or comparable homeopathic groups.

It dates back to a period when homeopathy and allopathy represented the two principal and opposing schools of practice in the medical profession. The allopathic system has since become predominant and most homeopathic medical schools in America have gone out of existence.

The Maryland Homeopathic Board disbanded several years ago and an effort was made to have the General Assembly dissolve it. The bill did not pass, however, and in 1954 a group including Dr. Reddick reorganized the homeopathic society and the board of examiners.

Criticism Of Reddick

Recently, Dr. Reddick has come under criticism from both the American Medical Assn. and some members of his own board, who have alleged that unqualified persons were permitted to take examinations for medical licenses.

Hillside Plan At New School Wins Approval

Recommendations for stabilizing the hillside above the athletic field at the new Bruce High School in Westernport were approved yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Foundation Associates, Inc., of Pittsburgh recommended a trench filled with stone above the bank to keep the water from draining that area. The company also advocated creosote pilings underground at the edge of the field.

A resolution authorizing Social Security coverage for employes of the Board of Education was adopted yesterday. Custodial and cafeteria employes will vote on Social Security coverage next week, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Permission was granted to Colonel George H. Sibbald, reserve personnel procurement officer of Maryland Military District Army Reserve, for use of the Fort Hill High School auditorium Sunday afternoon, August 5, for a concert by the Second Army Band from Fort Meade. The concert will be in the auditorium only if rain prevents an appearance at the Constitution Park amphitheatre.

Col. Sibbald also got permission for use of the auditorium Monday evening, August 6, for a meeting with boys and their families who are interested in the Army Reserve program.

Brotemarkle Is Low Bidder On U.S. 220 Job

The S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company of this city yesterday submitted the apparent low bid of $706,778.85 to the State Roads Commission for construction of a 4.295 mile section of U. S. Route 220 south of Cumberland.

Most of the project covers a section of U. S. Route 220 from shortly below Rawlings toward McCoole. There also is a short stretch at the north end of Cresaptown in the vicinity of Calvary Baptist Church, where a new culvert has been installed.

Included in the project is grading, draining, surfacing, widening and relocating of the road. There will be a 24-foot pavement.

Two other local contractors submitted bids for the construction. The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted a bid of $710,679.96 and the George F. Hazelwood Company bid $772,376.61.

The bids were opened in Baltimore at noon yesterday by the State Roads Commission. The contract is expected to be awarded in the next two weeks.

Kelly Wage Talks Resume

Daily wage negotiations are scheduled this week between Local 26, Rubber Workers, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

The Kelly local presented its formal request on July 3 for a general wage increase under a reopening clause in a contract which runs until March 1, 1957.

James Stein, president of the local, said talks resumed Monday and are scheduled daily. He did not disclose the specific wage program asked by the union for its 1,750 members.

He said the local is awaiting details of the tentative agreement reached recently between the Rubber Workers Union and the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company.

2 Trucks Leave Highway, Smash Store Display

Drivers Slightly Hurt; Damage High

Heavy property damage was caused yesterday afternoon when two large trucks, including a tractor-trailer, careened off U.S. Route 220 at Triple Lakes and plummeted through a display of pots and pans.

The drivers of both the vehicles received treatment at Sacred Heart Hospital. The accident occurred about 2:40 p.m.

The other driver, Harry E. Crigger, Altoona, Pa., also was treated for a lacerated head.

Both of the vehicles were traveling in the direction of McCoole. Rippeon made an attempt to pass the truck driven by Crigger. As the tractor-trailer approached the side of the other truck, Crigger decided to make a left turn into a general merchandise establishment owned by Peter Yatchyshyn.

The tractor-trailer operator was forced to turn left, and both vehicles careened through a number of pots and pans and other merchandise displayed on the outside of the business establishment.

The truck driven by Crigger came to a stop when it struck a large tree on the premises. The tractor-trailer sideswiped the same tree before coming to a stop.

The drivers are being charged with reckless driving and will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court on August 3, according to Trooper Wade.

Drenching Rain Hits Queen City

Cumberland was completely drenched yesterday afternoon when nearly a half an inch of rain fell in the city within about five minutes.

The skies darkened about 4:10 p. m. and the rains came about five minutes later, sending residents scurrying for cover.

Several sharp claps of thunder were heard over the city during the height of the storm. The temperture dropped about 15 degrees.

Hail was mixed in with the heavy downpour. The officil rainfall, according to a report from the weather station at Constitution Park, was .42 inches.

Partly cloudy skies are forecast for today with the temperature expected to rise about 80 degrees in the west portion of the state.

The unofficial high temperature yesterday occurred about 1:30 p. m. when the mercury reached 82. During the storm it dipped to 67 degrees, and after a slight rising, it leveled off at 70 degrees during the evening.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said last night that rain fell in that section of the state and roads were reported flooded in the vicinity of Martinsburg and Charles Town.

State Police of Pennsylvania said the storm hit the Bedford area about the same time it hit Cumberland. A number of auto accidents were caused on the Turnpike, although no one was seriously injured.

Severe Windstorm Hits Berkeley County

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 17 (AP)—A storm accompanied by winds clocked at 70 m.p.h. swept across a rural area of Berkeley County late today, causing severe damage to grain fields and farm buildings.

First reports indicated no injuries.

Corn and wheat fields in the area were leveled and a large number of farm buildings were reported to have lost their roofs.

Spokesmen for the Potomac Light and Power Co. and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. said it will be tomorrow before they can give any estimate of damages to power and communications lines.

Flying Minister

Rev. T. Roscoe Hall, former pastor of Calvary Methodist Church at Ridgeley and now on leave, is a regular freight and passenger pilot at Cumberland Municipal Airport, logging time for his instructor's and instrument ratings. Afterwards, he hopes to become a flying missionary.

B&O Railroad Dieselization Is Progressing

Some 85 per cent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company system is expected to be Dieselized by the middle of October.

However, the steam locomotive has not entirely been forgotten as a "work horse." Approximately 400 steam type locomotives will remain either in service or in ready reserve.

Cumberland already has received six huge road switcher type Diesels which are being utilized exclusively for yard work at the local terminal.

To date 22 yard switchers have been put to use over the B&O system. In the Dieselization program some 99 new Diesel units have been ordered by the railroad, and 22 have been received.

The final delivery of the remainder of the Diesels (road switchers) is expected to be completed by mid-October, when the railroad will be 85 per cent Dieselized.

Here is the division: freight service 83 per cent of gross ton miles; passenger service 92 per cent of passenger train miles, and yard service 82 per cent of yard locomotive hours.

Already Buffalo and Indianapolis divisions are completely Dieselized and with the delivery of the new units, all B&O service between Jersey City and New Castle, Pa., and Jersey City and Grafton, W. Va., will be Diesel-powered.

AHS Class Of 1946 Reunion Saturday

The reunion will be a dinner-dance at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Saturday at 6:30 p.m., with music for dancing by the Debonnaires.

Jay B. Beneman, a member of the class, will be master of ceremonies. Special guests will include Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, who was principal of Allegany when the 1946 class graduated; Miss Theresa B. Nicht, class advisor, and Coach Walter "Bill" Bowers.

Daniel A. Prager, Washington, vice president of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, will address tomorrow's luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA.

Pilot-Preacher-Repairman Having Busy 'Vacation'

By ALBERT D. DARBY JR.
News Staff Writer

Rev. T. Roscoe Hall is taking a year's sabbatical leave as a Methodist clergyman, but it is not just so he can have 12 months of ease.

As a matter of fact the former pastor of Calvary Methodist Church in Ridgeley is probably working harder today that he has in the past 12 years as an active minister in the Methodist Church.

Rev. Hall, who has been flying airplanes the last eight years, is working six days a week for the Queen City Air Service out of the Cumberland Municipal Airport. He does commercial charter work and occasionally flies passenger planes in non-scheduled air taxi service.

Fixes Radio, TV Sets

But all of his work is not at the airport. In his spare time he fixes radio and television sets for a few friends.

He's also on the job every Sunday filling in as a supply pastor somewhere or other for a clergyman who is away on vacation. His most recent supply pastorate was serving the two churches of Rev. Joseph P. Sheesley in South Cumberland. They are Bethel Evangelical United Brethren at Third and Seymour Streets, and Calvary Evangelical United Brethren at 26 East Mary Street.

Rev. Hall explained that he took his sabbatical leave not because of any lack of interest in his career as a clergyman but in order to better equip himself for future service. He wants to work for his instructor's and instrument rating this year and he was unable to do that while holding down the Ridgeley pastorate.

Once he gets those two ratings the pastor believes he might be able to spread the Methodist gospel as a flying missionary.

Where, he does not know—although he was much impressed with the Republic of Haiti during a visit there in February. Others on that trip were Rev. Everett W. Culp, pastor of First Methodist Church, and Mrs. Culp, the flyer's brother, Rev. Winfield Hall, former pastor of Mt. Savage Methodist Church but now a Baltimore clergy, and Rev. Gordon Clews, pastor of the Methodist Church at Williamsport in Washington County.

4 Preachers In Family

Rev. Hall is a native of Shadyside near Annapolis in Anne Arundel County. He is one of four preacher brothers. Besides Winfield there are Rev. Gordon Hall, formerly pastor of the Union Grove circuit east of Cumberland, but now in Florida, and Rev. Lester Hall, who serves a five-church circuit in Virginia.

The flying pastor is a graduate of Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky. He also attended the Asbury Seminary there one year and then completed his theological studies at Westminster Theological Seminary at Westminster in Carroll County.

While serving his first pastorate In Hedgesville, Berkeley County, W. Va., Rev. Hall learned to fly at the nearby Martinsburg Airport in 1948. From Hedgesville he was transferred to the Hyndman, Pa., church and in 1952 he obtained his commercial pilot's license at the Cumberland Airport. The last four years he has been pastor of Calvary Church in Ridgeley.

Rev. Hall is married and the father of two children. He now resides at 610 Washington Street but is looking forward to the end of his sabbatical leave when he will be able to return to a full-time ministry again.

Two More Fire Alarm Boxes To Be Installed

The Cumberland Fire Department expects to have two more fire alarm boxes installed by early next week, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

The alarm mechanisms, he added, will protect the many homes which are being built at the far end of Frederick and Bedford streets.

Chief Parker said the first will probably be installed on Frederick Street at Schlund Avenue and the other on Bedford Street at Warren.

Work on the final stages of the installations is slated to resume tomorrow, and plans call for the box alarms to be tested and placed into service by early next week.

Chief Parker said the extra protection is being provided since the area is building up.

Head Of Eagles Will Visit City

Maurice Splain Jr., Oil City, Pa., grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will visit Cumberland Friday.

Ira M. Boyer, president of Cumberland Aerie 245, has called a special membership meeting Friday night at 8:30 to greet Splain.

Hercules Powder Co. Net Income Rises

Hercules Powder Company reported that for the six months ending June 30, net income amounted to $1.18 a common share, compared to $1.13 for the first six months in 1955.

Net sales and operating revenues for the six-months period were $120,433,778, compared with $112,562,077 for the corresponding 1955 period.

Rotarians Urged To Write For Action On Federal Budget And Accounting Bill

Members of the Cumberland Rotary Club yesterday were urged to write U. S. Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler and Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde now to work for passage of an acceptable budget and accounting bill that could be signed by President Eisenhower during this session of Congress.

Speaking at the regular luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at Central YMCA was Albert D. Darby Jr., chairman of a committee from the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce which has been attempting to stimulate local interest in the recommendations of the Second Hoover Commission.

Darby said that the Senate on June 20 passed S. 3897, which would provide cost-based accounting, budgeting and appropriations as well as performance reports by federal agencies. This measure could save taxpayers up to $4 billion a year.

Last Saturday the House of Representatives passed an amended version of H. R. 11526 which corresponds to S. 3897. The Jaycee speaker suggested that the Rotarians write both Senators Beall and Butler, and Rep. Hyde, to get them to do all possible to reconcile the differences between the two bills so that a compromise measure can be encated and sent to the White House for President Eisenhower's signature.

Members of the bipartisan Second Hoover Commission were former President Herbert Hoover, Senator Homer Ferguson, Congressman Clarence Brown, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization; Solomon C. Hollister, dean of the College of Engineering of Cornell University and Sidney A. Mitchell of New York, all Republicans, and former Postmaster General James A. Farley, Congressman Chet Holifield, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain; Senator John L. McClellan and Robert G. Storey, dean of the School of Law, Southern Methodist University, all Democrats. Senator Styles Bridges replaced Senator Ferguson on the commission after the latter's defeat in 1954.

Men, Women Disagree Politically

Since the registration books were reopened two months ago by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors the men have been regestering predominantly Republican, while the majority of the women voters have been signing up as Democrats.

Some 65 prospective new voters have registered at the Court House since the poll books were reopened May 17, 10 days after the primary election. Thirty-seven or 57 per cent of the new registrants have signed as Republicans, 27 or 41.5 per cent as Democrats and one as an independent.

Of the 37 new Republicans 28 are men and only nine women. On the other hand of the 27 new Democrats only eight are men and 19 are women. The one independent is a man.

The Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement is open each day Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until noon from 1 until 4 p. m. and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Saturday, October 6, will be the final day for registrations before the November 6 general election. Before that time, probably around the middle of September, registrars will make a tour of county communities to sign up those who are unable to get to the Court House to register.

Carnivals Are Planned By Volunteer Firemen

Summer carnivals are being planned by fire companies of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association.

This week a carnival is in progress at Lonaconing, where a street parade is being planned for Friday night.

Next week a carnival is scheduled at Midland, with a parade planned for Saturday, July 28. That same week a carnival will be held at Corriganville.

The volunteers will hold their parade on Thursday, July 26. Firemen of Ellerslie are arranging to hold such an event in that community from August 6 through August 11 with the parade planned for Thursday of that week.

McCoole firemen will sponsor their carnival during the week of August 13-18 with Friday, August 17 set aside as parade night.

Up in Deer Park, Garrett County, the volunteer fire company will hold a three-day carnival beginning on August 16 with a parade planned for the opening night.

Shaft will hold its carnival from August 20 through August 25, with the street parade slated for Friday night of that week.

Sewage Plant Work Ahead Of Schedule

June Brings Project To 86 Per Cent Mark

Cumberland's $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant was 86 per cent complete at the end of June, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

The figure, he said, is based on the value of the work done and material installed, plus the cost of materials and equipment stored at the 10-acre site in South Cumberland.

Work done on the project, including materials and equipment, amounted to 73 per cent of the $1,531,000 contract price and another 13 per cent of the contract price is tied up in materials and equipment stored at the plant.

Sewer Is Built

To lay 370 feet of pipe, crews excavated 380 yards of earth and 180 yards of rock.

Other crews placed 160 square feet of stone paving on the levee which will protect the plant from Potomac River floods.

As the bricklayers erected walls, other crews worked inside the building. The four big pumps, and the motorized valves to control flow of sewage from the station, were set in place.

Roofing was placed last month on the sludge pumping station, the control chamber and the boiler house units of the plant.

Will Aid Plant

At the same time, heating, plumbing and electrical work proceeded in all of the buildings as the structures rose out of the former cornfield.

The sewage treatment plant and the North Branch water line are the contributions of the City of Cumberland toward the $34,000,000 plant which the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is completing at North Branch.

The water line is providing the plant with water for sanitary and standby fire protection purposes, and the sewage treatment plant will reduce pollution in the Potomac River to the point it will be acceptable for manufacturing purposes.

Missing Tots Found Safe

Three young children were reported missing in Cumberland yesterday afternoon, but all three wound up safely at home after some anxious moments, according to City Police.

Two young Washington County girls became lost while selling religious magazines in South Cumberland and ended up by getting their supper at the home of State Trooper and Mrs. J. F. Lewis on Grand Avenue. The girls were Virginia Spangler, 10, RFD 2, Smithsburg, and Caroline Layton, 7, RFD 1, Hagerstown.

Detective George Furstenburg investigated a report from Mrs. Velma Shaffer, Hagerstown, that she left the girls out of her car in the vicinity of Grand Avenue, and could not find them. Trooper Lewis called Police Headquarters in the meantime to report that a neighbor had brought the girls to his house. They had been standing on the porch during the heavy rainstorm.

The girls were turned over to Mrs. Shaffer and returned to Hagerstown about 5:45 p.m. along with four other young girls, who also had been selling magazines for the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

John H. Johnston, 4, of 119 Valley Street, had been missing from his home about an hour when a passerby discovered him weeping as he walked down the Washington Street hill toward the Algonquin Hotel. Police Officer Carl Williams then drove up in front of the hotel with the worried mother and older sister of the little boy, and the family was reunited.

Centre Street Play Lot Lists Activities

According to Shirley Ketterman and Bill Williams, leaders, tomorrow will be Centre Street picnic day and children may bring their lunches to the playground. Races, relays and other games are on the program. Thursday night, the first square dance of the season is scheduled, and a figure caller and instructor will be on hand.

Classes in various crafts will be held today and Friday.

Television And Radio

have that locked up. Husbands—the plain garden variety—are a dime a dozen. Private eyes are dead. Phil Silvers has taken the army out of circulation. Newspaper reporters? Absolutely not. Already, there's 'Big Story' and Peter Lawford and God knows how many others.

"A cab driver? Say, maybe you've got something there, Manny. A cab-driver gets all over town, he meets all kinds of people, he could get into all types of scrapes. Now, maybe he's got this girl friend, see, and she's got a little monster of a kid brother and maybe a battle-axe of a mother."

This is what you might call creative thinking by elimination. Toss out everything that has been done and the residue is your comedy program, a system that might work in gold mining but not very well in television.

Joe and Mabel are played respectively by Larry Blyden and Nita Talbot. They are both attractive people and fairly hep at comedy but I don't think either of them has the stature to carry a comedy series—it takes a comic genius or towering personality or both to make the viewer tune in week after week and this pair just isn't funny enough.

Sooner or later someone was bound to call in a psychologist to analyze rock 'n' roll and the other day WNEW, the cheeky New York independent radio station, did just that. The psychologist was Dr. Benjamin Walstein who delivered a good many opinions on the subject after listening to some records. I was struck by his analysis of that well-known song, "Blue Suede Shoes."

"Well," said Dr. Walstein, "the first impression that I get from it has to do with this business of 'Don't step on my blue suede shoes'—don't hurt me—allow me to have a sense of independence. The interesting thing about this has, I think, to do with the adolescent's desire for some degree of privacy. I think also that there is some sexual component in this in that one may say that the blue suede shoes represent something that has not been tried yet by the adolescent."

This analysis disagrees rather violently with my own. I have always thought that the blue suede shoes is a symbol of mother-fixation. The adolescent is trying to escape from the domination of his mother—the shoes are too tight, see—but at the same time he's warning the girl not to step on his mother-fixation till he's got the thing licked himself. Of course, there's another theory that the kid just wants to keep his shoes clean but that one has been rejected by every psychologist I know.

Gains By Oils, Aluminums Feature Market Session

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Heavy trading and wide gains by oils, ably seconded by aluminums, sparked buoyancy among a variety of selected issues in the stock market today.

By mid-session advances of pivotal stocks ranged to 4 or 5 points but these were shaded slightly in late profit-taking.

The market as a whole, however, was only slightly on the plus side since advances outnumbered declines only by 508 to 404.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 20 cents to $188.50 with the industrials up 50 cents, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Next came Westinghouse Air Brake, up ¼ at 36 and Kaiser Aluminum, up 1¼ at 64.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 12 advanced.

Gulf Oil, up around 5 points at one time, closed with a gain of 4¼. Getty oil climbed 2½, Amerada 1½ and Royal Dutch ⅞.

Alcoa's early gain of around 4 was shaded to 3⅜ by the close. Aluminium Ltd gained 3⅜, and Reynolds Metals ⅜.

Steels were generally off fractions as industry leaders huddled secretly to review the strike situation. Both U.S. Steel and Bethlehem lost ¼. Youngstown dropped ⅞.

McKeldin Calls Special Session

Governor, Legislative Leaders Will Meet On Medical Licensing

BALTIMORE, July 17 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin today called a special session of the General Assembly to deal with the State's system of licensing physicians.

The governor announced his call for the special session after a one-hour conference with Attorney Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and Assistant Attorney Gen. Norman P. Ramsey.

"This is a serious matter," the governor said, "and I feel that a special session is necessary to correct the situation."

He said he would meet with legislative leaders Thursday morning to confer on what legislation is deemed necessary.

A definite date for the session also will be named at the conference.

Session Not Limited

Whether any other legislative matters will come before the special session also presumably will be determined at the Thursday conference in the Governor's Baltimore office.

Unless the two houses of the Legislature themselves rule otherwise, the Assembly is not constitutionally limited to the subjects named by the governor in a call for a special session. The Constitution specifies only that a special session must be limited to 30 days.

Legislators also may take up at a special session any bills vetoed by the governor after the adjournment of the last session.

The governor's decision to call the special session is the latest move in a developing controversy over the activities of the State Board of Homeopathic Medical Examiners, one of two boards authorized to examine applicants for licenses to practice medicine in the State.

Board Restrained By Court

The feuding Homeopathic Board is under court order to refrain from any activity, including the conduct of examinations for licenses.

The secretary-treasurer of the board, Dr. Robert H. Reddick, appeared before Baltimore Circuit Court today to show cause why he should not be permanently enjoined from performing the duties of that office. Trial of the case is scheduled for next Monday.

The governor's call for a special session followed closely a resolution by the Legislative Council calling for such a session. The resolution also asked the attorney general to draft legislation which would clarify the status of the Homeopathic Board.

The council had scheduled a hearing on the activities of the board for today, but recessed at the request of the attorney general until court action is completed.

Probe Delayed

The council, the between-sessions screening group of the Legislature, agreed to delay its probe but kept the witnesses it had summoned under subpoena.

The Maryland Medical Practice Act authorized two boards of medical examiners, one representing the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty to which most physicians belong, the other the homeopathic society.

The law specifies, however, that applicants before either board must be graduates of schools approved by the American Medical Assn., the Assn. of American Medical Colleges, or comparable homeopathic groups.

It dates back to a period when homeopathy and allopathy represented the two principal and opposing schools of practice in the medical profession. The allopathic system has since become predominant and most homeopathic medical schools in America have gone out of existence.

The Maryland Homeopathic Board disbanded several years ago and an effort was made to have the General Assembly dissolve it. The bill did not pass, however, and in 1954 a group including Dr. Reddick reorganized the homeopathic society and the board of examiners.

Criticism Of Reddick

Recently, Dr. Reddick has come under criticism from both the American Medical Assn. and some members of his own board, who have alleged that unqualified persons were permitted to take examinations for medical licenses.

Hillside Plan At New School Wins Approval

Recommendations for stabilizing the hillside above the athletic field at the new Bruce High School in Westernport were approved yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Foundation Associates, Inc., of Pittsburgh recommended a trench filled with stone above the bank to keep the water from draining that area. The company also advocated creosote pilings underground at the edge of the field.

A resolution authorizing Social Security coverage for employes of the Board of Education was adopted yesterday. Custodial and cafeteria employes will vote on Social Security coverage next week, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Permission was granted to Colonel George H. Sibbald, reserve personnel procurement officer of Maryland Military District Army Reserve, for use of the Fort Hill High School auditorium Sunday afternoon, August 5, for a concert by the Second Army Band from Fort Meade. The concert will be in the auditorium only if rain prevents an appearance at the Constitution Park amphitheatre.

Col. Sibbald also got permission for use of the auditorium Monday evening, August 6, for a meeting with boys and their families who are interested in the Army Reserve program.

Brotemarkle Is Low Bidder On U.S. 220 Job

The S. T. Brotemarkle Construction Company of this city yesterday submitted the apparent low bid of $706,778.85 to the State Roads Commission for construction of a 4.295 mile section of U. S. Route 220 south of Cumberland.

Most of the project covers a section of U. S. Route 220 from shortly below Rawlings toward McCoole. There also is a short stretch at the north end of Cresaptown in the vicinity of Calvary Baptist Church, where a new culvert has been installed.

Included in the project is grading, draining, surfacing, widening and relocating of the road. There will be a 24-foot pavement.

Two other local contractors submitted bids for the construction. The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted a bid of $710,679.96 and the George F. Hazelwood Company bid $772,376.61.

The bids were opened in Baltimore at noon yesterday by the State Roads Commission. The contract is expected to be awarded in the next two weeks.

Kelly Wage Talks Resume

Daily wage negotiations are scheduled this week between Local 26, Rubber Workers, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

The Kelly local presented its formal request on July 3 for a general wage increase under a reopening clause in a contract which runs until March 1, 1957.

James Stein, president of the local, said talks resumed Monday and are scheduled daily. He did not disclose the specific wage program asked by the union for its 1,750 members.

He said the local is awaiting details of the tentative agreement reached recently between the Rubber Workers Union and the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company.

The Associated Press reported the settlement involved a general wage increase of 6.2 cents an hour and a supplemental layoff pay plan.

2 Trucks Leave Highway, Smash Store Display

Drivers Slightly Hurt; Damage High

Heavy property damage was caused yesterday afternoon when two large trucks, including a tractor-trailer, careened off U.S. Route 220 at Triple Lakes and plummeted through a display of pots and pans.

The drivers of both the vehicles received treatment at Sacred Heart Hospital. The accident occurred about 2:40 p.m.

Bernard F. Rippeon, 334 Avirett Avenue, driver of a tractor-trailer owned by Abe Feldstein, was treated for a laceration of his forehead, and was X-rayed.

The other driver, Harry E. Crigger, Altoona, Pa., also was treated for a lacerated head.

Both of the vehicles were traveling in the direction of McCoole. Rippeon made an attempt to pass the truck driven by Crigger. As the tractor-trailer approached the side of the other truck, Crigger decided to make a left turn into a general merchandise establishment owned by Peter Yatchyshyn.

The tractor-trailer operator was forced to turn left, and both vehicles careened through a number of pots and pans and other merchandise displayed on the outside of the business establishment.

The truck driven by Crigger came to a stop when it struck a large tree on the premises. The tractor-trailer sideswiped the same tree before coming to a stop.

The drivers are being charged with reckless driving and will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrate's Court on August 3, according to Trooper Wade.

Drenching Rain Hits Queen City

Cumberland was completely drenched yesterday afternoon when nearly a half an inch of rain fell in the city within about five minutes.

The skies darkened about 4:10 p. m. and the rains came about five minutes later, sending residents scurrying for cover.

Several sharp claps of thunder were heard over the city during the height of the storm. The temperture dropped about 15 degrees.

Hail was mixed in with the heavy downpour. The official rainfall, according to a report from the weather station at Constitution Park, was .42 inches.

Partly cloudy skies are forecast for today with the temperature expected to rise about 80 degrees in the west portion of the state.

The unofficial high temperature yesterday occurred about 1:30 p. m. when the mercury reached 82. During the storm it dipped to 67 degrees, and after a slight rising, it leveled off at 70 degrees during the evening.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said last night that rain fell in that section of the state and roads were reported flooded in the vicinity of Martinsburg and Charles Town.

State Police of Pennsylvania said the storm hit the Bedford area about the same time it hit Cumberland. A number of auto accidents were caused on the Turnpike, although no one was seriously injured.

Severe Windstorm Hits Berkeley County

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 17 (AP)—A storm accompanied by winds clocked at 70 m.p.h. swept across a rural area of Berkeley County late today, causing severe damage to grain fields and farm buildings.

First reports indicated no injuries.

The 70 m.p.h. wind measurement was taken at the Martinsburg airport, which was not in the direct path of the storm.

Corn and wheat fields in the area were leveled and a large number of farm buildings were reported to have lost their roofs.

Spokesmen for the Potomac Light and Power Co. and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. said it will be tomorrow before they can give any estimate of damages to power and communications lines.

Flying Minister

Rev. T. Roscoe Hall, former pastor of Calvary Methodist Church at Ridgeley and now on leave, is a regular freight and passenger pilot at Cumberland Municipal Airport, logging time for his instructor's and instrument ratings. Afterwards, he hopes to become a flying missionary.

B&O Railroad Dieselization Is Progressing

Some 85 per cent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company system is expected to be Dieselized by the middle of October.

However, the steam locomotive has not entirely been forgotten as a "work horse." Approximately 400 steam type locomotives will remain either in service or in ready reserve.

Cumberland already has received six huge road switcher type Diesels which are being utilized exclusively for yard work at the local terminal.

To date 22 yard switchers have been put to use over the B&O system. In the Dieselization program some 99 new Diesel units have been ordered by the railroad, and 22 have been received.

The final delivery of the remainder of the Diesels (road switchers) is expected to be completed by mid-October, when the railroad will be 85 per cent Dieselized.

Here is the division: freight service 83 per cent of gross ton miles; passenger service 92 per cent of passenger train miles, and yard service 82 per cent of yard locomotive hours.

Already Buffalo and Indianapolis divisions are completely Dieselized and with the delivery of the new units, all B&O service between Jersey City and New Castle, Pa., and Jersey City and Grafton, W. Va., will be Diesel-powered.

Pilot-Preacher-Repairman Having Busy 'Vacation'

By ALBERT D. DARBY JR.
News Staff Writer

Rev. T. Roscoe Hall is taking a year's sabbatical leave as a Methodist clergyman, but it is not just so he can have 12 months of ease.

As a matter of fact the former pastor of Calvary Methodist Church in Ridgeley is probably working harder today that he has in the past 12 years as an active minister in the Methodist Church.

Rev. Hall, who has been flying airplanes the last eight years, is working six days a week for the Queen City Air Service out of the Cumberland Municipal Airport. He does commercial charter work and occasionally flies passenger planes in non-scheduled air taxi service.

Fixes Radio, TV Sets

But all of his work is not at the airport. In his spare time he fixes radio and television sets for a few friends.

He's also on the job every Sunday filling in as a supply pastor somewhere or other for a clergyman who is away on vacation. His most recent supply pastorate was serving the two churches of Rev. Joseph P. Sheesley in South Cumberland. They are Bethel Evangelical United Brethren at Third and Seymour Streets, and Calvary Evangelical United Brethren at 26 East Mary Street.

Rev. Hall explained that he took his sabbatical leave not because of any lack of interest in his career as a clergyman but in order to better equip himself for future service. He wants to work for his instructor's and instrument rating this year and he was unable to do that while holding down the Ridgeley pastorate.

Once he gets those two ratings the pastor believes he might be able to spread the Methodist gospel as a flying missionary.

Where, he does not know—although he was much impressed with the Republic of Haiti during a visit there in February. Others on that trip were Rev. Everett W. Culp, pastor of First Methodist Church, and Mrs. Culp, the flyer's brother, Rev. Winfield Hall, former pastor of Mt. Savage Methodist Church but now a Baltimore clergy, and Rev. Gordon Clews, pastor of the Methodist Church at Williamsport in Washington County.

4 Preachers In Family

Rev. Hall is a native of Shadyside near Annapolis in Anne Arundel County. He is one of four preacher brothers. Besides Winfield there are Rev. Gordon Hall, formerly pastor of the Union Grove circuit east of Cumberland, but now in Florida, and Rev. Lester Hall, who serves a five-church circuit in Virginia.

The flying pastor is a graduate of Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky. He also attended the Asbury Seminary there one year and then completed his theological studies at Westminster Theological Seminary at Westminster in Carroll County.

While serving his first pastorate in Hedgesville, Berkeley County, W. Va., Rev. Hall learned to fly at the nearby Martinsburg Airport in 1948. From Hedgesville he was transferred to the Hyndman, Pa., church and in 1952 he obtained his commercial pilot's license at the Cumberland Airport. The last four years he has been pastor of Calvary Church in Ridgeley.

Rev. Hall is married and the father of two children. He now resides at 610 Washington Street but is looking forward to the end of his sabbatical leave when he will be able to return to a full-time ministry again.

Two More Fire Alarm Boxes To Be Installed

The Cumberland Fire Department expects to have two more fire alarm boxes installed by early next week, according to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker.

The alarm mechanisms, he added, will protect the many homes which are being built at the far end of Frederick and Bedford streets.

Chief Parker said the first will probably be installed on Frederick Street at Schlund Avenue and the other on Bedford Street at Warren.

Work on the final stages of the installations is slated to resume tomorrow, and plans call for the box alarms to be tested and placed into service by early next week.

Chief Parker said the extra protection is being provided since the area is building up.

Head Of Eagles Will Visit City

Maurice Splain Jr., Oil City, Pa., grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will visit Cumberland Friday.

Ira M. Boyer, president of Cumberland Aerie 245, has called a special membership meeting Friday night at 8:30 to greet Splain.

Men, Women Disagree Politically

Since the registration books were reopened two months ago by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors the men have been regestering predominantly Republican, while the majority of the women voters have been signing up as Democrats.

Some 65 prospective new voters have registered at the Court House since the poll books were reopened May 17, 10 days after the primary election. Thirty-seven or 57 per cent of the new registrants have signed as Republicans, 27 or 41.5 per cent as Democrats and one as an independent.

Of the 37 new Republicans 28 are men and only nine women. On the other hand of the 27 new Democrats only eight are men and 19 are women. The one independent is a man.

The Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement is open each day Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until noon from 1 until 4 p. m. and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Saturday, October 6, will be the final day for registrations before the November 6 general election. Before that time, probably around the middle of September, registrars will make a tour of county communities to sign up those who are unable to get to the Court House to register.

Sewage Plant Work Ahead Of Schedule

June Brings Project To 86 Per Cent Mark

Cumberland's $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant was 86 per cent complete at the end of June, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

The figure, he said, is based on the value of the work done and material installed, plus the cost of materials and equipment stored at the 10-acre site in South Cumberland.

Work done on the project, including materials and equipment, amounted to 73 per cent of the $1,531,000 contract price and another 13 per cent of the contract price is tied up in materials and equipment stored at the plant.

Sewer Is Built

To lay 370 feet of pipe, crews excavated 380 yards of earth and 180 yards of rock.

Other crews placed 160 square feet of stone paving on the levee which will protect the plant from Potomac River floods.

Clearing of the site of the Evitts Creek pumping station, the last major unit of the sewage treatment system, was started in June.

As the bricklayers erected walls, other crews worked inside the building. The four big pumps, and the motorized valves to control flow of sewage from the station, were set in place.

Roofing was placed last month on the sludge pumping station, the control chamber and the boiler house units of the plant.

Will Aid Plant

At the same time, heating, plumbing and electrical work proceeded in all of the buildings as the structures rose out of the former cornfield.

The sewage treatment plant and the North Branch water line are the contributions of the City of Cumberland toward the $34,000,000 plant which the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is completing at North Branch.

The water line is providing the plant with water for sanitary and standby fire protection purposes, and the sewage treatment plant will reduce pollution in the Potomac River to the point it will be acceptable for manufacturing purposes.

Missing Tots Found Safe

Three young children were reported missing in Cumberland yesterday afternoon, but all three wound up safely at home after some anxious moments, according to City Police.

Two young Washington County girls became lost while selling religious magazines in South Cumberland and ended up by getting their supper at the home of State Trooper and Mrs. J. F. Lewis on Grand Avenue. The girls were Virginia Spangler, 10, RFD 2, Smithsburg, and Caroline Layton, 7, RFD 1, Hagerstown.

Detective George Furstenburg investigated a report from Mrs. Velma Shaffer, Hagerstown, that she left the girls out of her car in the vicinity of Grand Avenue, and could not find them. Trooper Lewis called Police Headquarters in the meantime to report that a neighbor had brought the girls to his house. They had been standing on the porch during the heavy rainstorm.

The girls were turned over to Mrs. Shaffer and returned to Hagerstown about 5:45 p.m. along with four other young girls, who also had been selling magazines for the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

John H. Johnston, 4, of 119 Valley Street, had been missing from his home about an hour when a passerby discovered him weeping as he walked down the Washington Street hill toward the Algonquin Hotel. Police Officer Carl Williams then drove up in front of the hotel with the worried mother and older sister of the little boy, and the family was reunited.

Centre Street Play Lot Lists Activities

According to Shirley Ketterman and Bill Williams, leaders, tomorrow will be Centre Street picnic day and children may bring their lunches to the playground. Races, relays and other games are on the program. Thursday night, the first square dance of the season is scheduled, and a figure caller and instructor will be on hand.

Classes in various crafts will be held today and Friday.

Rotarians Urged To Write For Action On Federal Budget And Accounting Bill

Members of the Cumberland Rotary Club yesterday were urged to write U. S. Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler and Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde now to work for passage of an acceptable budget and accounting bill that could be signed by President Eisenhower during this session of Congress.

Speaking at the regular luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at Central YMCA was Albert D. Darby Jr., chairman of a committee from the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce which has been attempting to stimulate local interest in the recommendations of the Second Hoover Commission.

Darby said that the Senate on June 20 passed S. 3897, which would provide cost-based accounting, budgeting and appropriations as well as performance reports by federal agencies. This measure could save taxpayers up to $4 billion a year.

Last Saturday the House of Representatives passed an amended version of H. R. 11526 which corresponds to S. 3897. The Jaycee speaker suggested that the Rotarians write both Senators Beall and Butler, and Rep. Hyde, to get them to do all possible to reconcile the differences between the two bills so that a compromise measure can be encated and sent to the White House for President Eisenhower's signature.

Members of the bipartisan Second Hoover Commission were former President Herbert Hoover, Senator Homer Ferguson, Congressman Clarence Brown, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization; Solomon C. Hollister, dean of the College of Engineering of Cornell University and Sidney A. Mitchell of New York, all Republicans, and former Postmaster General James A. Farley, Congressman Chet Holifield, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain; Senator John L. McClellan and Robert G. Storey, dean of the School of Law, Southern Methodist University, all Democrats. Senator Styles Bridges replaced Senator Ferguson on the commission after the latter's defeat in 1954.
